Nashville Integration Foes Dealt Blow

U.S. District Court Forbids Interference

Restraining Order Issued; Injunction Hearing Monday

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12 (AP)—Federal Judge William E. Miller issued a strongly worded temporary court order today forbidding interference with officials carrying out his orders to desegregate Nashville schools.

Nashville city and school officials asked for the temporary restraining order to strengthen their hands against violence which has accompanied desegregation of first grades here.

The Clinton-type order forbids 12 individuals and anybody else acting in concert with them from interfering with school attendance in any manner.

The defendants include Northern segregationist John Kasper, who already has been convicted twice of violating similar injunctions during school integration violence in Clinton, Tenn., last year.

The move in U.S. District Court came during the second day of uneasy calm which has replaced the violence accompanying admission of 15 Negro first-graders to six formerly all-white schools Monday.

School Dynamited

The violence reached its peak early Tuesday with a dynamite blast which ripped open one of the newly integrated schools. Impatient police promptly turned tough and made dozens of arrests as they kept all demonstrators well scattered away from the key schools.

The Negro first-graders were admitted in the first step of a desegregation plan approved by Judge Miller.

The plan made 126 Negroes eligible to enter mixed classes. But most of them elected to transfer to Negro schools. Nashville has 3,500 first-graders, including 2,000 whites among a total enrollment of about 18,000.

Judge Miller set a hearing for Monday at 1 p.m. on whether an injunction should be issued to replace the restraining order.

18 Affidavits Read

Eighteen affidavits relating incidents of violence, threats and intimidation were read in court in support of the injunction petition presented by school board lawyers. Attorneys filed sample copies of Kasper handbills and 67 pictures of meetings he addressed here recently.

The order prohibits the defendants from "further interfering, by acts of trespass, boycott or picket, with the free operation of schools within the city of Nashville."

It also forbids them "from in any manner deterring the attendance at school of children" or "threatening or intimidating the school children or their parents" or "school officials or employes."

Syria Reports Army, Egyptian Forces Unified

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 12 (AP)—Syria's army chief of staff announced today that the Syrian and Egyptian armies are a single force under Egypt's supreme command.

The Syrian army leadership has been characterized as pro-Soviet. Forces of both Egypt and Syria are equipped with Soviet arms.

Brig. Afif Bizry, who made a dramatic appearance here yesterday with his Intelligence chief, Lt. Col Abdel Hamid Serraj, ended what he said were very amiable talks with Egyptian leaders and prepared to return to Damascus.

In an interview with the Egyptian Middle East News Agency, Bizry said he came here on a pilgrimage to see President Nasser and visited Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egyptian defense minister, "because it is the first duty of a soldier to contact his commander."

The Syrian leader, known in the Middle East as one of the most pro-Soviet Arab leaders, said his talks with Nasser and Egyptian military officials were "very amiable and there was a general review of the situation, as the two armies are one, with one command and one plan.

"It was reported we made new plans to meet the situation. But the truth is there is always a standing unified plan amended according to circumstances."

Bizry said Syria will not use its Soviet-supplied arms to attack anyone, including Israel.

"What we will do is fight back against any attack," he said. "We will burn the sky and the land to defend our country against Zionists or others."

In other statements Bizry said: The Soviet Union had never asked Syria to sacrifice its independence; 2. predicted the Arab countries getting U.S. arms will never use them against other Arabs, and 3. accused Secretary of State Dulles of waging a war of nerves against Syria.

Steel Record Set

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Steel production in the United States in the first eight months of 1957 set a record high of 78,710,279 net tons, the American Iron & Steel Institute said. This compared with 72,300,000 tons in the first eight months of last year, when output was crippled by a strike in July. The previous record — 76,600,000 tons—was scored in the first eight months of 1953.

Cuba Favors UN Sanctions Against USSR

General Assembly Vote Slated Today On Condemnation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Cuba told the United Nations today it should expel the present representatives of Hungary and consider sanctions against the Soviet Union.

The demand came as the special Assembly session headed toward approval by a substantial margin of a 37-nation resolution condemning a new Soviet action in crushing the Hungarian revolt of last fall. A vote is expected late tomorrow.

Stronger Resolution Urged

Cuba's Emilio Nunez-Portuondo expressed dissatisfaction with the resolution because it did not provide for sanctions against the Soviet Union for refusing to heed previous U.N. resolutions on Hungary. Sanctions could mean diplomatic, economic, or military restrictions by U.N. members against the Russians.

Nunez-Portuondo said also the resolution was incomplete because it did not call for expulsion of representatives of the regime of Premier Janos Kadar from the United Nations. He expressed hope that the 12th General Assembly opening on Tuesday would refuse to recognize their credentials.

Nunez - Portuondo denounced Kadar as a "traitor" and declared, "It is too much for us to admit representatives of the Kdar government when there is proof they are not the legal representatives of the Hungarian people."

Cuba To Vote For Censure

He asserted the United Nations could not go on permitting the Soviet Union "to make a farce" of U.N. resolutions.

But the Cuban said he would vote for the 37-nation resolution, which condemns the Russians for repressive measures against the Hungarian people, and names Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, Assembly president, as a special representative to negotiate with the Russians on achieving U.N. aims for Hungary.

12th Consecutive Daughter Born To N. J. Woman

MORRISTOWN, N.J., Sept. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Raymond Beston gave birth to her 12th daughter yesterday—a medical rarity. She has no sons.

Doctors said the chances of having 12 of a kind are "slimmer than slim."

The 41-year-old mother and her husband, a nightwatchman at the Morris County Courthouse, wanted a girl.

"We wouldn't know what to do with a boy," she told a reporter.

The Bestons have 11 daughters. The third child died at birth.

The latest arrival, weighing in a Morristown Memorial Hospital at 8 pounds, 2½ ounces, was named Madonna Grace. Mother and baby are fine.

Nixon Report Denied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Secret Service today denied published reports that it had increased its detail of men guarding Vice President Nixon.

Also a spokesman for the FBI said that agency had heard nothing to substantiate similar reports that threats had been made against Nixon's life.

U.S. Denounces Kremlin Leaders As Reactionaries

Justice Black And Bride

Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black and his bride are all smiles as they pose in the garden of their home in Alexandria, Va., yesterday. The couple was married Wednesday night. The bride, who has been Black's secretary since March, 1955, was divorced some years ago from Fred E. DeMeritte, Fairfield, Ala. Heaviest Fire Is Reserved For Gromyko

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—In a blistering attack on Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the United States today charged he is trying deliberately to destroy the "bridges of understanding" which sustain hopes for world peace.

The State Department issued a formal statement deploring Gromyko's accusations against the West of two days ago. It called him a blusterer, a falsifier, intemperate and a follower of the tough Stalinist line which the Soviets themselves have rejected as hampering world peace.

"We had hoped for better things," the statement said.

Then, returning a favorite phrase of Soviet propaganda against the United States, it said: "But it seems that the Soviet Communists are, in all respects, confirmed reactionaries who can only replay the old wearisome tunes of which the world has grown tired."

Stage Set For Hot Debate

The statement said Gromyko is trying again "to frighten the free nations from taking action to reinforce their freedom," and asserted the attempt will fail, just as it failed before.

Taken together, Gromyko's denunciation of Western policy for Europe, the Middle East and the Far East plus America's reaction looked like opening salvos in what may prove to be a classic debate between Gromyko and Secretary of State Dulles at the United Nations General Assembly.

Dulles will address the Assembly starting its 1957 regular session next Tuesday. Gromyko is flying from Moscow in a Soviet TU104 jet airliner to attend the session.

The lines for the Dulles - Gromyko clash already are drawn. Gromyko, apparently acting in part to take the sting out of accusations before the United Nations against the Red Army's crushing of the Hungarian revolt, attacked first.

Gromyko's Charges

In a Moscow news conference Tuesday he accused the United States of threatening to attack Syria, wrecking the London disarmament talks and blocking German reunification.

On the same day, Dulles tempered U.S. expressions of alarm over the Syrian situation. He told his news conference he felt it could be settled peacefully. This attitude, coming after urgent airlifting of arms to neighbors of Syria and expressions of deep concern, was interpreted as being aimed partly at undercutting possible Soviet charges before the United Nations that the United States was just as guilty of aggressive action in Syria as it accused Russia of being in Hungary.

Lebanon-Syria Border Battle Erupts; 10 Die

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 12 (AP)—Lebanese gendarmes and a band of unidentified armed men fought a 45-minute battle today on the border between Lebanon and leftist-governed Syria. Ten persons were killed, including four gendarmes.

The battle stepped up tension again on the border between the two Arab countries. There has been comparative quiet for 10 days, since the Lebanese government clamped down on smuggling small arms from Syria into Lebanon.

Today's battle broke out amid diplomatic efforts to heal the quarrel which has been going on for months.

An Interior Ministry report said a gendarme patrol encountered the band as it was crossing the border in a hilly district in northern Lebanon. The band fired on the gendarmes when ordered to halt. A number of gendarmes and members of the band were injured and rushed to hospital.

Interior Ministry officials said they still do not know whether the band comprised Lebanese or Syrians.

Reinforcements were rushed to the area and patrols along the border were increased.

Winds Thwart Plan For Evening A-Blast

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., Sept. 12 (AP)—Scientists' plans to touch off an unprecedented evening nuclear test blast were thwarted today by adverse winds.

Anxious to close out the summer test series, the scientists this afternoon scheduled a small shot for 5 p.m.—the latest hour at which a shot ever had been planned here.

At the 3 p.m. weather briefing, however, it was announced that winds were unfavorable and if the shot were fired there would be an unfavorable fallout pattern at Hiko, Nev., east of the test site.

Most shots are just before dawn. In 1951 and 1955 there were tests at midday.

Flu Vaccine Released

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Release of 1,724,672 doses of Asian flu vaccine was announced today by the Public Health Service. The total consists of 1,338,272 doses for civilian use and 286,400 for the armed services.

This was the largest quantity announced at any one time since the vaccine first became available Aug. 12. A total of 5,430,442 doses has now been released.

Israel Urges U.S. Take Strong Stand In Mideast Crisis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Israel urged the United States today to make crystal clear that this country will meet any Middle East aggression with "all available deterrents."

The formal appeal was relayed from the Israeli government by Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban in a conference with Secretary of State Dulles.

Eban said after the meeting that he told Dulles Israel believes massive arms shipments—such as those sent by the United States to Jordan and by Russia to Egypt and Syria—are the wrong answers to the Middle East problem.

"The Western Powers would be better advised to strengthen the social and economic situation in the Middle East," Eban said.

The ambassador told reporters he sketched for Dulles the broad outlines of Israel's attitude toward Mideast arms buildups and Syria's takeover by pro-Soviet forces. He said he would meet again with Dulles to provide specific details.

Eban disclosed officially that Israel is pressing the United States for fulfillment of its standing requests for economic aid. He said the two-year-old Israeli request to buy U.S. arms is shelved for the time being.

Eban said he made his presentation to Dulles in light of the congressional resolution on Middle East policy and other American expressions of determination to block aggression and the spread of communism in the strategic area.

"We believe it vitally important to strengthen all available deterrents against agression in the integrity or independence of Middle East states, including Israel."

Eban said hostility in the area has caused Israel to shift its budget emphasis from peaceful pursuits to more defense spending. He said Israel was not fearful of immediate attack but felt menaced by the "lengthening shadow of war cast over the area."

Detroit Mayor Cobo Dies Of Heart Attack

DETROIT, Sept. 12 (AP)—Albert E. Cobo, Detroit's mayor since 1950, died tonight of a heart attack. He was 63 and the attack was the second he had suffered in five years.

The mayor collapsed at his home at 9:30 a.m., shortly after the arrival of a doctor he had summoned because of recurring chest pains. He had returned to Detroit only last night from Washington, where he had testified in a gas case before the Federal Power Commission.

He was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor last year.

Dr. Basil B. Hunter said Cobo told him he felt chest pains in Washington but did not consult a doctor there.

Electric Plants Use 12 Per Cent More Coal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The National Coal Assn. today reported a 12 per cent increase in the use of coal last year by electric utility plants.

Last year's consumption reached a new high of 153,500,000 tons, the association said, compared with 136,600,000 tons in 1955.

Sen. Proxmire Asks Ike To Fire Benson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis) today asked President Eisenhower to fire Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

This, Proxmire said, would be in accordance with the will of the people. He said this was demonstrated by his election victory last month.

In a telegram to the President, the freshman senator said a recheck of the Aug. 27 ballots "is an unmistakable repudiation of Secretary Benson and the farm policies which he has advocated."

Kasper Still Behind Bars, Only Scene Is Different

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12 (AP)—After lunching on cabbage and cornbread, roaming segregationist John Kasper of New Jersey was turned out of the City Workhouse today on a $600 appeal bond.

His freedom ended a few moments later, however, behind the County Jail bars where he was held on a state charge of inciting others to riot.

The city and state charges stemmed from Kasper's recent anti-integration activities here.

The appeal bond was posted by Porter Freeman of nearby Nolensville, a feed merchant and frequent candidate for local offices. Kasper spent 24 hours in the workhouse after being fined in City Court.

The lanky segregationist spent this morning wiping workhouse bars with a dusting rag. Shortly before noon he wailed:

"I want to see the chief of police. This can't go on."

City officials said they will seek revocation of Kasper's $13,000 appeal bonds on two previous federal court convictions for anti-integration activities last year at Clinton, Tenn., High School.

The self-described "rabble-souser" went to the workhouse yesterday when he couldn't pay a $200 fine in City Court.

He was fined $50 each on charges of disorderly conduct, offensive conduct, vagrancy and loitering for his part in demonstrations against integration of first-graders in Nashville's elementary schools.

Little Rock Crisis Heads For Climax

Eisenhower Calls Brownell, Adams To Newport Parley

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 12 (AP)—The White House announced today President Eisenhower has called two top aides here for his Saturday morning conference with Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus on the Little Rock, Ark., school integration crisis.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Atty. Gen. Brownell and chief White House assistant Sherman Adams will fly here from Washington in connection with the Eisenhower-Faubus meeting, which could effect the future of integration in the South.

Word came from Little Rock, meanwhile, that Faubus will be accompanied by Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), a personal friend of the President.

Governor Sought Meeting

Hays, who has been praised by the President in the past though they are of opposing political parties, represents the district which includes Little Rock. It was Hays who let the White House know Faubus would come here Saturday for the conference which the Arkansas governor sought with Eisenhower.

Indications were the President would talk privately at first with Faubus at their 9 a.m. meeting Saturday. Then Brownell and the others were expected to join in the talk, which is aimed at ending the federal-state deadlock over Faubus' use of troops to block school integration.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty took sharp exception to a broadcast report quoting White House aides as saying Faubus had "thrown in the sponge" in the federal-state deadlock by seeking the appointment with the President and saying he would go as far as he could toward resolving the impasse.

"Completely untrue," Hagerty said.

Ike Denies Radio-TV Comment

He added that the President had instructed him to say Eisenhower denied "radio and television comment" to the effect that the White House thought Faubus has given up.

In Little Rock, Ark., a source close to the governor said Faubus is coming here "to confer, not capitulate."

Charles von Fremd, CBS White House correspondent, said he had attributed the phrase "throw in the sponge" to a White House aide in the broadcast this morning. He said he stood by his report.

The White House plainly hoped Faubus could be induced to withdraw the National Guard troops be ordered out to block a federal court - ordered start of mixing white and Negro pupils at Little Rock's Central High School, current focal point of the controversy.

U. S. Dist. Judge Ronald Davies has ordered the governor and National Guard officials to appear for a hearing Sept. 20 on an injunction against interference with integration.

Blast Damages Chemical Plant

MONACA, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP)—A terrific explosion in a huge tower where Koppers Co. combines chemicals under high pressure to make ethel benzene rocked this Ohio Valley area today but no one was hurt.

Flames leaped high into the sky and nearly 300 firemen battled the chemical-fed blaze for two hours before bringing it under control. Damage was unofficially estimated in the neighborhood of $100,000.

About 1,100 persons work in the plant at Kobuta about 10 miles from Monaca and about 25 miles northwest of Pittsburgh. The blaze was confined to a 150-square-foot area in the 275-acre unit.

Ethel benzene is used in the manufacture of plastics.

The entire plant was closed after the blast. However, all sections but the ethel benzene department will resume work tomorrow.

Treasury To Borrow Three Billion Dollars

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Treasury said today it plans to borrow about three billion dollars on an assortment of long and short-term securities, all carrying a 4 per cent interest rate.

A Treasury spokesman said the borrowing would push the national debt to within half a billion dollars of the legal limit of 275 billion dollars at the end of this month. It now stands at just over 273 billion, but about two billion of this will be paid off by Oct. 1.

The new security offerings, to be opened for subscription next Monday, will consist of 500 million dollars in 12-year bonds, 1¾ billion dollars in a five-year notes and 750 million dollars in one-year certificates.

Teamsters' Boss Pleads Innocent To Tax Charges

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 12 (AP)—Teamsters' President Dave Beck today pleaded innocent to charges he defrauded the government of $184,000 in income taxes for the years 1951-53.

Pleas of innocent to charges of helping Beck evade tax payments were entered in U.S. District Court by Dave Beck Jr., and two Teamsters' Union officials, Fred Verschueren Sr., and Noman J. Gessert.

The four were indicted Aug. 28 by a federal grand jury—Beck on seven counts of tax evasion, the others with conspiracy.

Also indicted on charges of conspiring with Beck to help him cheat the government were Nathan Shefferman, Chicago labor relations consultant, and his son, Shelton.

U.S. Dist. Judge George H. Boldt set Oct. 18 as the date for the Shefferman's arraignment and for a hearing on motions which defense attorneys for the six men are expected to make challenging the validity of the indictments.

The Sheffermans had been scheduled for arraignment with Beck today, but earlier in the week obtained a delay. The elder Shefferman is a close friend of Beck's.

Beck is accused of evading a total of $40,000 in income taxes for the four years, 1950-53. The same grand jury indicted him last May on a charge of failing to pay $56,000 due in income taxes in 1950. Beck pleaded innocent to this charge, too.

Gromyko Will Fly To U.S. Aboard Jet

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (AP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has changed his mind about traveling to the U. N. meeting in New York next week by ship. He is coming aboard the Soviet TU104 jet airliner instead.

It was announced today that Gromyko, who heads the Soviet U. N. delegation; his wife, and several Russian delegates who had obtained visas for ship travel had exchanged them for papers permitting entry into the United States at McGuire Air Force Base, N. J.

The Russian jet leaves Moscow Saturday on its second round trip to the United States.

U.S. Turns Down Deal With Peiping For Newsman Swap

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Red China proposed to the United States today a deal for exchange of newsmen. If accepted the proposal possibly could have been interpreted as a kind of back-door U.S. recognition of the Chinese Communist regime.

The instant American response, however, was to turn the proposition down completely on the ground that no such deal is possible under American law.

At the same time the United States officially informed the Peiping regime that if any Chinese Communist news reporters apply to come to the United States each application will be "considered on its merits."

The Chinese action and American counteraction occurred at Geneva where U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson has been in periodic contact with Red China's ambassador, Wang Ping-nan, for more than two years.

The exchange appeared to leave the prospects for American newsmen getting to Red China in a stalemate. At least there was no indication of early compromise by either Peiping or Washington.

The proposal put forward by Wang was that "the government of the People's Republic of China and the government of the United States of America agree to give permission, on an equal and reciprocal basis, for correspondents of the other side to enter their respective countries for news coverage in order to promote mutual understanding between the peoples of China and the United States."

Since the Reds took over mainland China about eight years ago the United States has withheld recognition and maintained a policy of maximum isolation toward them. Two elements of the Red Chinese proposition today appeared to raise the recognition issue.

One was the suggested statement that the two governments agree to an exchange of correspondents. Diplomats said that if the U.S. government entered into an agreement with "the government of the People's Republic of China" it would at least imply recognition of the Red administration as a legitimate government.

The other element was the statement that news coverage would be for the purpose of promoting "mutual understanding" between the Chinese and American people. Some State Department officials said this was the kind of purpose for which countries sign treaties of friendship and that use of such language could be interpreted as implying the right of the Communist regime to speak for the people of China.

Perfect Squelch Used By Editor

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 12 (AP)—George Brown, night city editor of the Denver Post, listened patiently as the woman caller attacked a story carried by the newspaper, in which racial prejudice was condemned by a former victim of nazism.

"How would you like your daughter to marry a Negro?" the woman asked Brown.

"She probably will," Brown replied. The woman hung up.

Brown, a Colorado state senator and long a Post newsman, is a Negro.

Shot Hunter Improves

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—A 16-year-old hunting accident victim was reported in good condition today at Fairmont Emergency Hospital.

Conservation Officer Howard McCullough said the youth, Phillip Shipley, accidentally shot himself in the left leg while hunting groundhogs with a shotgun.

Penny Newspaper Back For One Day

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12 (AP)—Just one cent.

That's all it'll cost to buy a Philadelphia Inquirer next Monday — for one day only.

The newspaper today announced it would sell each copy next Mondahy for a single penny, launching a week-long promotion to be known as Inquirer Jubilee Week. The last time the paper sold at that price was Jan. 27, 1917, the Inquirer said. The regular price these days is five cents.

Aid Boss Quits With Directive Changing Policy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Foreign Aid Director John B. Hollister bowed out of government service today with a final order halting use of aid funds to finance profit-making industries owned by foreign governments.

The surprise directive, aimed mainly at stepping up the flow of private American investment capital abroad, said private ownership "contributes more effectively than public ownership" to general improvement of economies.

Only in exceptional circumstances, it ruled, will U.S. aid money be used to develop publicly-owned "industrial and extractive (oil-mining)" enterprises overseas.

Spokesmen for the foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, said federal aid funds could still be employed to back such "normal projects" as building of roads, ports and some railways which private enterprise normally does not touch.

As they explained it, a deliberate goal of the new policy also will be to avoid strengthening socialism abroad with U.S. government money.

Newly developing nations in Asia, the Middle East and Africa, they said, probably will be hardest hit by the directive. It will rule out U.S. government financing for such past projects as a fertilizer plant in Korea, a cement plant in Pakistan, and textile mills and a slaughter house in Iran.

Hollister's farewell order was made public a few hours after he said a formal goodby to nearly all 1,700 headquarters employes at a downtown hotel ceremony.

Secretary of State Dulles and the new foreign aid chief, ex-Navy pilot James B. Smith, showed up to laud Hollister's two-year tour as boss of the government's multimillion dollar global aid program.

Army To Draft 7,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 7,000 men in November. This is the same number previously announced for October, and is 1,000 under the September quota.

Probers Denied Access To Civil War Book Files

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Rep. Moss (D-Calif) said today that Secretary of Defense Wilson has barred House investigators from the security clearance files of a Civil War book review.

"Absurd" was the way Moss described the Defense Department's citation of the constitutional separation of powers between Congress and the executive branch as a reason for refusing access to such files.

In a letter to Asst. Secretary of Defense Murray Snyder which Moss made public, the congressman also requested information on Defense Department censorship of speeches by some of the nation's top military leaders.

Moss said the information was needed in an investigation of charges that the Pentagon "is using the excuse of military security to impose policy censorship on the military services."

He said hearings will open Nov. 18 before the House Government Information subcommittee, of which he is chairman.

The book review, written by Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III (Ret.) for Armor magazine, dealt with a revised edition of the memoirs of Confederate Gen. Richard Taylor, first published in 1879. Grant is a grandson of the famed Union general.

Moss quoted the editor of Armor magazine as saying he sought Pentagon clearance for the book review because the book "is critical of the Reconstruction period, which in return is critical of our government."

The review was cleared for publication. Moss said that what he wanted to know was why security clearance procedures were applied to it, and how.

Two Die In Bomber Crash Near Andrews

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md., Sept. 12 (AP) — A B57 jet bomber, flying through soupy weather for a landing here, crashed and burned in a grove of trees early today. Its two crewmen were killed.

Andrews authorities identified the victims as Lt. Col. Frank M. Wyman Jr., 40, of Medford Hillside, Mass., and Maj. John E. Boland, 35, of Chicago.

There was a ceiling of 200 feet and visibility of about a mile when the 600 m.p.h. bomber made its first approach for a landing in darkness. The pilot was ordered by ground control to go around for another try and the order was acknowledged.

An Air Force officer standing outside the operations office heard the plane went into a left turn and then plunged down at a 30 degree angle.

Hounded Negro Leaves School

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Dorothy Counts, one of four Negro children admitted to Charlotte schools last week, is withdrawing from Harding High School.

The Rev. H. L. Counts announced tonight he is taking his 15-year-old daughter from the previously all-white school where students have hounded her in the corridors and outside the building.

"It is with compassion for our native land and love for our daughter, Dorothy, that we withdraw her as a student at Harding High School," the minister said.

"As long as we felt that she could be protected from bodily injury and insults within the school walls and upon the school premises, we were willing to grant her desire to study at Harding.

"Contrary to this optimistic view, her experiences at school on Wednesday disillusioned our faith and left us no alternative."

Yesterday, white boys hurled an eraser and then a sharp pointed piece of tin at Dorothy's back. One group smashed in the rear window of the Counts family car as Herman Counts waited for his younger sister to come out of Harding at lunchtime.

Clendenin Ryan, Stormy Political Figure, Kills Self

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Clendenin J. Ryan, 52, wealthy and tempestuous campaigner for political reforms, shot himself to death today. His body was found in the bathroom of his East Side mansion off Fifth Avenue.

The grandson of the late financier, Thomas Fortune Ryan, he was the third member of the family to take his own life.

His father, Clendenin J. Ryan, Sr., committed suicide by gas in the same five-story town house Aug. 21, 1939. The younger Ryan's cousin, Joseph B. Ryan, who owned the ski lodge at Mont Tremblant, Quebec, leaped from a 22nd floor New York hotel window just seven years ago today.

Clendenin Ryan served in the administration of reform Mayor Fiorello La Guardia in the 1930s and later unsuccessfully sought election on an independent ticket as governor of New Jersey, where he also had a home.

A motive for his suicide was not made known immediately, but he had been in a nervous mental state.

Ryan had been named defendant in a $195,000 breach of contract suit brought by television producer Martha Rountree and Oliver M. Presbrey, her husband. They alleged that Ryan had promised to back them financially in a magazine to be called "Know the Facts."

15 Die In Train Wreck

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 12 (AP)—The official Czechoslovak News Agency announced today 15 passengers were killed and 26 injured in a train collision near Olomouc yesterday. The agency said a passenger train ran into a standing freight train.

President Must Enforce Laws When Governor Can't, Truman Declares

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 12 (AP)—Harry S. Truman said tonight when a governor cannot enforce federal laws "it is the sworn duty of the president of the United States to enforce them."

The former President, without mentioning specifically the segregation issue or any governor by name, made the statement at a news conference shortly before he boarded a plane for New York. He is returning to New York to resume a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Truman Daniel.

Truman said: "When the governor of one of the great states of this great federal Union takes his oath of office, he swears on the holy Bible to support and defend the Constitution of the United States and the constitution of his own state. Laws passed under these constitutions must be enforced by the state chief executive, just as they are enforced by the president of these United States.

"No governor can nullify the federal Constitution or the laws passed and approved by the Supreme Court under it. When a governor cannot enforce these laws and decisions it is the sworn duty of the president of the United States to enforce them."

Previously Truman had refused to comment on the impasse at Little Rock. Asked if he was making the statement today in response to requests, Truman said he was making it voluntarily because he thought it "should be made."

In backgrounding his statement, the former President said in the early 1830s South Carolina decided to nullify certain federal tariff laws.

President Andrew Jackson "informed the nullifiers that if they attempted to interfere with the enforcement of the laws of the United States, he would make a trip to South Carolina and hang all of them for treason."

Hurricane Carrie No Menace To Coast

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 12 (AP)—Carrie, the season's third hurricane, grew in intensity and a little in size today but the Weather Bureau said it is unlikely to endanger any coastal areas of the United States.

Highest winds increased to 110 miles per hour over a small area near the center, with hurricane force winds—75 m.p.h.—extending 30 miles from the center. Gale force winds extend 140 miles north and east and 85 miles to the south and west of the center.

At 5 p.m. the hurricane center was located near latitude 24.3 north, longitude 52.6 west or about 980 miles northeastof San Juan, Puerto Rico, and 1,900 miles east of Miami. It was moving northward at 10 m.p.h. in the Atlantic Ocean.

U.S. Cities To Exhibit Churchill Paintings

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 12 (AP)—Exhibition of paintings by Sir Winston Churchill will be made next winter at galleries in six or eight cities in the United States and Canada.

Joyce C. Hall, Kansas City greeting card manufacturer, said plans to exhibit about 30 paintings from Churchill's private collection had been confirmed by the former British Prime Minister. Hall said all the selections would be made by Churchill.

The exhibition will open here early in February.

Virginia Plans Suit To Block Maryland From Ending Treaty

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—C. F Hicks, assistant attorney genera of Virginia, said today his state will file suit in the Supreme Court tomorrow to prevent Maryland from abrogating its 1785 compact with Virginia.

Hicks called on Gov. McKeldin and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert of Maryland today to serve them notices of the two motions Virginia will file with the high court tomorrow.

One is a motion for leave to file a bill of complaint. The other is a motion for a temporary restraining order to preserve the status quo until the Supreme Court reaches a decision on the bill of complaint.

The Supreme Court probably will give Maryland 30 days to show cause why the Virginia motions should not be granted.

Virginia is challenging the action of the 1957 Maryland General Assembly in ending the 172-year-old treaty which guaranteed Virginians equal fishing rights with Marylanders in the Maryland-owned Potomac River.

Hicks told McKeldin that Virginia is asking the Supreme Court to determine that Maryland cannot, "by its sole act, abrogate a compact for mutual benefit of Virginians and Marylanders."

The Maryland governor said he hoped the issue would be settled to Maryland's advantage.

"But whatever the decision of the Supreme Court," he said, "you can be sure that we shall faithfully obey it."

As the group was posing for photographers, McKeldin said:

"It's always a pleasure to see our friends from Virginia."

Then he laughed and added:

"But don't expect me to shake hands over this."

Hicks was the only representative from the office of Virginia Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. Present with McKeldin and Sybert was Joseph Kauffman, an assistant attorney general of Maryland.

Maryland's Oldest Paper To Be Honored

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—More than 100 newspaper executives, advertising agency officials and other guests are expected here Oct. 1 to honor the Maryland Gazette, America's oldest newspaper.

The ceremonies centered around the weekly paper founded in 1727 will launch National Newspaper Week this year.

Direct descendants of William Parks, founder of the paper, and Jonas Green, long time publisher who acquired the Gazette, when Parks left to establish the Williamsburg, Va. Gazette, will be among the guests.

The Gazette is now published by the Capital-Gazette Press Inc. Talbot T. Sperry is president and Elmer M. Jackson Jr. vice president and general manager.

Jackson said the program for the Oct. 1 program is being planned by a committee from the National Newspaper Publishers Assn.

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States and a former newspaper publisher, will be the principal speaker at a luncheon in Carvel Hall Hotel.

Firemen To Burn Old Grandstand At Timonium

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—The racetrack grandstand at the State Fairgrounds will be burned to the ground next week.

Baltimore County firemen will dispose of the ancient structure, a little each day for four or five days, to make room for a new steel and concrete arena.

The fire will serve the dual purpose of enabling the fair management to dispose of the old grandstand quickly and providing a training exercise for county firemen.

Some of the 25 firemen participating each day will be members of volunteer companies invited to take part.

The first fire will be lighted at 11 a. m. Tuesday. The fire will be put out each day at nightfall.

The wooden grandstand held 2,300 persons. The new one, scheduled for completion in time for next year's state fair, will accomodate 4,000.

Firms Leaving Baltimore Say New Tax Factor

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—Officials of four manufacturing firms said today that Baltimore's new tax on them was a big factor in moving operations elsewhere.

Three of them are moving to Maryland counties and the other to Hanover, Pa.

The city imposed a 100 per cent tax for the first time this year on stock and machinery of manufacturers. Maryland counties, except Anne Arundel, have been imposing a tax less than full value on at least one.

A. Sagner's Son, Inc., a clothing manufacturer, is moving to Frederick and Walkersville. An official said the new city tax is "by far the principal reason." He said about 200 workers in Baltimore will lose their jobs.

Marlboro Shirt Co. is transferring its warehouse and shipping operations to Savage, Howard County. It employs 25 at the warehouse.

The Rowan Controller Co. is in operation at Reese, Carroll County.

Miller Chemical and Fertilizer Manufacturing Co. plans to move all its facilities to Hanover in a five-year expansion program, said W. Newton Long, board chairman. The Baltimore tax was "one of the big factors," he said.

Motorist Drowns In Auto Accident

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—A 58-year-old retired telephone worker drowned today after his automobile plunged off the end of a road near here and into Sinepuxent Bay.

He was identified as Morgan Sharpe, 58, of Ocean City.

Coast Guardsman found his body after spending one hour to raise the submerged car. He was pronounced dead by accidental drowning by Dr. Herman Robbins, deputy medical examiner for Worcester County.

Investigators said Sharpe apparently did not see warning signs at the termination of the dead-end road in time to stop.

The abbreviation T.N.T. stands for the high explosive trinitrotoluol, of the nitro-glycerine class.

BOMBER CRASH SCENE—An unidentified airman views the scene, marked by shattered trees and scattered debris, where a B57 jet bomber crashed near Washington yesterday while attempting a landing at Andrews Air Force Base. Succession Of Flags

CHERBOURG, Sept. 12 (AP)—Three minesweepers built in this French port on American order have been delivered to Yugoslavia under the offshore procurement aid program. In a ceremony attended by U.S. Navy Cmdr. V. B. Cole this week the American flag was hauled down from the three ships, the French tricolor was raised and lowered, and finally the Yugoslav flag was hoisted.

The busiest railroad route outside the United States is the Paris-Lyons main line in France.

Pony Express Moves Across Tennessee

BRISTOL, Tenn., Sept. 12 (AP)—A pony express moved across East Tennessee today.

The express began in Maryland and it will terminate at Fort Bliss, Tex., when a pony named "Reindeer" is delivered to little Danilea Diette.

Danilea, blind in one eye and with partial vision in the other, won the pony last March on a television show. Her father, an Army private, was stationed in Maryland.

Later he was transferred to Fort Bliss. But the family had no money with which to ship the pony to Texas.

The Frederick, Md. Lions Club heard of Danilea's plight and came up with the idea of Lions clubs along the way shipping the little animal to Texas.

Reindeer arrived here today and the Bristol Lions Club took him to Rogersville. From there he will to to Knoxville, Athens, Chattanooga, Fort Payne, Ala. and eventually to Fort Bliss.

The Great Wall of China is the greatest brick construction job ever undertaken. It is more than 1,500 miles long and its building took more than 400 years.

Government Board, Reversing Trend, Busy Putting Itself Out Of Business

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Hail to thee, Edward L. Arpin!

While other government bureaucrats worry over how to increase their operations, here you are, busy putting your board out of business—and yourself out of a job.

Already Arpin and the two other members of the Veterans' Education Appeals Board have whittled their agency from a high of 40 down to one employe. And on Oct. 27, the last employe will transfer to another agency, the board will become history, and the taxpayers will save $35,000 a year.

As Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) told the Senate when, following the board's suggestion, he brought up the bill that would kill it off: "I want to say, Mr. President, this is one of the few occasions I can recall when a bureau of the federal government voluntarily liquidated itself."

The board's entire career has been unusual.

It was set up in September 1950, with President Truman picking this cast: Charles M. Thompson, who now is 80, a retired dean of commerce at the University of Illinois; Jo Zach Miller, now 74, a Kansas City banker; and Arpin, who had been a trial lawyer for an earlier board. By comparison, Arpin is a juvenile. He's 43.

The members were to meet only when they had decisions to make, and were to get $50 for each full day spent on government business. Arpin would stay here as the presiding member and keep shop.

Well, things went along all right. Dwight D. Eisenhower came into office, Republicans bobbed up who yearned for government jobs, but nobody paid any attention to the Veterans Education Appeals Board.

The same members have served throughout its seven-year history.

Furthermore, in a city which thrives on discord, the board has been a study in harmony. Every decision it has made has been unanimous.

"That doesn't mean we always get along," Arpin said. "We just didn't put out a decision until we could agree."

Nor does it mean that all has been rosy. The board had to pass on disputes between schools and the Veterans Administration over what the proper charge should be for educating World War II veterans.

Naturally VA officials weren't happy at having someone peeking over their shoulder.

"They didn't like it a bit," Arpin said. "It began before we were even set up, and it's still going on." But, as a lawyer, Arpin takes pride in this: "When it has come up in court, we've never been overruled yet."

As a man who has been in government 15 years, Arpin knows the pressures that arise to make an agency bigger. "We've had it here, the demand for economists, more experts."

But there was hardly a tinge of regret in his voice when he said: "We could have been a big outfit."

Did Arpin know what he would do come Oct. 28?

"Yes," said the vanishing bureaucrat. "I'll look for a job."

Went That-A-Way

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A youngster wearing a 10-gallon cowboy hat walked into a department store and asked to try on a pair of high-heeled western style boots. As soon as the clerk's back was turned, the youngster walked off with them.

WCTU Told Drinking Increase Alarming

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 12 (AP) — Drinking in the United States is "increasingly out of control" in most wet communities, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union was told yesterday by its president, Mrs. Glenn G. Hays of Evanston, Ill.

"Local option elections appear to be the indicated correctives," Mrs. Hays said in a talk prepared for delivery at the organization's 83rd annual convention.

Mrs. Hays said the nation's drinkers are shown by Department of Commerce reports to be consuming three billion gallons of liquor, wine and beer annually and paying 10½ billion dollars to do so.

"The estimate that the cost of drink-caused crime, disease, insanity, loss of income, poverty, juvenile delinquency, broken homes and other human and economic waste to the nation, state and community, the family and individual equals the amount spent for alcholic beverages is not an exaggeration."

Rabbi Announces Selichos Services

Selichos services, midnight penitential rites, preceding the Jewish New Year, will be held Saturday, September 21, at Beth Jacob Synagogue, according to Rabbi Stanley Levin, spiritual leader of the congregation.

Preceding the services there will be a social get-together at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Abraham Feldstein and Mrs. Leonard Cody as hostesses.

Russ Expert Says ICBM Isn't "Ultimate Weapon"

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (AP)—A Russian expert on rocket warfare said today intercontinental missiles such as the Soviet Union says it has developed are not the ultimate weapon.

Maj. Gen. G. I. Pokrovsky, writing in the journal of civil defense groups, Soviet Patriot, said countermissiles, possibly armed with atomic warheads, could be used effectively as defenses against them.

Because of these possible defenses, Pokrovsky wrote, manned aircraft still retain a vital role in modern military techniques.

He said that despite fantastic speed of intercontinental missiles, it is possible in a single second to obtain the path of missiles through fixes from two observation points and fire antimissile rockets to intercept them.

Pokrovsky said the inability to maneuver is one of the weaknesses of the intercontinental missile, which travels on a fixed trajectory. Because of this, he wrote, the Soviet Union's military scientists believe the only workable combination requires both rockers and manned aircraft. He indicated that this is the program which the Kremlin's military leaders are following.

Homemaker Tour Details Announced

Details of the tour for the Allegany County homemakers to Lancaster, Pa., have been announced by Miss Mary P. Wise, home demonstration agent.

Miss Wise said the group will depart by bus from the Greyhound Bus Terminal in Cumberland at 6:30 p. m. on Saturday, September 28. Men and children also may take part in the tour.

Reservations for the tour should be made not later than Wednesday, September 18, and the price of the trip, $10, must accompany all reservations made at the extension service office here.

The local contingent will visit cloisters at Ephrata, Amish farms and houses, the public market place at Lancaster, and will take a tour of the countryside.

A special treat of the excursion will be Dutch dinner. Some persons will eat their meal at noontime, and other members of the tour will be provided an evening supper along the route.

Buses will travel in groups of two in order that the places that will be visited will not get congested and everyone will have the same opportunity to see all the points of interest.

Miss Wise urged all those who are interested in the trip to this scenic area to make their reservations early because of the problem of scheduling the itinerary. Reservations will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis and in the event last reservations that come in are not sufficient to fill a bus, some reservations may have to be cancelled.

GUEST SPEAKER—Miss Mary G. Walsh, center, was guest speaker at the first general meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club Wednesday evening at Cumberland Country Club. Her subject was "The Origin of Historical Places in Cumberland." At left is Miss Louise Lippold, program chairman, and at right, Mrs. Edward Sokolowski, president of the organization.

Church Guild Elects

Mrs. Bennie C. McIlwee was elected president of the Woman's Guild of St. Matthew's United Church of Christ, Bowling Green, at the first meeting of the group of the fall-winter season.

Mrs. William C. Holbrook was elected vice president; Mrs. Nicholas Vlachos, secretary and Mrs. Charles Long, treasurer. Department chairmen will be assigned by the president and announced at a later date.

Plans were made for a congregational supper on September 24 from 6 until 8 p. m. Assignments for covered dishes will be made soon by the Guild. Representatives will be sent to the regional workshop on October 5 at Paradise Valley Church in Salisbury, Pa.

Mrs. William Yeager, Mrs. Jack Rowan and Mrs. Charles Long conducted the devotions on the theme "An Understanding of the Heritage of the Evangelical and Reformed Church."

An invitation was extended to the Woman's Guild of First United Church of Christ, Congregational-Christian of Frostburg to attend the October meeting of the Guild.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Allan Deffinbaugh and Mrs. James Kisamore, cohostesses. Attending were Mrs. Holbrook, Mrs. Long, Rev. and Mrs. John B. Zinn, Mrs. Yeager, Mrs. Theodore C. Grove, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Eugene Harris, Mrs. George Hansel, Mrs. Richard McIntyre, Mrs. Richard Bucy, Miss Pleasant Snyder, Mrs. Kisamore, Mrs. Deffinbaugh, Mrs. Helen Assif, Mrs. Russell Beck.

Mrs. Edward F. Mullan Jr. New Jayncees President

Officers and directors for the coming year were elected by the Jayncees at the meeting Wednesday night at Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Edward F. Mullan Jr. was elected president; Mrs. William Hill, vice president, Mrs. Stanley Goodrich, secretary, and Mrs. Jack Murray, treasurer. Chosen as directors were Mrs. William Wilson, retiring president, Mrs. Arthur S. Davis Jr., and Mrs. William S. Firey.

Mrs. Wilson gave the president's annual report, listing assistance to the Police Boys Club, Associated Charities, March of Dimes, Friends Aware, Red Cross, Keating Day Nursery, Mental Health Association and the Girl Scouts in various means of community service.

The Jayncees also aided the Jaycees in several projects including a Halloween party, Winter Frolic benefit dance, and Christmas shopping tour for needy children.

An announcement was made concerning the forthcoming Jaycee picnic Saturday at Ali Ghan Country Club for members and their wives.

The next membership meeting will be held at the Cumberland Country Club, Wednesday October 9.

Mrs. Thomas Honors AUW Board

The executive board of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women met recently at the home of Mrs. John G. Thomas, 520 Holland Street. Mrs. Thomas, recently elected president, honored her board by serving a buffet coffee.

A business meeting followed the social hour with the six members who attended the state AAUW workshop in Frederick July 14 giving their report. Another workshop will be held in Frederick Saturday.

The international relations group will meet September 18 at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. A. L. Rogers, 915 Ridgedale Avenue. Miss Janet Anderson is chairman of the group.

The first general meeting of the branch will be held at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Spring Gap, September 21. A picnic box lunch supper will be served at 5 p. m. New and prospective members will be honored guests. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Georgia Wolford, 1702 Holland Street.

Miss Annie B. Gray, vice president and program chairman, gave the outline of her program for the year.

Others attending were Mrs. Arlene Russell, Miss Dorothy Wilson, Mrs. Veronica Schleifman, Mrs. William C. Van Newkirk, Mrs. Austin D. Twigg, Miss A. Pauline Fisher, Miss Margaret E. Baker, Mrs. William H. Blake, Mrs. William C. Harrison, Mrs. Earl C. Nonnenmann and Miss Lillian Boughton.

AAUW Great Books Unit Reviews Summer Reading

The initial fall meeting of the Great Books Group, Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Amer Suter Jr., Frostburg.

The program theme was "Summer Reading" with each member giving a brief review of one outstanding book read during the summer. These are modern books, not yet in the realm of "Great Books."

Mrs. Suter reviewed "A Piece of My Mind," a collection of essays by Edmund Wilson; Mrs. William Frailey, "The Potomac" by Frederic Gutheim; Mrs. Milton Granet, "The Hidden Persuaders," psychology behind advertising, campaigns for money, and politics, by Vance Packard; Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, "The Three Loves of Dostoevsky," the influence of three women in the life of the Russian novelist, by Mark Slonam; Mrs. W. A. Van Ormer, "The Spirit of St. Louis," by Charles A. Lindbergh; Mrs. Ralph Webster, "They Called Him Stonewall," a superior biography of the famous General, by Burke Davis; Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, "Charlie," the life and times of Charles MacArthur, husband of Helen Hayes; Mrs. Milton Beneman, "The Durable Fire," current best seller by Howard Swiggert; Mrs. Adolph Wolferman, "Myth and Guilt," psychology dealing with origin of man's feeling of guilt, and the relation of this to religion, by Theodore Reik; Mrs. Gordon Bowie, "The Short Reign of Pippin IV," a humorous satire on French politics by John Steinbeck; Mrs. Paul Castelle, "Operation Sea Lion," account of Hitler's plan for the invasion of England giving the German and British viewpoints, by Peter Fleming; Mrs. George Griffith, "Out of My Life and Thought," by Albert Schweitzer.

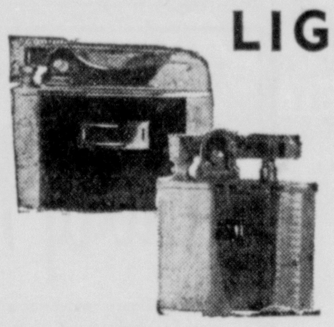

Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, "The One That Got Away," a true story of a German pilot who was shot down and captured in England, by Kendal Burt and James Leasor; Mrs. Max Bastian, "History of Religion," Vol. II, dealing with ideas and beliefs of leaders in Judaism, Christianity and Mohammedanism, by George Foote Moore; Mrs. Granville Shirley, "Lust for Life," life of the painter, Vincent Van Gogh, by Irving Etone, and "The Last Angry Man," current best seller, by Gerald Greene; Mrs. Norman LeBlanc, "The Tree of Culture," history of various cultures and their influence today, by Ralph Linton.

Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, chairman, presided. Miss Dorothy Stone White, Miss Dorothy Harlowe and Mrs. Howard Briggs assisted Mrs. Suter in serving.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Milton Granet, LaVale. Discussion will be on the "Poetics" of Aristotle, to be led by Miss White, Miss Harlowe and Mrs. Wolferman.

Mrs. Pearl Bachman, 426 North Centre Street and Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, 923 Bedford Street, will attend the Navy Mothers state convention in Baltimore.

Bedford Rd. Homemaker Club Meets

The Bedford Road Homemakers club held its regular monthly meeting recently at the Zion Methodist Church.

The history of the hymn of the month, "Spirit of God Descend Upon My Heart," was given and sung by Mrs. Paul Gilford.

Mrs. Gilford presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. Melvin Critzman gave a report on the executive board meeting and Mrs. David Wilson reported on the demonstrations at the Fair.

It was announced that the tour to Lancaster, Pa., will be held on September 28. Anyone is welcome to attend. A demonstration was given by Mrs. Gilford on correct posture and Mrs. W. C. Knisely gave a talk on "Growing Old Graciously".

The meeting was concluded with the singing of the Florida State Song "Way Down Upon the Swanee River". Mrs. Ralph Brotemarkle from the North End Homemakers Club was a guest.

The Flintstone Homemakers will meet today at 7:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. B. C. Robinette, with Miss Pearl Wilson, cohostess. Miss Lena Twigg and Mrs. H. K. Cheney will give a demonstration on cleaning chairs.

Presbyterian Women Welcome New Members

The Woman's Association of First Presbyterian Church met recently at the church. Mrs. T. L. Richards, president, opened the business meeting by lighting a yellow candle as a symbol of harvest time for the association, and asked members to join her in prayer.

Reports were given and announcements were made that the next stop of the New Windsor Truck at the church will be December 2; the fall retreat and planning conference will be held at Herrington Manor September 13 and 14; a rummage sale will be sponsored October 3-4; fall meeting of the Presbyterial will be held in Baltimore October 15 and the fall luncheon meeting of Western Maryland Branch of Baltimore Presbytery Society will be held at First Presbyterian Church, Cumberland October 18.

A dedication service for the Association's projects, fellowship luncheons and penny jars, was conducted by Mrs. John Stitely. Members joined in singing the "Stewardship" hymn and Mrs. Albert List gave the dedication prayer.

New members of the Association were honored and welcomed in a program entitled "Together" which explained the work and purpose of Presbyterian women's organizations locally, nationally and world wide. Members participating were Mrs. Maurice D. Robertson, Mrs. I. R. Likens, Mrs. T. L. Richards, Mrs. Lester Martin, Mrs. Ross Petty, Mrs. William P. Wendt, Mrs. Ross O. Decker and Mrs. Gillimore. Mrs. John McVicker was accompanist for group singing of several hymns and a vocal solo by Mrs. James Conrad.

Hostesses for the social hour were members of the Matheney-Legge Circle.

Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Raymond Minke, with Mrs. Rudolph Norris, cohostess.

Mrs. H. Murrell Kline, Wiley Ford, is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hall and Mrs. Estella Tovey returned to Meadville, Pa., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alva W. Davis, 1013 Virginia Avenue.

A rummage sale will be held in the basement of Central Methodist Church, South George Street, Monday, beginning at 2 p.m.

Swanson Memorial Bible Class of Second Baptist Church, will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the church instead of at the home of Mrs. Collier.

Union Grove Club Has Meeting

The Union Grove Homemakers met Wednesday night at the club house with Mrs. Holmes Cessna presiding. The meeting opened with the flag salute and the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Albert Windish read the quotation for the month.

Roll call was answered by "Why have you hung the picture you have in your home?" The opening hymn was "Spirit of God, Descend Upon My Heart." Routine reports were given by Mrs. Hazel Bowling and Mrs. Helen White.

Seventeen members and three visitors, Mrs. Maudie Hipsley, Mrs. Helen Vandegrift and Mrs. Edith Griminger, attended. Mrs. Louise Franklin, Mrs. Mary Smouse and Mrs. Ruthella Fey were hostesses.

The president announced that Carl Johnson will be here Friday and Saturday to lecture on landscaping, and that members desiring to attend the annual Homemakers tour to Lancaster September 28 are to meet at Blue Ridge Bus Terminal at 6:30 a. m.

The next meeting will be October 9 at 1:30 p. m. Miss Mary Wise, home demonstration agent will attend. Mrs. Rita Rilling, Mrs. Marguerite Douglas and Mrs. Rose Ambrose will be hostesses.

Mrs. John Wentling, International Relations chairman, reported on Associated Farm Women of the World meeting held in Ceylon, in July, and also read an article on the government of India.

Mrs. Louise Franklin reported on a clothing program planning meeting and gave results of a county survey. Mrs. White and Mrs. John Wentling gave the same demonstration they had given at the Cumberland Fair, on making aluminum trays. Club chairmen were advised to have their reports for the year in the Extension office October 5.

A Halloween party was planned for October 28 at 8 p. m. at the club house. Mrs. Wentling is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Helen Walburn, Mrs. Helen Wilkinson and Mrs. Thelma Eichner.

Secrets Of Charm

New Job This Fall? Maturity May Help Get It

Employers don't always expect to hire a new person who is experienced in the kind of work the job calls for. But they are always looking for the kind of person who is experienced in living—one who has learned to take responsibility, to be cooperative, to adjust good humoredly to whatever life brings.

That's why there's always room for the mature woman in business and industry, and that's why she has better qualifications than some mature woman think they have. Many jobs call for more responsibility than skill, and nearly all of them demand pleasant personalities and flexibility. For the older person who has acquired these assets over the years, the chances are good.

But how do you show what you have to offer at your first rather frightening interview for a job? The employer must judge by appearances, and so you must make appearances count. If you are less than meticulously neat, if you're mousy, if you're overweight, if your clothes are outdated or unbecoming or unsuitable, then you're in trouble. A good appearance shows that you have respect for yourself and for the opinion of others. It also shows you are fashion-wise. Most important of all, a good appearance gives you the self-confidence to say just the right thing when applying for a job.

We interviewed employers everywhere before we set down the helpful information you need in my booklet, "Your Steps to a Successful Career." It tells you what employers look for in an applicant and in a promotable employee. Won't you let us pass this guidance on to you? The booket is yours for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.

TOMORROW: Play The Game.

The Big Bogey: Fallout

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 12 — It will not be long before "FALLOUT" will be the most discussed subject facing business, real estate, and investments. Newspapers now give daily forecasts, for weather, tides, and winds. Before long they also will give a local daily air analysis together with a forecast of the analysis for the next few days.

What Will Be Important?

All businesses and investments must be adjusted either to "Fall-out" or to "Peace." Furthermore, it will be the fear of Fall-out or the fear of peace which will bring about unemployment and a business collapse. The propaganda about "clean bombs" by those persons now profiting from the defense industries is the bunk. "Clean bombs" can be built; but Russia will never agree to their exclusive use. The Fall-out is Russia's best bet.

Every reader of this column should ask himself how either the fear of Fallout or the fear of peace and disarmament will affect his community, his family, and his business or investments. The London Conference on Disarmament is discussing the possibility of both intensified Fallout and Disarmament. Every Congressman is trying to determine how his constituents would be affected by either. Meanwhile the Atomic Energy Commission is working hard studying Fall-out.

Important Illustrations

There could be a total change in the rising population trend. Most schools and colleges will have plenty of room for students. Families may fear to have more children for fear of having seriously deformed offspring. The birth rate could radically decline.

Real estate, commodity, and stock markets could be totally upset because of the fear of Fall-out or unemployment. Certain cities would be much more subject to Fallout than others. As people now seek Florida or California for climate, they may avoid these states for fear of Fallout. Remember, this Fallout is polluting the air you breathe right now as you read this column.

What About Agriculture?

Studies are now being made by the Atomic Energy Commission as to the effect of Fallout on Agriculture and Fisheries. Unofficial reports are that ordinary fission or fission tests would not be harmful. If, however, Russia should float too much Strontium 90 over the United States, it could become very serious. This would especially apply to all leafy vegetables and perhaps to corn and wheat.

Certainly, we would no longer be allowed to drink cows' milk in its present form. Strontium 90 would have to be eliminated from canned-milk products. And this would need to be done for all canned fruit and most other canned products. The ocean seems to be especially "allergic" to this dangerous poison. Thus, the fish might be impregnated. Livestock which feeds on grass could surely be seriously affected.

Automobiles, Other Industries

Industries other than food would also suffer. Manufacturing and retailing need not be directly affected. Of course, all stores and factories would need to be screened, as well as all homes. Automobiles would have to be screened, while all pedestrians might have to wear masks. Certainly, Russia could drastically upset our way of life.

All of this could either hasten war with Russia or else result in some form of disarmament. This is probably why President Eisenhower insists that no reduction be made in defense appropriations or foreign aid. This means that our present prosperity is on a "teeter board" or "saw horse," so to speak. Certainly we will hear much more about Fallout, which could become more important than missiles.

Russia In Driver's Seat

Although Russia could make these tests from Western Siberia and pick days when the winds would drift the Fallout toward the U.S.A., yet the air of the entire world, including Russia, would be polluted. Therefore, these "tests," like poison gas, might not be used; but we do not know. In fact, there is a bare possibility that fear of these "tests" could bring about disarmament. Of course, if Russia should go too far, the U. S. and the rest of the world might declare war upon Russia. Then what?

Sweepy, the squirrel, reminds us that throwing trash on our highways or in our parks, beaches, and picnic areas is subject to a $250 fine. So, carry a litterbag in your car, always discard trash in proper receptacles and remembber—if you can't find a trash container, you can take it with you and help keep Maryland beautiful.

Thieves' Progress

LINCOLN, (AP)—Even the ancient art of stealing watermelons has gone modern.

A boy was haled into court here for attempting to heist a melon from a display in front of a supermarket.

Commented County Judge Herbert Ronin as he levied a $10 fine: "In my day, we took them from the fields."

Chinatown

HONOLULU (AP)—Honolulu has a new post office officially named "Chinatown Station". Officials said it was the only one so named in the U.S. Postal system.

The new station, located in a cluster of Chinese restaurants in downtown Honolulu, was opened with an army band concert, and the exploding of 20,000 firecrackers.

Watershed Management Project Set For Area

The Department of Forests and Parks is vitally interested in keeping waters of Maryland pure, according to Joseph F. Kaylor, director.

He cited the South Mountain watershed project in Washington County as an example.

The department, he said, is acquiring land and will develop catch basins in the area to impound water.

Water from these reservoirs, he said, will feed springs to supply water for lands below, Mr. Kaylor reported during a meeting of the Legislative Council's Potomac River subcommittee here Monday.

Del. Myron S. Bloom, Washington County, asked Mr. Kaylor what the state is paying to acquire the land.

Mr. Kaylor asked Mr. Bloom if he had heard the report that land had been purchased for $100 an acre.

"It was $180," Del. Bloom said he had been told.

Mr. Kaylor said folks in the area have been cooperating and that most of the land has been acquired for an average of about $15 an acre.

Some of the land borders on a county road and this has been costing about $25 an acre, he said.

He emphasized the land is being acquired for a watershed management project and not for a park, as has been reported.

The land cost report was of interest to Senator H. Winship Wheatley Jr., chairman of the Legislative Council's Roads Committee, which is making a study of right of way costs for state roads.

Mr. Kaylor said the department has acquired about 800 of the 4,000 acres of land needed for the watershed project.

Not You, Her

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A judge cleared Raymond Kopaniasz of insulting a policeman in a bar after hearing this explanation:

"My wife was talking on the phone, trying to get me to come home for supper. I asked her if she was trying to bribe me, and just then I saw the bartender handing the cop some cigars. The cop thought I was talking about him."

The complete yield of forty cashmere goats is required to produce enough material for one overcoat.

Great Britain abolished slavery in 1833.

You wouldn't throw trash on your own front yard, now, would you? Well, remember, our highways, parks, beaches are Maryland's front yard. So sweepy the squirrel says carry a litterbag in your car for your travel trash and empty it in a travel trash container provided by many service stations and help keep Maryland beautiful.

Folk Art Museum Reveals Tastes Of Early America

This early American painting, "Jean MacDonald Myers," painted in 1850, is one of the 400 or so primitive American art items in the Williamsburg collections.

By DEANE & DAVID HELLER
By Central Press

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Something new in the art world has been unveiled here in this reconstructed colonial town, which once served as the capital of Virginia.

In connection with the Festival of Jamestown, which has its headquarters in Williamsburg (since there is no permanent town at Jamestown), the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller art collection has opened for the first time in its permanent new home.

The collection gives viewers a fascinating glimpse into the lives, loves, foibles and aspirations of early Americans, especially those of the 1800s.

Unless somebody told you the itmes in the collections were art, you'd probably never guess it — unless you are a connoisseur. But you'd find the collection fascinating, nonetheless.

The deceptive, pleasant thing about the early American primitives is their simplicity.

Take that favorite of the kids, Minnehaha, for instance. Minnie doesn't look like art, but she is. The Indian maiden, carved out of a solid pine block, was once the proud figurehead of a sailing ship.

The collection includes pretty weathervanes, carved by Pennsylvania Dutch farmers; pictures of small town doctors, merchants, children and farmers, done by wandering, itinerant painters of the 1800s.

There's tragedy, too. Like the strangely touching mourning picture, a watercolor on silk, showing a weeping willow over a grave. A symbolic figure of Hope weeps beside the tombstone of the deceased, one Philo Day.

Not to be scorned, either, are store advertisements, like the nostalgic cigar store Indian.

There are more than 400 items in the collection, gathered by the late Mrs. Rockefeller. And the building the primitive paintings and sculpture is housed in is a work of art itself.

The rooms have been specially designed to harmonize with the pictures, and one has even duplicated the vivid black, orange and blue tile shown in a painting on its own floor. Quite a startling thing it is, too.

Mrs. Rockefeller was one of the first collectors of American primitive folk art. Although the genuine artistry of such items is widely acknowledged today, it wasn't several decades ago when she began her struggle to bring recognition to this art form.

The collection aims at preserving "the self-expression of untutored American artists portraying their everyday lives," museum officials say.

America, they believe, before the days of the machine age, "was a nation of painters, sketchers, whittlers, needleworkers and carvers, each person acting in answer to his own desire for self-expression."

However, by the middle of the Nineteenth Century, the affects of the machine age were being felt in all branches of the arts, and "folk art gently expired, pushed aside by the mass production methods of a new era."

"For almost a century, folk art lay unheralded, but the growing artistic sensitivity of the nation re-discovered this important phase of its past as an intimate portrait of our social history," they declare.

The museum is well worth a visit, and persons going to the Jamestown Festival should take care not to miss it.

Perhaps the most amusing item in the entire collection is a stiff, pompous woodcarving of the very famous preacher, Henry Ward Beecher. The carving was made by an early parishioner of the silver-tongued minister, while he was preaching in Indiana, before going to nation-wide fame in New York.

A little limerick accompanies the carving. It goes:

"A great inspirational preacher
Said—'The hen is a wonderful creature,
The hen upon that
Laid an egg in his hat
And thus did the Henry Ward Beecher."

The Reverend Beecher was very fond of statue and limerick.

Transplanted Heart Functions For Nearly Two Hours In Dog

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—A team of heart researchers, working toward a goal of replacing diseased or inadequate hearts in humans, described today how a transplanted heart functioned for nearly two hours in a dog.

Dr. Edgar F. Berman said the experiment demonstrated that "the circulation of the body can be resumed with a heart transplanted for that purpose."

He added that biologists "seem to be on the threshhold of solving" one of the next biggest barriers to transplanting organs from one person to another.

That barrier is the tendency of the body's defensive system to attack and destroy any foreign invader — whether it be disease germs or transplanted tissue.

The only successful transplants that do not trigger this defensive reaction are those made between identical twins.

Berman told doctors attending the 22nd annual congress of the United States and Canadian sections of the International College of Surgeons that his team made two heart transplants in dogs.

In the first case the organ resumed its beat in the new host and maintained circulation for 21 minutes. Then it went into ventricular fibrillation, or erratic twitching action, and halted.

In a second experiment, the heart maintained circulation in the new host for an hour and 57 minutes before fibrillating. Thereafter, the doctors brought the heart back to normal beat several times by artificial stimulation.

Berman said the procedure involved the severance and reconnection of large heart arteries and veins at four points. An artificial lung-heart machine kept the host-to-be alive during the actual transplant operation.

Describing the first transplant, he said:

"After three minutes, a faint flicker of the right auricle and a movement of the right ventricle (right upper and lower chambers of the heart) appeared and developed rapidly into good coordinated contractions."

Berman, a surgeon at Sinai Hospital, Baltimore, said that until recently, the survival time of transplanted tissue and organs between persons other than identical twins has been limited to days.

"Intensive study of this problem revealed the important new concept that an 'active acquired tolerance' may be produced in a host obviating the immunologic factor causing the rejection of the homografted tissue," he said.

He was assisted in the work by Dr. Mauricio Goldberg, a surgeon of Cordova, Argentina, and Dr. Leonard Akman, cardiologist at Sainai Hospital.

Children View Dynamiting Of School As 'Awful' Thing

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12 (AP)—The traditional view that every red-blooded American child would enjoy seeing his school burned down apparently doesn't apply to pupils of Hattie Cotton School—or maybe dynamite is different!

Not a child among the 390 enrolled could be found who wouldn't rather be in class today than watching workmen remove the debris from their blasted elementary school.

"It's awful," said 10-year-old Carrie Wofford as she gazed through a gaping hole in the brick wall at what had been her fifth-grade room. "But I wish I was back in school," she added, echoing the sentiment of her classmates.

Standing beside Carrie was another fifth-grader, Jimmy Travis, 11. "They done a good job of it," he said smilingly. "But I'm sorry. I wish I was back in school."

The most undisturbed child in the neighborhood of trim, white frame houses appeared to be Mary McIntyre, 6, who went to school Monday for the first time.

"I don't feel a bit worried," she confided to a newsman. Asked why, she replied, "Not a window was broken in my room."

Mary's older sister, Jane, 11, complained: "I've been going to Hattie Cotton for six years and nothing happened. My sister goes one day and they blow it up."

Miss Margaret Cate, who has been principal since the school opened in 1950, already was back at work in her office. She said classes would be able to resume within a week in nine classrooms and the cafeteria, which turned out not to be as badly damaged as the amount of rubble at first indicated.

In the classroom nearest the blast, the only wall decoration left was a framed copy of the U.S. Constitution. The impact turned its face against the wall.

Ten-year-old Virginia Elam, daughter of Mrs. Floyd Elam, just couldn't understand it, her mother said.

"To her on the first day of school the little Negro girl was just another little girl," said Mrs. Elam. "Now she has heard talk and she is just stunned about it all."

The Negro child enrolled in previously all-white Hattie Cotton Monday as Nashville integrated its first grade under court order. Early the next morning a jarrying dynamite blast shattered the east wing of the school.

"It wasn't the colored girl's fault," said Patricia Baker, 10, a fifth grader.

Ambitious, Costly Irrigation Project Has Afghan Government Officials Worried

By SAM JOHNSON

KANDAHAR, Afghanistan, Sept. 12 (AP)—An ambitious irrigation project in the Helmand Valley of south Afghanistan has some Afghan government officials worried.

These officials, along with American aid experts, agree the project has tremendous potential.

Most of these same people agree that — for Afghanistan's economy —it is too ambitious and costly.

But they also agree it is too late to back out now.

The project, which began in 1946 to make the Helmand River Valley bloom, takes about 15 per cent of the government's yearly budget, said Finance Minister Abdullah Malikyar.

And next year Afghanistan must begin repaying the principal on two project loans from the U. S. Export-Import Bank totalling 39½ million dollars.

Estimates of the eventual cost range from 90 to 98 million dollars. An American aid official estimated 75 million had been spent by the end of August.

Although basically a private contract between the Afghan government and the Morrison-Knudsen Construction Co., of Boise, Idaho, many Afghans consider it an American project—and one that isn't going well.

A team of consulting engineers from the United States studied the project last year and said expectations simply were too high.

The project had brought about 120,000 acres of new land under irrigation by last fall, the engineers said. When completed it should irrigate some 345,000 acres of new land in addition to supplying year-around water for land irrigated now only when the river is high.

Dr. Abdul Wakil, vice president of the Helmand Valley Authority, estimated agricultural production has gone up 30 per cent since the project began. This is lower than many Afghans expected.

Salt rose to the surface of a substantial part of the newly irrigated land because of certain subsurface formations, making deep drainage ditches necessary.

Some 1,500 nomad and landless families have been settled on about 15,000 acres of new land, Dr. Waikil said. Again, the program is going slower than many Afghans hoped. Estimates of the number of families who can be settled when the project is finished vary from 10,000 to several times that number.

The Helmand River and its tributaries have a watershed that covers most of southern Afghanistan. In ancient days, the lower valley supported much more farming than it does now.

The Afghan government hired Morrison-Knudsen to build a network of roads, dig a major irrigation canal about 47 miles long, and install a diversion dam in the canal, said T. Y. Johnson, Morrison-Knudsen's project manager.

The original contract was for 17 million dollars. Johnson said the government kept increasing the size and scope of the project—aided by the Export-Import Bank loans—to include two major storage dams which are completed, many more miles of canals, a large land development scheme and other items.

With the cost mounting, Johnson's stand is that Morrison-Knudsen is doing a job ordered by the Afghan government and doing it well.

Prince Mohammed Naim, deputy premier and foreign minister, said he considers the project as having "great value for the future of our country." The government knows that immediate results cannot be expected, he said, so "the government waits patiently."

Terror-Stricken Boy Run Down, Killed By Train

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 12 (AP)—A 3-year-old boy stood terror-stricken with his hands to his ears on a railroad track yesterday as a train thundered down upon him. He was killed instantly.

The boy, Lanel Ryl, was walking along the track with a 5-year-old playmate. The older boy, who jumped aside, told police his friend froze as the train rounded a curve.

The engineer blew the whistle several times and applied the brakes, he later told police, but it was too late. The impact hurled Lanel 25 feet to the side of the New Haven Railroad's main line.

Scientists Working Out New Hay Fever Defense

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—The first step toward a new defense against hay fever and other allergies was reported today.

Canadian scientists announced they had obtained pure antibodies, from animal blood, against ragweed pollen causing hay fever.

Antibodies are a kind of chemical policemen. If a disease germ invades you, your body usually produces antibodies that can attack or disarm the germs. If you have enough antibodies soon enough, either naturally or through action of a vaccine, you don't get sick.

Somewhat the same thing happens in allergies. Some people are hypersensitive to things like ragweed pollen, house dust, or other agents giving them allergic coughs, asthma, runny noses and other woes. They don't have or can't make enough antibodies soon enough.

Dr. Alex Sehon of McGill University, Montreal, told the American Chemical Society that he and associates had found a way of extracting pure antibodies from animal blood serum. The animals had manufactured the antibodies after exposure to hay fever pollen.

Whether these antibodies can protect against hay fever is still being studied. It could give hay fever victims effective relief. The method might protect other victims of various allergies or diseases.

Members of the research team included Ladislas Gyenes, a graduate student, and Dr. Bram Rose, allergy specialist of the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal.

Editor Reports Evangelical Approach To Protestantism Making Wide Gains

By HERMAN R. ALLEN
Associated Press Writer

The editor of a rising evangelical journal points to the success of his magazine as one of what he says are many indications that the evangelical approach to Protestantism is winning steadily wider acceptance in America.

Carl F. H. Henry, of Christianity Today, published in Washington, said in an interview the magazine was on target with 40,000 paid subscriptions at the end of its first year. The second-year goal—which he expects to meet—is 20,000.

As evidence of its wide appeal, Henry cites the sale of several full pages in recent issues to a variety of advertisers—insurance companies, even a couple of vitamin manufacturers—apart from the usual run of hymn book publishers and church furniture houses.

Henry said the clergy of a wide variety of denominations are among subscribers, including many representing groups not usually regarded as evangelical, such as the Protestant Episcopal Church. Two Episcopal ministers are among Henry's contributing editors. So is evangelist Billy Graham.

Aside from the success of his magazine, Henry, a Baptist minister, pointed out other indications of a growing acceptance of Bible-based evangelism.

"Leaders of the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches have let evangelists go their way," he said, "but now they are taking another look."

Henry sees today's Protestant lineup like this:

1. "The radical right"—the extreme fundamentalists.

2. The left or liberal wing, as represented by some individual clergymen of certain bodies which are members of the National and World councils.

3. In the center, the evangelicals.

The fundamentalists call for literal interpretation of the Bible. So do the evangelicals, but Henry says the evangelists place more stress on "the application of the Christian ideal to culture and learning."

He says "much extreme fundamentalism is anti-intellectual."

Liberalism, on the other hand, "shies away from revealed bilical doctrine," in Henry's words, and tends to "dismiss mass evangelism as lacking in intellectual content."

Henry regards the extreme fundamentalists as among evangelism's most severe critics ("some of them even say that Billy Graham's success in Madison Square Garden was due to the Devil") and says "extreme fundamentalists tend to identify all who are not identified with them as enemies."

However, he sees evangelism's real opposition on the other flank.

This opposition comes, he says, not from extreme liberalism but from what evangelists call neo-orthodoxy.

In the evangelical definition, neo-orthodoxy is a partial return to orthodox Christianity, away from liberalism, emphasizing sin and the necessity for redemption. It stresses the transcendence of God but does not accept the evangelical doctrine of the divine inspiration of Scripture.

No airtight description of a neo-orthodoxist is possible, however, because some members of this school of thought may accept some parts of the Bible as true. In general they accept the bodily resurrection of Christ, but some deny the virgin birth and others dismiss large parts of the Old Testament as myth.

The evangelical position, Henry laid down as this:

"The world desperately needs the personal acceptance of Jesus Christ as savior and lord. Regenerate Christians—men born again—can introduce new meaning and worth into our chaotic world by applying Christian conditions into the social sphere.

"Our principal task is not to readjust a pagan culture but to call men to Christ then face the world's problems."

More than one-half of all Americans over 21 have attended high school.

Red Sees Light

KUALA LUMPUR, Sept. 12 (AP)—A 30-year-old Chinese who says he fought on the Communist side since 1948 has become the first to surrender under the promise of amnesty in newly independent Malaya. He gave himself up to a taxi driver near Rawang, Selangor State, said he'd lost faith in the Reds, and handed over a carbine, bullets, compass, knife saw, drugs and hundreds of air-dropped surrender leaflets.

Answer To Problem

AMESBURG, England, Sept. 12 (AP)—Housing authorities here finally solved the problem posed by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scovell and their 13 children. No available house was big enough so two adjoining houses were hitched together with a cut-through hallway.

Tito Contends Three Red States "Independent"

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Marshal Tito is now claiming there is a bloc of "independent" Communist states, getting along with but not ruled by the international Communists of Moscow.

He names them as Yugoslavia, Poland and Red China.

For a long time Tito has headed a committee of one which claimed that a Communist state need not be subservient to Russia. As long as Stalin lived after the 1948 break between them, their enmity made it stick for Yugoslavia.

The Western Powers took the opportunity to establish commercial ties and a limited amount of military cooperation through the supply of arms to Yugoslavia.

After Stalin's death, the new regime in Russia made strong overtures for reconciliation with Yugoslavia, and for a time there was a question in the West whether Tito was going to stand hitched. He maintained Yugoslavia could get along with both Russia and the West without becoming subservient to either.

He kept up his talk of indpendence and when the Russians accused him of helping to set off defection in Hungary and Poland he said that, of course Yugoslavia was involved, by her example.

The Russians double-crossed Yugoslavia during the Hungarian outbreak by seizing a Freedom Fighter who had placed himself under Yugoslavian protection, and the subsequent rift left relations proper but not warm.

Just how far the Poles have followed the Tito road is still not entirely clear. The United States, however, has given the Gomulka regime its approval, first in a small way and now in increasingly important fashion, by extending economic aid.

The thing that would be so important to the world, if true, would be a Titoist Red China.

For years after the Reds took over China Western diplomats had hopes that Chinese individualism and numerous natural conflicts of interest would prevent China from being cemented into the Soviet bloc.

But Russia has gone right ahead tying together the ecnomies and the military resources of the two nations, though Peiping's position as a satellite has never been as clear as those of the captive small nations of Eastern Europe.

Red China wavered over many tenets of international communism. She has never entirely eliminated some capitalistic practices, and some that were eliminated have been revived.

Relations between Peiping and Russia were badly shaken when the Russian army revealed itself in Hungary as the oppressor, not the defender, of the working man. But the Piping mind gradually rationalized itself back into line.

A good estimate of Tito's proclamation of Red China's equation with Poland and Yugoslavia is that he is bragging. Belgrade and Peiping may not be as far apart politically as are Belgrade and Moscow, but there is a considerable question as to how far apart are Peiping and Moscow.

Classes Start Monday In New WVU Building

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—The first classes will be held next week in the Basic Sciences Building of the West Virginia University Medical Center, part of what will eventually be the biggest building ever erected in the state.

The handsome, ultra-modern Basic Sciences Building was recently completed at a cost of $10,675,000. By its side, construction is just getting under way on the 400-bed University Hospital, which will cost $13,172,000.

Connected, the adjoining buildings will form a single wing structure of 3,412 rooms, West Virginia's largest. A five-story central "core" and five lower wings make up the Basic Sciences Building. The hospital will range from six to 14 stories.

Site of the two buildings is atop a rise in the 145-acre tract where the Medical Center is being developed, two miles from the university's downtown main campus.

The Basic Sciences Building and the hospital are two of the three units in the 25 million dollar initial plan for the center. The other is the mechanical plant, completed in 1955 at a cost of $1,070,000.

Classes will begin Monday for 30 first-year students in the new School of Dentistry. Slated for graduation in 1961, the class will be the first to have received its entire professional education at the Medical Center. The state heretofore has had no dental school.

Caracas Clears Mountain Barrier With Cable Cars

A cable car approaches the terminal building atop 7,000-foot Mount Avila. The five-mile cable ride, that runs from La Guaira on the seacoast, to the top of Mount Avila and then down to the city of Caracas is easily the longest such in the world.

By Central Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — If Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir Francis Drake, and Henry Morgan, terrors of the Spanish Main, could see the city of Caracas today they'd probably weep with despair.

When Caracas was founded in the 1500s it had a natural barrier of a 7,000-foot mountain that separated it from the oft plundered seacoast where the port of La Guaira now stands.

Today, this fastest growing city in South America is connected with the coast by a fabulous four-lane superhighway and an unbelievable aerial cable car.

Sailors of all nations still arrive on Venezuela's shore (some on cruise ships who after five days talk more like old salts than the admiral himself) and make their way to Caracas. Unlike Sir Francis' boys, their mission is one of sightseeing—not plunder.

Caracas is a city of contrasts. The visitor of a few years ago would not recognize many sections today. The eastern end of the city where fields of sugar cane once swayed is now a thriving residential sector with modern throughways and huge shopping centers. It is also the site of the fabled University City with its ultra modern architecture and colorful tile mosaics.

Downtown Caracas still maintains some of the Old World charm. Places like the Pantheon Nacional, the resting place of Simon Bolivar, and the Casa Natal, Bolivar's birthplace, tell of a bygone era rich in romance and history that closely parallel our own struggle for independence.

"As modern as tomorrow" is the pitch man's expression for the "reclaimed" sections of old Caracas. The twin pink and gold 32-story towers of the Centro Bolivar, South America's "Rockefeller Center," hover above the city.

Avenida Urdaneta, with its mosaic sidewalks and elegant shops is more like Fifth avenue than Fifth avenue itself. The new section of Avenida Los Proceres now being decorated with parks and statues should rival Egypt's Avenue of the Sphinxes.

The one unparalleled tourist attraction in this hemisphere is Caracas' "Teleferico," a five-mile long aerial cable car system that joins Caracas and the Caribbean, near La Guaira, by crossing the 7,000-foot high Mount Avila.

For only $2.40 the visitor can take the round trip cable ride to the "sky"—a thrill no one should miss. From the top of the Mount Avila and especially the 14-story mountain top Hotel Humboldt, you can have an eagle's eye view of both the city of Caracas and the blue Caribbean.

For the sports enthusiasts there is ice skating in an artificial rink.

Anyone who has ridden the "teleferico" will tell you to wait until after dark for the descent back to Caracas. To be suspended in darkness above the lights of Caracas that twinkle like thousands of diamonds, rubies and emeralds, is a real "Alice in Wonderland" adventure.

Big Chunks Whacked Out Of Congressional Record

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Avid readers of the Congressional Record long have suspected that some of the words reported therein are slightly less than immortal. But few of us have realized how far short of immortal the words really were.

Right now at the Government Printing Office huge chunks are being whacked out of the permanent Record, which is to be published next week.

These deletions are from the appendix, where congressmen place almost anything.

A late starting edition of the Record came out today, and a couple of random samplings show how widespread a congressman's interest can be.

Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D) of Chicago has a reprint of an article on the first O'Hara ever to serve in Congress — Rep. James E. O'Hara of North Carolina, who was here from 1882 to 1887. But, faith, in spite of the name, James E. O'Hara was no true son of the Ould Sod. James O'Hara was a Negro.

Or take the report reprinted by Rep. Fred Schwengel (R) of Davenport, Iowa. It deals with a study on income tax reductions for parents of college students, particularly interesting to Schwengel since he introduced a bill on that subject.

These, and many, many more, never will make the permanent Record that will go into the nation's libraries.

This pruning has been going on for several years, but nobody paid much heed. Then Clifford Gaucher, who is the secretary for Rep. Philip J. Philbin (D) of Clinton, Mass., recently needed some figures that he recalled had been inserted in the appendix. But when he looked for them, they had disappeared.

So he looked up what had happened, and gave the results in Roll Call, a newspaper put out every couple of weeks for those who work around the Capitol.

Actually this began in 1953, when the Joint Printing Committee decided to knock out of the permanent Record "all extraneous matter including but not limited to newspaper and magazine articles, editorials, addresses, radio programs, commentators' stories, resolutions from organizations and individuals, letters from constituents, etc."

So it was all right, and certainly bipartisan, to:

Knock out a speech Thomas E. Dewey made at a cornerstone laying at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, put in the Record by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R) of New York City; and Wipe out a "Tribute to President Truman on his 70th Birthday," by the historian Henry Steele Commager, put in by Sen. Henry Jackson (D) of Everett, Wash.

But like copyreaders everywhere, once they got their pencils flying they were tempted too far. They also whacked out a speech Javits had made to the Rodelph Sholom Men's Assn., and another that Jackson had made to the American Power Assn.

Naturally, this wouldn't do. A senator's and a representative's words, no matter where they were uttered or written, now stay in.

James L. Harrison, staff director for the committee, said today the pruning has produced no complaints. One possible reason: It has been taking from 18 to 20 large volumes to print the congressional goings on each session. This has been reduced by four to seven volumes—at a savings of half a million dollars.

Navy Rates Air Safety Award

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Navy reported yesterday that exactly 99.44 per cent of all its air flights were made without accident in the 12 months ended June 30.

Aviation accidents cost the Navy 287 million dollars in the same period but the rate of major flying mishaps fell to an all-time low.

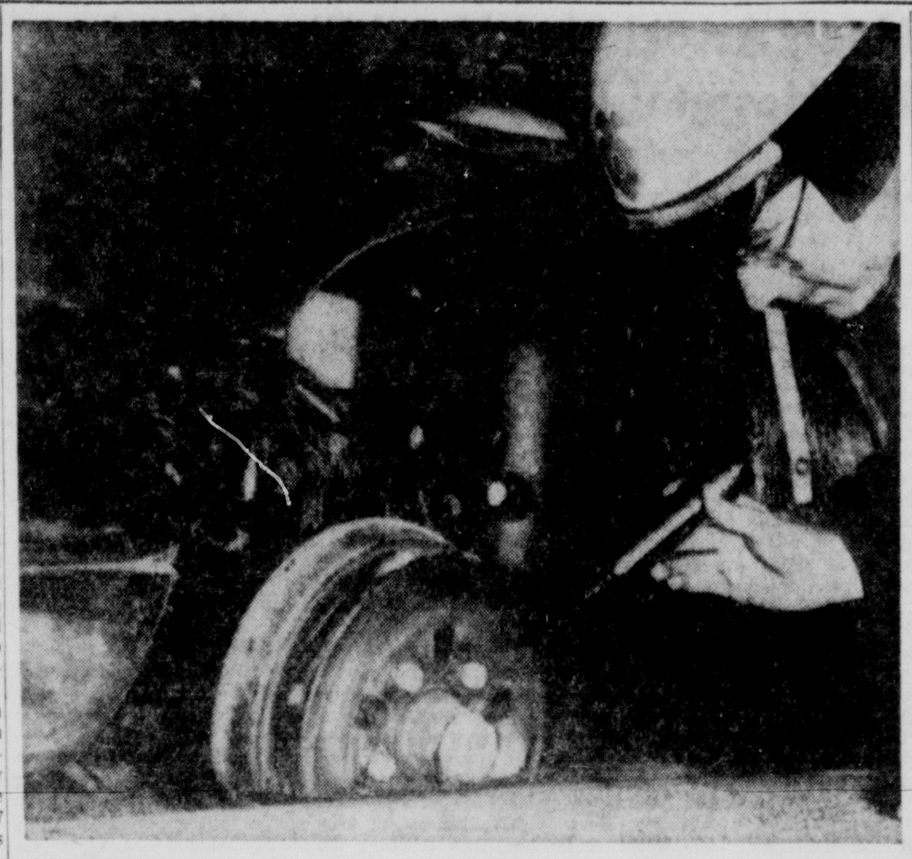

The Navy made these points at a Pentagon briefing at which senior officers warned that flying safety will become more of a problem as faster and more complex aircraft are produced.

Capt. E. L. Farrington, director of Aviation safety for the chief of naval operations, told reporters that the dollar cost of aircraft damaged or destroyed in fiscal 1957 was $59,300,000 more than in the previous 12 months. He said the increase was due entirely to the higher cost of military hardware.

At the same time, Farrington reported a continuing downtrend in the number of major mishaps, because of intensive work on safety features and improvements. The major accident rate for fiscal '57 fell to 3.06 for each 10,000 hours flown by Navy airmen, an all-time low. In the previous year the rate for the same number of hours flown was 3.33.

The 45-year-old cook had a blowout on his way to work. He put on the spare but it blew out on the homeward trip—so he just kept driving. Police said they chased him two miles with red lights and siren going. By the time they stopped him the wheel was ground almost to the axle. Said McQuade: "I couldn't hear your siren." Police booked him on suspicion of drunk driving. (AP Photofax)

Painting Bought For $280 May Be Worth $500,000

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—A British art collector said today that a painting which lay unrecognized for years at his home has been identified as the work of 15th century German artist Albrecht Durer. It may be worth half a million dollars, he said.

A member of Sir Edmund's family bought the painting in 1945 for less than 100 pounds—$280 at the present exchange rate.

But Sir Edmund said an expert spotted a photograph of the painting at a library recently and suggested it be checked. Sir Edmund said art authorities confirmed it was a Durer.

SCREEN VARIATION: Yoshiro Nakamatsu shows how his invention attaches to standard projector, automatically controlling width of picture projection.

Japanese Movie Gadget Adapts Screen To Scene

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP) — A young Japanese inventor and a major Japanese movie company say they have perfected a system which for the first time will introduce movie-goers to a constantly changing field of vision.

They have high hopes for the automatic device which, attached to a standard film projector, tailors the size of the screen to meet the needs of each scene.

For instance, two persons talking in a room would be projected on a narrow screen, but as they looked out a window the screen would expand instantly to cinemascope size.

Curtains glide silently back and forth, masking out unused portions of the big screen.

Named "Nakamascope" after its inventor Yoshiro Nakamatsu, 29, president of the Tokyo University Inventor Society, the new system is scheduled for adoption soon by the big Shochiku Motion Picture Co.

Premiere Scheduled

Kiyoshi Takamura, the company's managing director, says a world premiere with the new device "will be held in November or December" at its plush Chuo Theater.

Shochiku produces an average of one full length picture a week for its 2,061 theatres throughout Japan.

"We have conducted tests in the Chuo Theater and they were satisfactory," Takamura said. "Only a little more research is needed to eliminate parasite noises coming from the masking of the screen."

Inventor Nakamatsu explained in an interview that Nakamascope is a device adaptable to all existing movie projectors and screens.

The heart of the system is a synchronizer which receives signals imprinted on the film and relays them to an adaptor on the lens of the projector.

The adaptor, through a series of prisms, regulates the beam of light striking the screen, narrowing it for some scenes and suddenly widening it for others.

Nakamascope was patented throughout the world last summer. "It was my 909th invention, so I called it Model 909," Nakamatsu said. A standard set will cost $1,400 and de luxe equipment $5,600.

The invention resulted from his own theory concerning the future of the motion picture industry.

"Movie attendance picked up some 15 per cent a few years ago in the United States when cinemascope was invented. However, after the initial surprise, it lost its effect.

"With Nakamascope there is constant change of size which will keep the phychological effect of the screen's size forever new.

"For instance a scene of two people in a small place will be shown in standard screen size. But when a train emerges from a tunnel into the open, the screen will suddenly widen to cinemascope size. The effect is impressive."

Although Nakamatsu said he feels obligated to Shochiku, he would like to show Hollywood his Nakamascope.

Heart Association Head Cites Need For Hospital Beds, Wheel Chairs

The demand for services offered by the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association have increased more rapidly in the past three months than in any comparable period since its inception here, F. Allan Weatherholt, association president, said last night.

These needs, all of them described as worthy cases, have placed a strain upon the physical resources of the association as well as on the time of the visiting nurse and case worker and the help of a number of volunteers, he observed. The added requests for service, all of which are being met as they develop, will also make necessary a larger budget in next year's February campaign, it was noted.

Among the many services of the association which are rendered daily, is the asscoiation's lending closet, where such items as wheel chairs, hospital beds, oxygen equipment and other sick room appliances are furnished to those who need them, free of charge.

The immediate need, Mr. Weatherholt noted, is for additional hospital beds and wheel chairs. At the present time, the Heart Association has loaned to heart patients a total of 11 fully equipped hospital beds, four wheel chairs, three pairs of bed sides, two oxygen sets, one baby crib, eight plastic mattress covers and eight muslin mattress covers, in addition to numerous other sick room items.

In checking with Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, the association's visiting nurse, Mr. Weatherholt said he was advised that all this equipment is in use and that in addition, there are requests on hand now for equipment that is not available.

About half of the equipment now on loan was given to the asscoiation by local civic, service, social and veterans organizations, who raised or collected funds for health agency purposes. The other half has been purchased with association funds.

Mr. Weatherholt pointed out that there is immediate need now for four additional hospital beds, two wheel chairs, three pairs of bed sides, seven plastic mattress covers, seven muslin mattress covers, one set of oxygen equipment and two hospital baby cribs.

An inventory on all this equipment is kept in proper order, and as a patient improves, it has been possible on several occasions to move the patient to a regular bed, thus releasing the hospital bed for a patient who must be elevated, or needs this special care. Sometimes too, it is possible to release a bed when a physician transfers a patient from a bed to a wheel chair.

Since there was no provision in the current budget for such a large amount of additional equipment, the association is hopeful that organizations in the two counties will adopt special money raising projects to help supply these needed furnishings.

A hospital bed, to a heart patient, or a wheel chair to a person who has suffered a stroke, may mean the difference between full recovery or a longer lingering period of convalesence, the Heart president declared. "Heart disease, stroke or sudden heart attack may strike anyone, and when it does, few, if any families are prepared with the kind of equipment needed to provide maximum care in the home, and the Heart Association is looked to for this type of help", he observed.

The lending closet of the association is operated without cost to all who need it. The association pays for sterilization of equipment, sterilization and renovating mattresses after they have been used, and for sterilizing mattress covers. There is no charge to the families needing the equipment.

With the additional demand for this type of service, the association is presently meeting the needs with emergency or rented equipment, and will welcome any assistance from clubs, organizations or individuals, in the project of enlarging the lending closet to help all who are stricken and seek assistance.

The lending closet is one of 14 specialized services offered residents by the Heart Association.

C. M. SANNER

C. M. Sanner Is Named Special Fund Chairman

C. M. Sanner, secretary of the Hazelwood Construction Company, has been named special campaign co-chairman for the County United Fund.

His specific assignment will be of supervising fund-raising work among small businesses throughout the CUF campaign area.

Sanner's appointment was announced yesterday by Lewis J. Ort, CUF campaign chairman, and the Hazelwood official joins forces with three co-chairmen previously named — Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company; Woodward D. Pealer, manager of the Kelly-Springfield retail store, and William R. Carscaden, local attorney.

Well known as chairman of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross, for which he also served as campaign chairman in 1955 and 1956, Sanner is vice president of the Rotary Club and has been a director of the YMCA for three years.

A graduate of Gettysburg College, he joined the Hazelwood Company in 1949. He is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and served on the church building committee that raised over $200,000. He is also employers' representative chairman of the Construction Industry Insurance Fund of Western Maryland.

The Golden Gifts Division of CUF has already accounted for nearly $100,000 of the campaign goal of $250,000, and is expected to reach its own first-section goal of $115,000 by the end of this week. William C. Walsh, co-chairman of Golden Gifts with William A. Douglas, will direct the second-section campaign of the division. The overall goal of Golden Gifts is $125,000.

The initial meeting of representatives of the 15 communities associated with the County United Fund will be held today at 6:30 p. m. at Clarysville Inn to set up organizational lines for the drive.

Edmund S. Burke, president of CUF, and Ort, campaign chairman, have urged all town representatives to be present at the meeting. Ort points out that CUF, through member agencies, will provide service for approximately 100,000 persons or 25,000 families.

It is estimated that the share of communities in the area will amount to $50,000, while the remaining $200,000 of the $250,000 goal set up by CUF will be raised by Cumberland.

Pottery Workers Win Pay Increase

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP)—Agreement on a new two-year contract was announced last night by the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters and the U. S. Potters Assn.

The new contract, to replace a two-year contract expiring Oct. 1, provides a 14-cent hourly package increase and will affect about 20,000 persons in 14 china and general pottery ware plants in five states.

Agreement was announced as the eight days of negotiations ended shortly before 7 p.m., EDT.

The agreement affects plants in these cities:

East Liverpool, East Palestine, Crooksville, Salem and Sebring, Ohio; Chester, Newell, Paden City, Wheeling and Clarksburg, W. Va.; Huntington Park and Glendale, Calif., Trenton, N. J., and Canonsburg, Pa.

Joseph Wells, of Newell, W. Va., headed potters association negotiators. He is chairman of the association's labor committee.

Film Queens Warned

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 12 (AP) — The Moving Picture Board is warning Mexico's movie queens to keep their clothes on. It banned nudes several months ago and reports there is a trend toward nudity in new films.

Teamsters Union Wins Voting At PPG Store

The representative election held for the employes of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's local retail outlet has been won by Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeur's Union.

Certification of the election was received yesterday by Joseph E. Garlitz, business agent, from John A. Penello, Baltimore, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board's fifth region.

The balloting was conducted two weeks ago under the direction of the NLRB. The employes could vote for representation by the Teamsters, by the Glaziers Union, or for none at all.

The election was held after a petition had been filed by the Teamsters with the NLRB. The Glaziers Union then entered the case as an intervenor, asking to have that union placed on the ballot.

A hearing was held here before Sidney Smith, NLRB examiner. The national board upheld Smith's ruling that the Glaziers should be allowed to be placed on the ballot.

The Teamsters objected on the grounds that the Glaziers outnumbered them, but the results of election show that all employes who voted were for representation by Local 453, Garlitz said.

The results of this election ends two years of negotiations by the Teamsters and the company.

B&O Traffic Increases In August

The August business of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was up from July, but it was under that of August 1956.

The freight movement of 252,906 cars last month was up nine per cent from 231,963 for July and was the best since May when 257,221 carloads were handled.

However, August loads fell 5.65 per cent below the level of 268,040 cars marked up for the corresponding month of last year when the railroad was picking up business that had been held back by the steel strikes of July last year.

Loadings averaged 9,367 cars daily in August against 8,922 in the preceding month and 9,927 a year earlier.

Coal loadings last month declined three per cent to 63,997 cars from 65,979 a year ago. But steel business was up 2.6 per cent at 13,599 cars against 13,252 in 1956.

The freight rate increase did not become effective until August 26 so it will have little effect on earnings for last month.

ASSOCIATION HEAD — Dr. Ernest B. Nuttall, Baltimore, will preside at the semi-annual meeting of the Maryland State Dental Association, to be held here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. As president of the association, Dr. Nuttall will introduce the principal speaker, Dr. Ernest T. Lewis of Pittsburgh, who will speak on "Nutritional Disturbances Affecting Patients with Dentures." Headquarters for the three-day meeting will be the Fort Cumberland Hotel, according to Dr. J. Russell Cook, general chairman of arrangements.

Dead Rabbit Complaint Received At City Hall

A complaint about a dead rabbit in a yard and live rats in the vicinity of residences on Wempe Drive brought home yesterday in City Hall the importance of the $500,000 urban development bond issue, city officials said.

The bond issue is "hog tied" at the time being, until a referendum is conducted or the issue is put up before the voters at the next city election.

Mayor Roy W. Eves pointed out that numerous complaints have been received about the open ditch sewer in the Wempe Drive section.

William H. Buchholtz, street commissioner, listed in his proposed budget this year an item of $90,000 to take care of this condition.

He also listed $15,000 to remedy a storm sewer situation that results in the Hill Top Drive section

These were not included in the city budget passed August 26.

The Mayor pointed out that these two needed projects would no doubt come from the urban development bond issue which is earmarked for Cumberland Thruway and other street and sewer work.

Under the city's contract with the State Roads Commission, Cumberland must furnish the rights-of-way and relocate all utilities.

This year's budget also shows another item that should have come from the "hog tied" bond issue.

That was $37,500 that was allocated for the relocation of the city sewer in the path of the industrial boulevard near Thomas Street.

Various city officials pointed out that if this were coming from the bond issue, the $37,500 from operating expenses could be put toward a pay increase for city employes.

Mayor Eves said the complaint on the rabbits was referred to the County Health Department and to the humane officer.

Gen Francis Marion, the American Revolutionary war leader, was known as the "Swamp Fox."

Garden Group Lists Projects During Season

Tree Conservation Will Be Chief Aim

The chief aim of the Cumberland Garden Club this year will be the conservation of trees existing in the city and the planting of new ones.

At the first meeting of the club Monday, a letter was read from City Attorney Thomas B. Finan concerning the city's ordinance on trees and comparing it with Hagerstown's and Frederick's ordinances.

Other plans and coming events for the club were listed by Mrs. Gilbert Miller, president, who presided and also introduced officers and board members for the coming year. They are:

Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, recording secretary; Mrs. James Pitkethly, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry Miller, treasurer; Mrs. George Henderson, vice president; Mrs. Ward Jamison, membership; Mrs. Art Gordon, bird chairman; Mrs. Robert Ebert, conservation; Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, flower arrangement; Arnett Widener, horticulture; Mrs. Harry Griggs, junior clubs; Mrs. Paul Fletcher, legislation; Mrs. R. L. Horstman, literature; Mrs. C. H. Helmick, newsletter; R. W. Phillips, roadside, and Mrs. Gordon Bowie, publicity.

Other business at the meeting included the announcement of the flower show which will be sponsored by District 5 of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland on October 3 in Hagerstown. The show will be in the Museum of Art and will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Other announcements of meetings were made for a judging school to be held in Frederick on October 14, 15 and 16, and flower shows in Martinsburg, W. Va., on September 20, and in Mount Airy, October 18.

Another project of the club this fall will be a trip to Pittsburgh to attend the chrysanthemum show. If enough persons are interested the club will charter a bus for members of the club and their friends.

A project which would interest fifth and sixth grade students in garden clubs is under way by Mrs. Griggs, chairman of the junior clubs committee.

A report was read at the meeting by Mrs. Robert Ebert on the recent meeting at the Court House concerning Maryland Land Week.

It was announced at Monday's meeting that there won't be a fall flower show this year and that all future meetings of the club will be conducted on the second Monday of each month at the Woman's Civic Club house at 8 p.m.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—The stock market made it two in a row on the upside today, scoring its best gain in nearly two weeks and reaching the two million share level again.

Key stocks advanced 3 points or more in a continued comeback from six weeks of rarely broken decline.

Although prices had various items of good news to feed upon, market analysts regarded the performance primarily as a continuation of yesterday's technical recovery.

A report that the government may unfreeze military spending in the next few weeks helped general sentiment. Du Pont was boosted 3 points by a Wall Street report that the company expects two billion dollars in sales this year for the first time. Zenith rose 3 points as FCC Chairman Doerfer predicted his agency would rule soon on a tryout for subscription television. International oil shares took heart from what seemed to be a less menacing situation regarding Syria.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $2.30 to $173.80 for its best rise since Aug. 30. The industrials gained $3.80, the rails $2.00 and the utilities 30 cents.

Fourteen of the 15 most active stocks rose and one fell.

Sperry Rand was the most active stock, off ¼ at 21 on 33,200 shares. Second was General Motors, up ⅛ at 41¾ at 28,900 shares. Third was Royal Dutch, up ⅛ at 54⅜ on 23,000 shares.

Next came Bethlehem Steel, up ⅞ at 44⅞, and Anaconda, up 1¼ at 51⅞.

Heavily-traded issues included Gulf Oil, up 4, Chrysler and Standard Oil (NJ) both up 1, Anderson Prichard up 1⅜ and Westinghouse Electric up 1⅜.

Lemmert Likes Health Centers For County

Armory Site Is Suggested

A possibility of health centers in Allegany County along the pattern established in Anne Arundel County has been suggested by William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Mr. Lemmert said he was favorably impressed by the remarks made last week by Dr. J. Howard Beard, Anne Arundel County health officer, at the seventh annual convention of the State Association of County Commissioners at Ocean City. Mr. Lemmert is vice president of the association.

For a start, the president of the county commissioners believes the first such center should be located in the present armory on South Centre Street. The Mayor and City Council already are negotiating for a new armory at the end of Ridgedale Avenue on the West Side. If and when the new structure is completed, the present armory will be available for other uses.

The president of the county commissioners observed that some city officials have suggested that the county should look for new facilities for the County Health Department which utilizes two floors of the Public Safety Building on Frederick Street at Liberty Street.

Anne Arundel County has a larger population than Allegany County and is growing more rapidly. As a consequence, the health centers here would not have to be as large or as extensive as in the county where Annapolis is located.

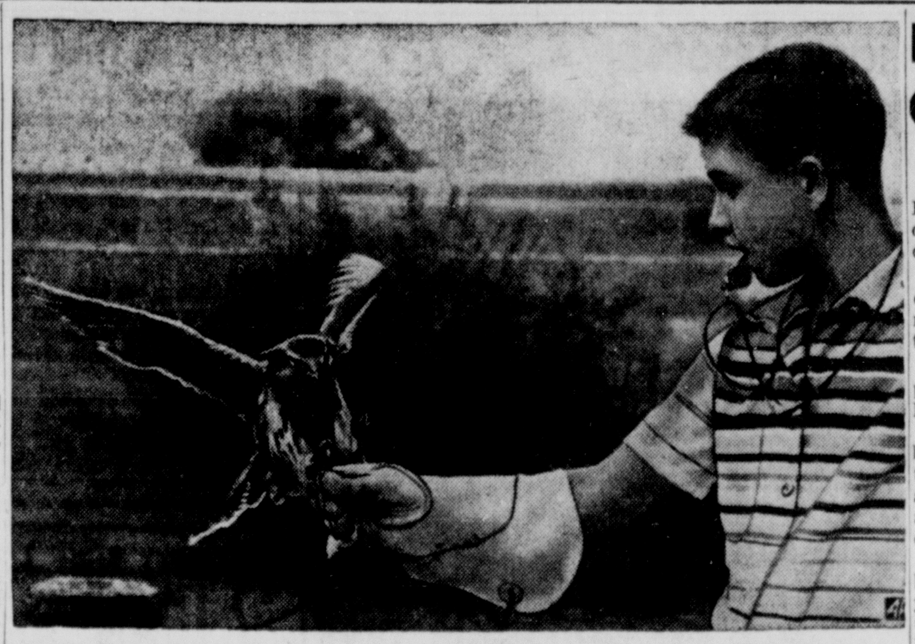

In the 1950 census Allegany County had 89,556 and Anne Arundel County 117,392. Anne Arundel had increased 71.1 per cent in the ten years since 1940 and the rate of increase still is large.

FLEDGELING FALCONER: Johnnie Griggs' falcon alights on his wrist for food. The heavy leather gauntlet protects his arm from the bird's sharp talons.

New Mexico Youngster Trying Well-Gloved Hand At Falconry

By JACK SAMSON

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., (AP)—A young New Mexico boy is trying his hand at the "Sport of Kings."

And no mean trick it is, this mastering of the medieval sport of falconry.

The young enthusiast is John Griggs, 13, who has raised a prairie falcon and plans to train it for hunting.

The boy and his father, Roy L. Griggs, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey, took the young hawk from a nest on a cliff near Tucumcari this spring. Named Buccaneer and nearly full size now, the fierce-looking bird stays on a perch either in the garage of the Griggs' home or on the lawn of the back yard.

John, who became interested in the sport several years ago, has left nothing to chance. He has corresponded with professional falconers in Europe and the United States, and obtained all necessary equipment.

In his collection of paraphernalia are leather hoods with feathered plumes, made from ancient patterns, leather gauntlets, metal bells from Pakistan and Europe, leather game bags made by British falconers, jesses (leg leashes) and special metal swivels for falcons' leaches.

When fully trained — as John hopes his bird someday will be—a hunting falcon is an impressive sight.

Unlike most hawks, which capture their prey in the air and kill it on the ground, falcons kill by striking in mid-air with a closed claw.

When game is sighted, the falconer removes the hood from the falcon's head. The hood keeps the hawk from seeing and therefore quiet. As soon as the falcon sights its prey, it takes off from the falconer's wrist and begins to circle for altitude. When the desired altitude is reached, the hawk takes off after the fleeing bird. From high above it, the falcon half closes its wings, drops in a whistling dive, "pulls out" just above its prey and strikes with clenched feet. The blow usually breaks the neck or the back of the fleeing game and it tumbles to earth. The falcon swoops and perches on the dead game until the falconer arrives.

Practiced by the nobility of Europe and before that by royalty of Asia and the Near East, falconry began to go out of vogue with the invention of firearms. Only a handful of enthusiasts practice it today.

Physical Education Meeting Set Monday

A meeting of physical education instructors for junior and senior high schools in Allegany County public schools will be held Monday, September 30, at 2 p. m. at the Board of Education office on Washington Street.

Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical educatior for county schools, said the purpose is to outline needs of the students as has been determined by the latest physical fitness reports on a nationwide basis.

Pence said after the discussion has proceeded far enough into the field of physical education needs a decision on revision of the curriculum where needed will be made.

Pen's Busy Garden Club Country's Most Exclusive

By EDWARD S. KITCH

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Stateville Penitentiary is the scene of one of the most beautiful flower gardens in the United States.

It is kept up by one of the most exclusive garden clubs in the nation: You have to be a crook to belong.

"Gardening helps the time pass," says Warden Joseph E. Ragen.

Since 1936, Statesville's grounds have been transformed into a thing of beauty. There are 62 acres behind the high grey walls, and 20 acres are in flower gardens.

"Starting with seeds, we raise half a million flower plants a year," Warden Ragen said. "Petunias are what we are best known for, but we raise dozens of other types of flowers as well."

The flower gardening by some of America's most desperate criminals has softened them as well as the stern prison drabness.

"It has turned many towards profitable, law abiding lives," Warden Ragen said. "The men are assigned to work in our garden after thorough training in gardening and horticulture. When they leave here, they are qualified professional gardeners. Many have adopted gardening as a livelihood as a means of escaping a life of crime."

The warden finds closeness to nature changes the attitude of even the most hardened men.

"The boys work from dawn to dark," he said. "When they get in at night they are plenty tired."

Warden Ragen, a veteran gardener himself, instituted Stateville's flower-raising program 21 years ago because "men were sitting around with nothing to do but get into trouble."

All 4,300 inmates benefit, although only about 200 prisoners are assigned to the gardens. Warden Ragen says the men are less tense and less desperate "because of those gardens of flowers."

The prison also maintains a 2,200 acre farm.

About 160 trusted convicts stay at the farm. An equal number join them from the prison each day.

Warden Ragen personally has only one boast, although he is hailed by his fellow penologists as one of the most successful prison officials in the nation.

His petunias have been prize winners in national judgings for several years.

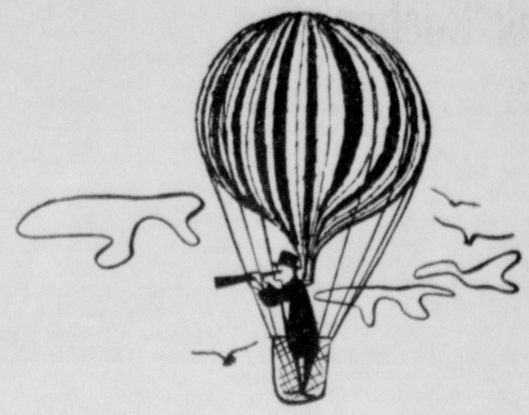

Nigeria annually exports 100,000 tons of chocolate beans. This British colony on Africa's west coast accounts for about 15 per cent of world production.

Great Britain did not give up some of its territorial claims in Michigan until 1796, 13 years after the close of the Revolutionary war.

Chrysler Corp. Denies Wartime Tank 'Booboo'

DETROIT, Sept. 12 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. said today all Army tanks built at its Newark, Del., plant met with all contract specifications and were accepted by the government.

A company spokesman, answering criticism of the tanks by Rep. Riehlman (R-NY), also said the tanks had been praised by World War II fighting forces.

Rep. Riehlman said at Syracuse, N. Y., yesterday the government made a "50-million-dollar booboo" in approving what he called defective tanks. Riehlman is a member of the congressional subcommittee on government operations.

Riehlman said the company disclaimed responsibility in declaring it produced "what was asked for."

Chrysler's spokesman said "all of the tanks built by Chrysler at the company - financed Newark plant have fulfilled all specifications set forth in the company's various contracts and have been accepted by the government.

"Tens of thousands of Chrysler-built tanks have seen service in all combat areas since early World War II and have received the praise of the fighting forces of the United States and our allies."

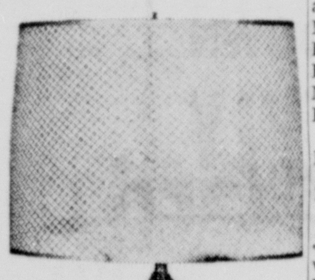

Police Seek Child Bitten By Rabid Dog

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—An alarm was broadcast to police along the East Coast today for an airman traveling from New York to South Carolina with a child bitten by a rabid dog.

Maryland State police said they had been asked to help in the search for Airman 2-c Manuel G. Serao Jr., who was reported enroute to Shaw Air Force Base, near Greenville, S. C.

A police bulletin said Serao, accompanied by his wife and two children, was returning to base from New York after leave which began Aug. 26. Police were not told the date of his departure from New York.

Police said the family was traveling in a 1949 blue Mercury sedan with South Carolina tags and was believed to be heading south on U.S. 1.

Boy May Be Tried In Circuit Court

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday the case of the 14-year-old local youth who police said broke into several homes Wednesday will be heard in Circuit Court, provided a release is given by Juvenile Court.

The youth, who has been in the care of a psychiatrist for some time, gave a statement yesterday to Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator.

Mr. Getty said the case will be taken to Circuit Court because if the boy is found to be in need of treatment only that court can have him committed to Patuxent Institution.

The youth was taken into custody on Greene Street Wednesday night after the police had received several calls that homes in the Greene Street section had been entered by a young boy who took money from the homes.

Local Naval Unit Wins Top Award

Surface Division 5-9, local Naval Reserve unit, has been informed that it has been determined as the winner of the Forrestal Trophy, annually awarded to the outstanding USNR division in the nation.

Official notification of the award is expected in the near future from the Washington office of the Chief of Naval Personnel.

The local surface division was declared the winner from among 208 large units from throughout the nation, and Cumberland is the smallest city ever to win the prize trophy.

Division spokesmen said the winner is determined by accumulative scores and merits, and that the basis on which the scores are compiled includes on-board strength, attendance at drills, active training duty, advancement in rating and similar factors.

The winning divisions retain the trophy for a year. The trophy is now held by the Surface Division at Gary, Ind., and presentation to the local group is expected sometime around the end of October or the first part of November. The Gary presentation was made by former Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson.

After the trophy is passed on, officers pointed out, plaques are awarded the divisions for permanent possession.

Division spokesmen explained that surface divisions are divided into large and small units, depending on the enlistment allowances, and required man-strength.

The national winner of the medium surface division trophy is the Johnstown, Pa., unit, also the first time for that city and the first that two so closely located cities have been national winners. Officers of the local Reserve division said officials at the Omaha Naval Reserve Training Command commented on the proximity of the winners of the respective programs.

The Forrestal Trophy was established on a rotating basis in 1947 by Naval Reserve organizations and since that time winners have been:

Fall River, Mass., 1948; Camden, N. J., 1949 and 1950, the only division ever to repeat as national champion; Santa Monica, Calif., 1951; New Orleans, 1952; Lorain, Ohio, 1953; Williamsport, Pa., 1954; Santa Monica, 1955, and Gary, 1956.

Besides the surface divisions, Naval Reserve trophies on a national basis are also awarded to electronic divisions, submarine divisions and security groups.

Division 5-9 maintained an average of 229 officers and enlisted men for the past year. Meetings are held on Wednesday evenings, and not only was a high degree of attendance maintained, but 129 per cent of the personnel attended active duty training.

In the Naval Reserve, it was explained, active duty is not a unit requirement, but is conducted on the basis of the individual. It was for this reason that so many were able to receive such training, officers said.

'Miss Aviation' Contest Will Feature Air Show

The selection of a "Miss Cumberland Aviation" will be one of the highlights of the Cumberland All-American Air Show which will be presented Sunday, September 29 at the Municipal Air port.

Warren Mullenax, airport manager, who is co-sponsor of the show with the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company, said the contest is open to girls between the ages of 16 and 25 years.

The names of contestants can be submitted at either the air show office at the Fort Cumberland Hotel or the municipal airport, Mullenax said, adding that the age, weight and telephone number of each girl should accompany the name submitted.

A number of prizes will be awarded, Mullenax continued, and the grand prize for the girl selected as "Miss Cumberland Aviation" will be an all-expenses air trip.

In connection with the air show, Mayor Roy W. Eves said he will proclaim September 29 as Cumberland Aviation Day.

Featuring the program will be maneuvers by Bevo Howard of Moultrie, Ga., champion precision flyer, who will be at the controls of his German-built Beucker Jungmeister biplane.

Howard will execute 37 aerobatic maneuvers in less than 13 minutes, Mullenax said. The maneuvers will include the cobra roll, Chinese eight, outside loops and snaps, and will be concluded with an upside-down pickup of a ribbon 35 feet off the ground.

Another highlight of the program will be Miss Shirley Stafford, parachutist and wing walker, who will open the show at approximately 2 p. m.

Miss Walker will step from her aircraft at about 2,500 feet above the airport and descend by parachute with an American flag as the National Anthem is played. While descending, she will be circled in smoke by a 450 Boeing Skyrocket Special.

Later in the show, Miss Walker will stand atop the wing of a 450 Stearman as Mel Robinson, southeastern aerobatic champion, sends the craft through a series of smoke rolls and loops.

Announcer for the show will be Bill Sweet of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who is nationally known as the "Voice of the Skyways." Sweet, who is portrayed in the "Smiling Jack" film strip as "Sill Bweet," has announced every major air show in the country for the past 27 years. These include the annual National Air Races at Cleveland, the Miami (Fla.) All-American Air Maneuvers and the Birmingham (Ala.) Air Carnival. Sweet is also a "regular" at the International Air Games which are staged in Paris.

Youth Ordered For Induction

An area youth has been ordered to report for induction into the Armed Forces on Tuesday of next week.

Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator for the local Selective Service boards, said yesterday that James Frederick Mueller, RD 1, Paw Paw, will leave next Tuesday for the Fairmont induction center. He is from Board 27.

Fahey noted that the local boards have not received any calls for physicals during October.

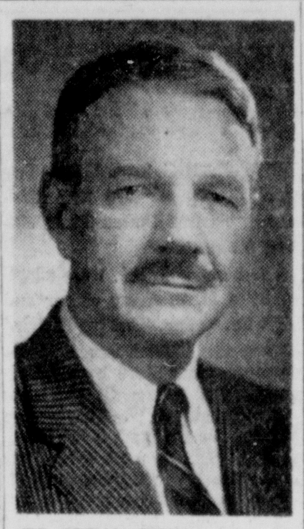

Church Kindergarten To Open Sunday

The sixth year of kindergarten school will open at Trinity Lutheran Church with an open house on Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

Parents who have children attending are invited to the open house to meet the teacher, Mrs. Albert Keiffner and tour the kindergarten.

A program and social hour have been arranged for Sunday's meeting.

The school will officially open on Monday, September 16. Sessions will be conducted from 1 until 4 p. m.

TO SPEAK HERE—John J. Cronin, Chicago field executive of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will speak at a dinner of the Cumberland Real Estate Board today at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Cronin has served as executive secretary of the Maryland Council of Retail Merchants and on the legislative committee of the National Association of Retail Merchants.

Holy Name Society Plans Meeting Sunday

A meeting of the Western Maryland Section of the Holy Name Society will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the St. Patrick's Social Center, according to James E. Coyle, president.

Plans for the annual communion breakfast, to be held Sunday, October 27, will be discussed.

POLICEMEN HONOR BEALL—A certificate of merit from the Policemen's Association of the District of Columbia is presented to Senator J. Glenn Beall (center), of Maryland, by Alfred A. Capasso (left), president of the association, and Royce L. Givens, secretary-treasurer of the National Conference of Police Associations, in recognition of Sen. Beall's efforts "in behalf of the welfare of the policemen of the District of Columbia." Sen. Beall recently introduced and helped obtain passage of a policemen's retirement bill which he said he hopes will be a model for similar legislation in other cities throughout the country.

Japanese Boys With Irish Names Become Citizens

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP) —Two small Japanese boys with Irish names became United States citizens today.

The boys, both 5½, were adopted by a U. S. Army officer and his wife. Today, Terence Richard Bishop and Patrick Francis Bishop were naturalized before Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

Mrs. Richard W. Bishop said she and her husband, a chief warrant officer, "wanted three, but under the law we were only allowed to adopt two."

The couple, now stationed at nearby Ft. Meade, adopted the boys under Refugee Act of 1953.

They got Terence from a Nagoya orphange when he was 23 months old. Just before Bishop was reassigned to the United States, the Bishops found Patrick through a Japanese clerk in an Army commissary.

Both boys are of Japanese-American ancestry.

They are enrolled in kindergarten at Ft. Meade.

It took them awhile to realize they had crossed the ocean to live in another country.

"When we left Japan," Mrs. Bishop related, "we packed most of their toys, including tricycles, which we told them they would get again when they arrived in the United States."

Motoring east across the country the youngsters began arguing whether they were really in the United States.

Patrick convinced Terence they hadn't arrived yet by saying:

"This can't be America. We don't have our tricycles yet."

Rapist Sentenced To 20-Year Term

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Sept. 12 (AP) — Homer Allen Shoemaker, 22, of Hyattsville was sentenced today to 20 years in prison after he was convicted of raping the 24-year-old daughter of a District of Columbia policeman.

Judge Charles C. Marbury recommended that Shoemaker be sent first to the Patuxent Institute for Defective Delinquents for mental examination.

A jury of eight men and four women recommended against capital punishment. Shoemaker was convicted of raping a woman whom he picked up in his car last Jan. 8. She said he offered to drive her to a bus stop, but instead took her to a wooded area near the Baltimore Parkway and attacked her.

Connecticut, popularly known as the "Nutmeg state," is also called the "Constitution state."

Church Circuit Lists Activities

Services next week for churches of the Union Grove Methodist charge have been announced by Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor.

Monday at 7:30 p. m. Zion MYF will meet with Ruth Ann Beck in charge and the official board will hold a meeting with Arthur Brill presiding.

The Elliott MYF will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. with membership and evangelism to be the topics of discussion. Lester Tewell will be in charge and Rev. Emerick will conduct the training period.

Wednesday the members of the WSCS will attend a seminar at Grace Methodist Church at 10 a. m. At 7 p. m. Zion junior choir will rehearse and at 7:30 p. m. the senior choir will practice.

Other activities listed for Wednesday are a meeting of the Pleasant Grove MYF and a round-table discussion by Centenary MYF with Robert Mertens in charge. The Centenary senior choir also will rehearse Wednesday evening.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m. the Pleasant Grove senior choir will practice and on Friday at 10 a. m. members of the WSCS will attend a conference at Centre Street Methodist Church. At 7 o'clock the Pleasant Grove official board will meet and a 8 p. m. the commission on education will hold a meeting.

Third Quarter Income Taxes Due By Monday

Third quarter installment notices for federal estimated income taxes have been mailed to taxpayers who are due to make payment on or before Monday, C. I. Fox, district director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, said yesterday. This extension for payment is due to the fact that the regular due date, September 15, falls on Sunday this year.

Mr. Fox asked that taxpayers return the bill with their remittance so that proper credit may be given.

Advising the taxpayers further, the director said, even though they were not required to file a declaration of estimated tax on April 15, changes in income or exemptions may require that a declaration be filed at a later date. In such case, the time for filing is as follows: June 15 if the change occurs after April 1, and before June 2; September 15 if the change occurs after June 1 and before September 2; January 15, 1958 if the change occurs after September 1. The estimated tax may be paid in full or in equal installments on the remaining payment dates.

Mr. Fox said that where a taxpayer has filed a declaration of estimated tax and it is later indicated that his income will be substantially different than that estimated on the declaration, an amended declaration should be filed. This declaration should be marked amended, and filed with the same district director who received the original declaration.

The director said a blank form for use as an amended declaration is printed on the back of the bill received by the taxpayer for each quarterly installment of estimated tax. The amended declaration may be made on that form, thus furnishing the director's office with full information to locate the account to which it relates.

The Sun Also Loafs, Say Scientists

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Astronomers are finding signs our sun sometimes gets lazy, with relatively sharp cuts in its output of heat, it was reported today.

This finding, not yet confirmed, could have important effects on our climate and weather. An old theory holds that ice ages came when the sun became lazy and cool for long periods.

The sun's radiation is generally thought to be very steady, never varying by more than three-tenths of one per cent day after day, year after year.

But now there are indications that its heat output can drop nine-tenths of one per cent—three times as much—for a period of a few days.

Measurements by Dr. E. C. Slipher and associates of Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., indicate this bigger, unexpected variation, said Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, director of the high-altitude observatory at Boulder, Colo.

Speaking at a symposium on the International Geophysical Year, Dr. Roberts cited this as an example of worldwide IGY efforts to determine secrets of the sun and its many effects upon our planet.

Why the sun should vary the bath of heat it sends to earth is not yet known.

Dr. Slipher measures the sun's radiation by comparing the brightness of the planets Neptune and Uranus with stars of equal brightness. Any dimming in the brightness of the planets means they are receiving less light and radiation from the sun.

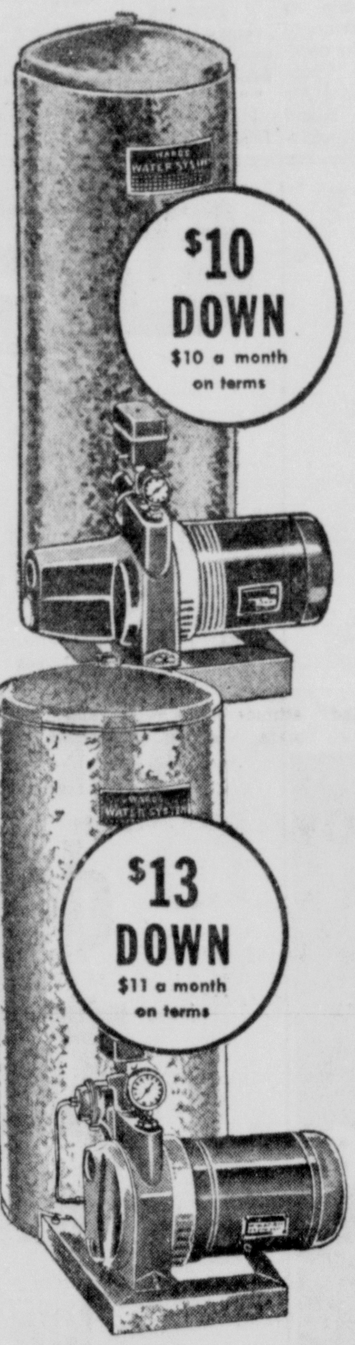

Church To Begin Special Services

Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church on Mary Street will begin special preaching services every Saturday evening, according to Rev. Raymond Campbell, pastor.

Rev. Campbell said the first service will start tomorrow at 8 p. m. and will feature special singing and sermons by the pastor. The services will prepare for a revival in October.

We Forge Ahead In Darkness

A hint by Sen. Harry F. Byrd of possible tax cuts next year is regarded as an indication that both parties will strive to put the voters in a happy frame of mind for the 1958 Presidential elections.

Senator Byrd said that if the Administration cuts its spending sharply there may be sufficient revenue to permit a tax reduction of $4 billion a year and apply $2 billion against the public debt.

He plainly indicates that tax reduction will depend on a lessening of federal spending. But it isn't apparent how an intelligent estimate of the long-term trend in federal spending will be possible when there is no reliable information on the future cost of present welfare programs.

The farmers, the veterans, the old people and other preferred classes have future claims against the Treasury that must be met according to prescribed formulas under existing law. No one really knows what those claims will amount to in future years except that it is reasonable to assume they will increase, particularly in the astronomical realm of Social Security.

One example is typical of all such programs. Appropriations for financing urban renewal and development in fiscal 1957 and 1958 will total approximately $50 million. But six years from now the cost of the same program will have leaped to $250 million at a minimum.

How can there be a non-inflationary reduction in taxes when there is no real advance knowledge of federal spending required under the legislative commitments already in the books?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Why Don't They Let It Happen?

Henry Cabot Lodge, American Ambassador to the United Nations, asked one of the most interesting questions of our time: "Why don't they let it happen?"

This was on "Meet the Press" and was in reply to a question that seemed to imply the Russians had agreed to meet the "open sky" inspection program which President Eisenhower had proposed at Geneva.

Without inspection, no program of disarmament is sensible or practical. How does anyone know that the other side is carrying out its side of the bargain? This applies to the United States as much as it does to Soviet Russia. If there is to be inspection, it ought to be universal and conducted by the United Nations as routine matter every day of the year and in every part of the earth.

When a country rejects inspection with regard to the atom and hydrogen bombs and refuses to provide detailed, verifiable statistics on the subject, it must be presumed that that country has something to hide.

"Why don't they let it happen?" Precisely! Millions of words have been spoken and written on the subject of abolishing the bombs, abolishing stockpiling of fissionable materials. But words do not matter. What is significant is that the first step should be taken toward limitation upon the size, the use, the nature of the bomb and upon the control of the sources of supply of fissionable material. If the first step cannot be taken because of Soviet recalcitrance, what is the use of fancy words and diplomatic documents?

To a degree, this is what is wrong with the sessions of the United Nations. As Lodge correctly said, the principal business of the United Nations is to prevent wars. But the United Nations does not possess the strength to prevent wars, and small wars, peripheral wars are always taking place. The United Nations tries to arbitrate, to conciliate, but in the end, it appeases that country which is the most wicked and the most obstinate.

By that method, it is possible for Soviet Russia to continue its imperialistic conquests without going to war, because what happens after each Soviet outrage is that the United Nations says, "tish-tosh!" And that is the end of it.

Since the Berlin airlift there has been no stopping of Soviet Russia's territorial advance in Asia or Africa, disguised in whatever manner by prolonged conferences. In Europe, the territorial advance has been arrested, it is true, but Russia's advance in Asia and Africa has been phenomenal and is an act of war or a series of acts of war, no matter how else it is described.

When Ambassador Lodge says that the principal business of the United Nations is peace, then we must ask whether the United Nations has had anything to do with safeguarding the world from the consequences, the results, the achievements of an imperialistic country operating throughout the world in a period called "peace" and therefore not within the purview of the United Nations. What Soviet Russia has accomplished has been to narcotize the United Nations and therefore to make it useless.

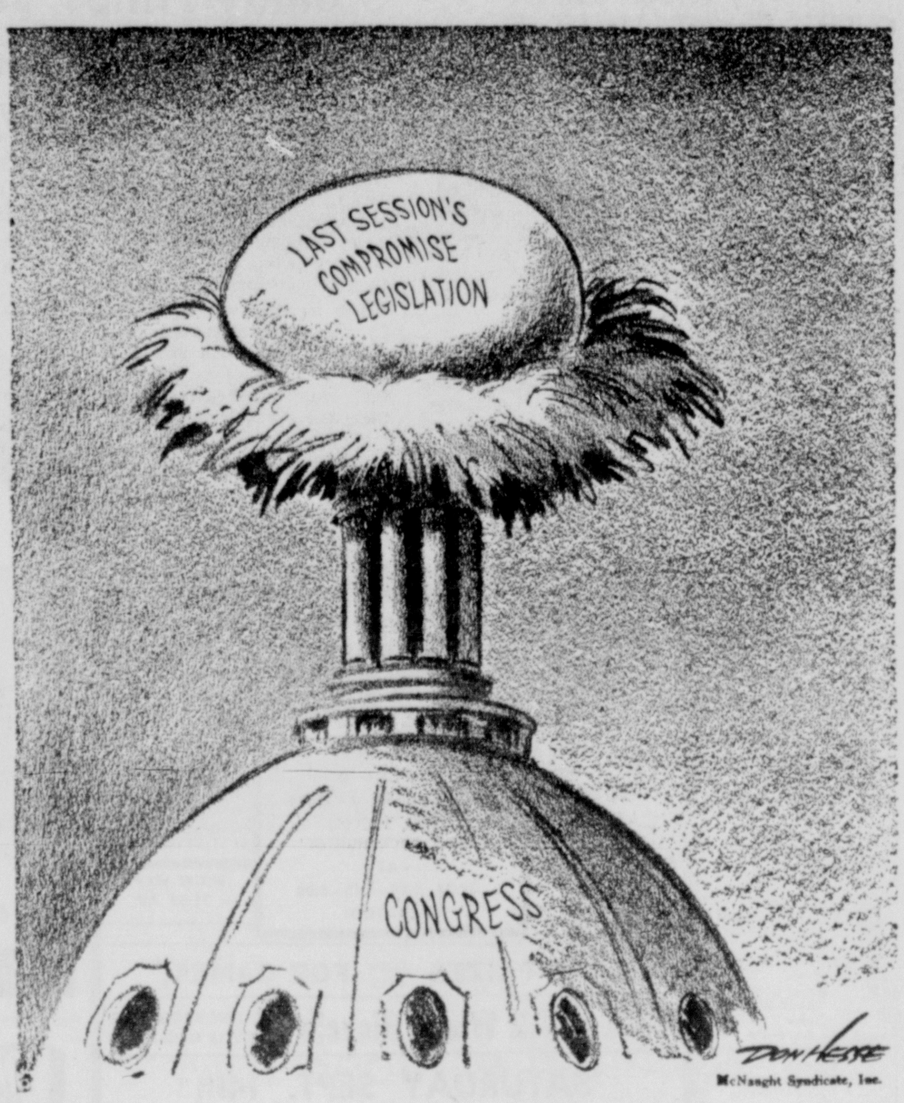

The best proof of this is the Syrian situation. Here is a country that has permitted itself to become a Soviet satellite. There is nothing against international law in that. Syria has a right to choose its friends even if the friend is the devil. But it does not take extraordinary prescience to discover that the object of that friendship is to arm Syria, to train Syrians, to militarize Syria until it becomes a menace to its neighbors, particularly Jordan, which Syria wishes to absorb, and Israel, which Syria wishes to destroy.

So the United States is swiftly supplying Jordan with arms to defend itself against Syria. On the other hand, no arms are swiftly being sent to Israel and it is assumed therefore that some secret deal must have been made with Jordan not to use these American arms against Israel. It could not be otherwise or actually the United States is arming Jordan against Israel as well as Syria.

Surely all these acts, on all sides, are designed to produce a war. Nevertheless, these moves and counter-moves take place and similar ones are taking place elsewhere and the best that can be hoped for is that these peripheral wars do not lead to a universal holocaust.

What Will It Hatch In January?

Supreme Court Ruling: An Answer To Readers

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Letters from readers of these dispatches in recent months have asked this correspondent whether, in view of his criticism of the Supreme Court's decision of 1954, he himself believes in "segregation" in the schools.

An objective analyst of public affairs learns to subordinate his personal views to a dispassionate and impartial examination of the Constitutional issues themselves. This writer, for example, was born in Philadelphia and was educated in "integrated" public schools in Buffalo, N. Y., where one of the star athletes of the football and basketball teams was a Negro and was one of the most popular personalities in the school. This writer recalls his friendships with him in those years and doesn't remember any untoward incidents involving Negroes ever occurring at the high school in question.

As for "integration" today, this correspondent has no personal objection to it and would not hesitate, if he were a student again, to enroll in an "integrated" school.

Then why, it is asked, does the writer criticize the Supreme Court for declaring unconstitutional the state laws that deny Negro students entrance to public schools unless the races are separated?

The answer is that this correspondent firmly believes that the Supreme Court in its decision really violated the Constitution and actually accepted the doctrine that the Negro, despite his educational attainments in recent years, still feels "inferior" to the white man. The decision is to be deplored because it is a reflection on the Negroes and constitutes an insult to all those who take pride in their color.

Many people who talk glibly about the Supreme Court decision of 1954 have never taken the time to examine carefully what the court really did say.

In the first place, the court declared that all previous cases in history were decided by the highest tribunal on the theory that, if equal facilities in education were provided, then there was no violation of the 14th Amendment, which says that there must be "equal protection of the laws" to all citizens.

The court, moreover, in its 1954 decision said:

"We come then to the question presented: does segregation of children in public schools solely on the basis of race, even though the physical facilities and other 'tangible' factors may be equal, deprive the children of the minority group of equal educational opportunities? We believe that it does."

But why should the Negro students be formally stigmatized as a "minority group"? In the city of Washington, for instance, the Negroes in public schols far outnumber the white children, and this is true of various other localities in the country. The Supreme Court, however, introduces an "intangible" factor as follows:

"To separate them (Negro pupils) from others of similar age and qualifications solely because of their race generates a feeling of inferiority as to their status in the community and may affect their hearts and minds in a way unlikely ever to be undone."

But will Negroes concede that mere separation from a certain school creates among them a feeling of "inferiority"? How can anyone with pride of color accept the idea? If such a concept is valid, isn't the "inferiority" intensified when Negro students discover that many private schools in the same community are increasing their enrollment of children by claiming a Constitutional right to bar Negroes? And is "inferiority" erased if the attitude of the white students toward Negroes or that of the Negroes toward whites during attendance at the "integrated" public schools continues to be one of alleged disparagement?

How can the Supreme Court control the thoughts and attitudes of any individual on so abstract a subject as "inferiority" or "superiority"? How can it "equalize" the feeling of the poor boy toward the rich boy with better clothes and an auto of his own? Will it be necessary to get federal injunctions, with a threat of jail penalties, to compel white and Negro students in the South to alter their mental attitudes toward one another in the playgrounds of the school—also supported by public funds?

There's nothing in the Constitution which permits the federal government to exercise any control over the educational process such as is involved in the right of each school board to assign pupils to any school or classroom that may seem desirable from the standpoint of education or custom.

Private schools now get tax exemptions from the federal and state governments. If the Supreme Court carries its theories of federal power to a logical conclusion, it can also prohibit segregation in any private school. Will it next attack parochial schools on the ground that the Constitution permits no teaching of religion in the schools and, hence, theoretically the federal government has a right to say whether religion shall be taught in any schools that receive money benefits from the federal or state governments?

It is because the Supreme Court has abandoned long-standing precedents of Constitutional law and sought to legislate in the fields of sociology and psychology that the 1954 decision has come under such vehement attack from lawyers and laymen. It has always seemed to this writer that questions of education and community life are matters for the states and local governments—not for the federal government in far-off Washington—to regulate.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When man's only weapon was a club Cain eliminated one-fourth of the Earth's population in one time at bat.

When some cavern lessee fitted ar arrow to the bow he had invented the first compound engine. It ante-dated the scrubbing board by a thousand years.

It was the internal combustion nut-cracker than made fission possible. In 1784 George Washington watched Jim Rumsey's steamboat skitter up the Potomac by jet propulsion. Water was expelled through a trunk opening in the stern.

A Saxon mechanic built the first high-pressure steam engine, Watt invented the separate condenser, Trevithick added the second cylinder and Crowther substituted the fly-wheel for the walking-beam. Now it's a packaged deal with button jurisdiction.

The only thing unique about the A-bomb is it has no safety valve, air brakes or re-sale value.

The intentions haven't digested an iota since clubs were trump. Man's inhumanity to man is a loose-leaf catalogue. Getting thicker.

Battlefields are history's used car lots. Victory is on the side with the most junkmen.

Time and tide wait for no man. Our nuclear whizzes have fixed it so we don't need either one any more.

A Sanitation Code For Vending Machines

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A new sanitation ordinance and code is being drafted by the Public Health service for vending machine operations. It will be patterned after their milk and food ordinance.

Various foods and drinks are sold via coin machines. The original items were non-or semi-parishable and, with reasonable care, there was no danger of contamination or spoilage. The situation is different nowadays because carbonated beverages, fruit juices, milk, ice cream, dry and liquid soups, and sandwiches are sold in this fashion. In addition, salads that are stored at 50 degrees F. or less, and canned or commissary prepared foods stored at 150 degrees, also are sold in vending machines.

This new method of merchandising creates a health problem that cannot be neglected. In a panel discussion at the Regional Educational Conference of the National Association of Sanitarians it was disclosed that coin machine sales—exclusive of music and games—was a 2 billion dollar industry in 1956.

The automatic dispensing of food has many of the same sanitary problems as restaurants and other food establishments. On the other hand, there are no personnel to supervise the delivery of products to the consumer. The robot is no judge of cleanliness and will not hesitate to squirt out a glass of sour milk whenever the dime is inserted.

There have been few complaints along this line and members of the industry deserve credit for their sanitary system. Nevertheless, the machines must be designed to prevent contamination and to preserve food properly between servicings. All storage tanks, sirup lines, and mixing valves ought to be cleaned regularly to lessen bacterial contamination. This means that the parts must be easily disassembled for cleansing.

Since these machines are placed in many different localities they must be protected against insects, rodents, and dust. The industry recommends frequent sanitizing of machines dispensing all perishable products, including fruit juices, liquid soups, and chocolate sirups.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A farmer's wife took a mail-order course in "appreciation of literature," and became increasingly critical of her husband's grammar.

"You shouldn't call the hired hand 'Bill'," she insisted. "His name is William."

"It isn't a tale you tell your friends," she corrected him another time. "Say anecdote.'

"You don't 'put out' the light," she declared. "You 'extinguish' it."

Late that night, the couple heard a strange noise downstairs and the husband grabbed a shotgun and descended to investigate. He was smiling when he came back. "It was only a Williamgoat," he explained, "which I grabbed by its anecdote and extinguished."

Georgie Jessell has been toastmaster at so many banquets this year, he's thinking of calling his autobiography "DAIS WITHOUT END."

The Greeks Still Have A Word For Everything, Including Mr. Dulles

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is now reporting from the vitally important Near East.)

By Drew Pearson

ATHENS, Greece — The Greeks have a word for John Foster Dulles. It is "ANEKDIEGETOS" and it's difficult to translate. It means a short story that can't be told in a short story, which is another way of saying they don't understand Mr. Dulles, can't explain Mr. Dulles, and don't like Mr. Dulles.

Americans, watching the Greek scene, put it another way — namely, that every time the United States has piled up good will with Greece, Mr. Dulles knocks it over with a single statement.

Two years ago this month Secretary Dulles did this by sending identic notes to Greece and Turkey after the Turks had broken open Greek stores in Turkey, ruined several million dollars worth of produce, desecrated Greek churches, scalped a Greek priest and strewn the bones of Greek graves over the landscape. Completely failing to differentiate between the aggressor and the aggrieved, Mr. Dulles sent equal notes of admonition to both Greece and Turkey. He had much better said absolutely nothing.

The result was a storm of Greek indignation plus the stoning of the American consulate in Salonika.

Another Faux Pas

This September, almost on the anniversary of Mr. Dulles's former booboo, someone in his State Department dropped another off-the-cuff remark that left the sensitive Greek people seething.

It was stated at the State Department that neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary Dulles would receive the famed Cypriot patriot, Archbishop Makarios, when he came to the United States.

Cyprus is a Mediterranean island which may not mean much to the average American, but in Greece this was like yelling "Down with the Pope" on the steps of Cardinal Spellman's archdiocese in Fifth Avenue. Archbishop Makarios hadn't asked to see Dulles or Eisenhower, had not yet left for the USA, might not even have gone to Washington. Yet the State Department handed him a gratuitous slap-in-advance anyway.

On top of this, and only a few days later, the Voice of America congratulated the Turks on their victory day celebration of the 1922 war with Greece. True, the Voice of America has always done this, just as the American Ambassador in Greece attends the anniversary of the battle when the Greeks pushed the Turks out of Athens.

But coming right after the Makarios snub, the combined booboos offset several hundred million dollars worth of foreign aid poured into Greece. A kind word, especially in Greece, will sometimes work more miracles than dollars anyway. In this case the unkind word undid the work of dollars.

Here are samples of how Greek newspapers, usually friendly to the United States, fumed against the State Department:

Eleftheria: "Americans sometimes can be unbearably rude. . . . What did American leaders do after making their decision (not to receive Makarios)? Did they wait for the Archbishop to go there and ask for an audience? No. They called a press conference and told the press to convey to the four corners of the world that neither the White House nor the State Department will receive Makarios. That is where rudeness lies."

American People vs. Dulles

Ethnos: "Yesterday's announcement of the United States State Department was surprising, unjustified and unusual. This announcement does not create to the Greek people simply a feeling of bitterness, but also a feeling of indignation. It insults the self-respect of Greece. . . . Makarios will go to the United States because there live there others except those in the American Government. There live the American people who in their majority, are pure, honest and fair."

Kathimerini—"Our great American allies, these newly appointed leaders of the world, should by now learn to behave. When will they learn that it is ridiculous to fight with various expensive means of propaganda, with pamphlets and bulletins, with offices and services, and then throw them all, with one phrase, in the wastebasket with open and grotesque rudeness; with a phrase unworthy of a civilized nation which the Kremlin would never have thought of uttering?"

Eleftheria—"There is a sort of spontaneity in every rude or noble American action. . . . He respects the proud and the daring, feels contempt for the servile and the coward. From the present leaders of Greece, Americans had samples of crawling servility and this is the reason they acted with such spontaneous rudeness."

Ethnos also carried a cartoon showing Eisenhower and Dulles walking away as the Statue of Liberty shook hands with Archbishop Makarios, saying "Don't pay any attention to them. I represent America."

For some time, Greeks have been suspicious of ex-Governor Tom Dewey of New York who receives a $150,000 retainer from the Turkish Government to advise on American problems, including an increase of American aid. They distrust the old Dewey-Dulles political axis, long potent in New York state, and are not unaware of the fact that Dewey helped appoint several members of the Eisenhower cabinet, including Dulles.

These are discouraging editorials to read in a country for which the United States has done much. But two points are important:

1. Most of the editorials expressed friendship for the American people, though scorn for Washington.

2. The United States should have stepped in long ago to settle the political sore on Cyprus which if left to fester longer could bring grave bitterness, perhaps even hostilities between three important American allies —Greece, Turkey and England.

The Gas Jets

By Bob Considine

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (INS) — "I just can't understand," a distinguished old gentleman said here the other day. "In recent years some really intelligent people I know have come out for desegregation. I just can't understand it."

He was speaking sincerely. He was speaking for a sizable block of the patient non-combatants on this spotlighted battlefield in the integration fight. They truly cannot understand a verdict made by the Supreme Court many hundreds of miles away, which alters a way of life their families have become accustomed to through generations. By and large they accept the verdict, but not without bewilderment somewhat akin to that which racked the old gentleman. The sight of friends and associates championing the change, rather than philosophically bowing to it, was as bewildering to him as if his old buddies had announced they were retiring to a Buddhist monastery.

Just as a municipal court judge should have some direct knowledge of conditions in the prison to which he sends a petty offender, a Supreme Court justice, it seems to me, should be interested enough to witness the effect of a ruling such as the historic one in which the court required integration in public schools.

It should be a part of the training of a Supreme Court justice, since that training can never remain static.

By the same token, I think Gov. Orval Faubus should have emerged from his guarded redoubt and have witnessed at first hand the National Guardsmen not only turn away the Negro students at Little Rock Central High School, but also the way in which his troops tacitly encouraged the rabble rousers and policed the innocent. The look on the face of the white student who stopped the Negroes at North Little Rock High the other day, the boy with the cigaret in his mouth, was not unlike that startling expression the INP photographer caught on the face of Johnny Dio a few weeks ago in Washington, D. C., when Dio threw a punch at a cameraman.

But the similarity probably ends with this surface appearance, the North Little Rock High School boy was defending a position he feels is so correct that no ruling by a court of any dimensions could convince him otherwise. He had probably heard from birth that all Negroes are bad. And unquestionably his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather felt the same way. The boy reacted as his cells and intellect and culture blazingly demanded that he act.

There was a very good NBC-TV interview with a dozen or so Central High School students last Sunday. What they said into the microphone represented a clear cross-section of thinking in this area, since it was the thinking of their parents as well as their own. As for those who plainly spoke the family's party line they said with great earnestness that God was in favor of segregation, else He would not have made all animals different or have divided human beings by color, custom and geography.

Others said in effect, "If this is the law we must obey it as Americans." These people are in a majority here, unless all sides are inaccurate. The newsmakers are generally on the segregationist's side.

One hears on all sides that it was a great mistake to attempt integration at the high school level. It should have been started in the first grade of grammar school, people say, and the criminal bombing of the integrated grammar school in Nashville, Tenn., has not changed that opinion greatly. People here say that if there must be desegregation it can be most painlessly administered among children of a tender age, or among people mature enough to matriculate into the integrated University of Arkansas. At the high school level, the feeling is the kids concerned lack judgment, have more muscles than brains, and are bound to fortify Governor Baubus' odd penchant for truth.

In searching about for a proper parallel which might describe tensions generated among the loafers who congregate in front of Central High School each morning, the thought suggests itself that they are an unignited gas jet awaiting only the striking of a match. It seems dangerous to smoke around them.

BURNING FEET

E. D. writes: What makes the feet burn?

REPLY

This symptom occurs when the blood supply to the lower extremities is above average. The feet feel warm and perspire profusely. Erythromelalgia is one of the several disorders that cause this symptom.

BEDTIME GARLIC

C. D. writes: I like to eat a clove of garlic at bedtime every night. Is this practice healthful or harmful?

REPLY

Neither, but it is smellful. Garlic is not poisonous nor is it rich in essential food elements.

AN OLD-TIMER

F. I. writes: Is allergy a new disease?

REPLY

No. The word was coined 50 years ago and skin tests and the injection treatment are nearly as old. But the condition was described not only in the Bible but in Egyptian papyri and hieroglyphics dating back to 2641 B. C.

TOMORROW: Checkups for the school child.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Teen Council To Elect Today

Newly-elected delegates to form the council for Cresaptown's Cresap Teen Club will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in Cresaptown Methodist Church to elect council officers.

Charles E. Wendt, chairman of the adult advisory board, said the 15 delegates were chosen at the first dance held last week.

They are Donald Kidwell, Ginger Winters, Sandy Currence, James May, Sue Swarner, Robert Swarner, Donna Lease, Wesley Broadwater, James Richardson, Ernest Stouffer, Katherine Blauch, Darlene Lease, Carolyn Brown, Barbara May and Gary Kamauf.

About nine per cent of juvenile delinquents are mentally deficient.

Sunday Times, Students Plan Meeting Tomorrow

Faculty and student representatives of 15 Cumberland area high schools will attend a meeting tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the advertising department offices of the new addition to the Times-News building to discuss plans for a proposed teen page in The Cumberland Sunday Times.

The meeting will be followed by a luncheon at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and a tour of the Times-News plant to familiarize the group with production schedules and operational details.

Saturday's meeting will be attended by representatives of Allegany, Fort Hill, LaSalle, Girls Central, St. Mary's and Ursuline of Cumberland, Beall of Frostburg, Valley of Lonaconing, Bruce of Westernport, Mt. Savage, Flintstone, Oldtown, Ridgeley, Paw Paw and Fort Ashby.

Eight other area schools, Keyser, Romney, Moorefield, Bayard, Petersburg, Hyndman and Northern and Southern of Garrett county will be asked to send representatitves to a similar meeting tentatitvely scheduled for the following Saturday, September 21.

California is known as the Golden state.

Two Different Desserts From One Recipe

This recipe makes two different desserts from one basic recipe. Now you can fix dessert for two days at once! Both desserts are as good as any you've ever made — and real time savers, too!

One dessert is Peach Rice Melba. It's made by filling a cling peach half with vanilla-rice and topping with raspberries. The other desert is Molded Vanilla Rice served with fruit or sundae sauce, or with chopped nuts of maraschino cherries.

Rice is cooked in water, then milk. Sugar is added and when the rice cools it is chilled in the refrigerator. Sweetened, whipped cream flavored with vanilla is folded in. Part of this sweet rice is molded. The rest is spooned into cling peach halves then topped with raspberries. The lovely looking molded dessert is ready for the next day.

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 cup uncooked white rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups water
- 1½ cups milk
- ½ cup beet or cane sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ pint whipping cream, chilled
- ¼ cup beet or cane sugar
- 4 to 6 cling peach halves, depending on servings wanted
- Canned or frozen raspberries, thawed
- Chocolate suace, other sundae sauce, fruit sauce, nuts or maraschino cherries.

METHOD:

Put the rice, salt and water in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Stir in the milk. Cover and continue to cook over a low heat about 30 minutes or until the milk is absorbed. Stir in the ½ cup sugar. Cool. Stir in the vanilla. Cover and chill in the refrigerator. When the rice is cold, whip the cream and fold in the ¼ cup sugar. Mix the cooled rice into the whipped cream. Gently press most of the mixture into a mold holding 4 to 4½ cups. Save out enough to fill each peach half with about ¼ cup. Store the molded rice, as well as the extra rice, for the peach halves, in the refrigerator. Cover well.

To serve the Peach Melba, spoon about ¼ cup of the rice mixture into each cling peach half. Top with the raspberries and juice which have been sweetened to taste.

The molded rice should be chilled until firm. To serve, run a knife around the edge. Dip in hot water. Place a large plate or platter over the mold. Invert plate and mold. Shake to unmold. Serve with chocolate sauce, other sundae sauce, or fruit topping. Garnish with nuts or maraschino cherries, if desired. This molded rice makes about 8 servings.

This recipe makes about 5½ cups of the sweet rice.

As much as thirty-five quarts of water can pass through the gill chambers of a single adult oyster in one hour.

Quick Corn Rabbit

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 pound onions, sliced (about 3½ cups)
- 1 can (1 lb.) cream-style corn
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper

Melt butter or margarine in medium-sized saucepan or frying pan with tight-fitting cover. Add onions; cook, covered, over low heat 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Add remaining ingredients; heat thoroughly, stirring until cheese is blended into mixture. Serve spooned over hot toast and topped with crisp bacon or browned sausages, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

SELF-SERVE GARLITZ BROS. FOOD MARKET
CORNER 1st AND GRAND AVE. SOUTH CUMBERLAND

Fiesta Corn Salad

1 can (1 lb.) whole-kernel corn, drained
1 cup drained, canned julienne beets
½ cup sliced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
½ large onion, sliced and separated into rings
3 tablespoons French dressing
2 to 3 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
1 clove garlic
Dash of pepper

Combine all ingredients in medium-sized bowl; cover and chill 2 to 3 hours to blend flavors. Remove garlic; serve plain or on bed of crisp lettuce.

Home-For-Lunch Cornburgers

1 pound ground beef
1 can (1 lb.) whole-kernel corn, drained
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup catsup or chili sauce
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 hamburger buns

Combine all ingredients, except buns; shape into 6 patties. Cook in frying pan in small amount hot shortening until browned, turning once. Place on toasted buns. Serve with additional catsup or chili sauce. Makes 6 patties.

LEFTOVER VEAL FOR BUDGET MEALS

Leftover veal makes a tasty budget meal with tomato sauce. Serve garnished with parsley and crisp, crunchy radishes. Leftover ham or beef may be substituted for the veal. Use whole cooked tomatoes in the saucy topping for the patties.

Veal patties will aid the budget for a satisfying supper or week-end meal. Serve with tomato sauce and radishes or other crisp relishes as an accompaniment. Leftover veal, ham or beef may be used in the patties in which onion and green pepper add zest to the flavor. Milk and eggs add to the nutritional value.

The unusual tomato sauce is a delightful topping for the patties and can be used over other meat or fish dishes as well.

Try these recipes when economy and flavor are yours for the asking.

VEAL PATTIES

2 cups left-over cooked veal
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 slightly beaten egg
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Shape into 6 round patties 1 inch thick. Brown in butter. Remove patties from pan while preparing tomato sauce. Leftover ham, or beef may be substituted for the veal. Makes 6 servings.

TOMATO SAUCE

¼ cup butter
1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon minced onion
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
1 cup cooked tomatoes with juice

Saute pepper and onion in butter in saucepan over low heat, blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk stirring constantly and cook until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add tomatoes and heat thoroughly. Serve immediately with patties. Makes 2 cups.

Spanish Meatballs

The Spanish have dozens of ways of preparing meatballs, which they serve as canapes before meals, with salads at lunch and with some form of noodles for a dinner course. One of the best recipes becoming popular here is made by sauteing a quarter-cup of diced onion in a quarter-cup of Spanish olive oil, then adding these onions to two cups of bread crumbs that have been soaked in three-quarters of a cup of milk. Combine with a pound of ground beef, a teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon of Angostura bitters and a lightly beaten egg. You can use some ground pork with the beef if you wish. The small meatballs are easier to form if the mixture is chilled for a few minutes, and you should flour your hands to keep them from sticking to the mixture. Saute in olive oil and serve hot.

Chicken-Filled Popovers

"Stay for lunch. We'll have hot popovers filled with chicken a la king." This elegant dish is easier to make than you would ever imagine. Make popovers from a mix. For 2 servings, heat a can (10½ ounces) chicken a la king. Slit 2 hot popovers; pour the creamy chicken a la king inside and over top. Serve piping.

Sauce Aids Browning Of Grilled Chicken

Every backyard "chef" aims to give chicken breasts cooked on a grill an appetizing golden brown without overcooking or drying out the tender parts.

Ways have been suggested for doing this. You can baste the meaty portions with butter or drippings each time you turn them. Or use a simple basting sauce that retains mostness of the meat and aids in browning. A tangy sauce such as this one adds discreet flavor to the chicken as well.

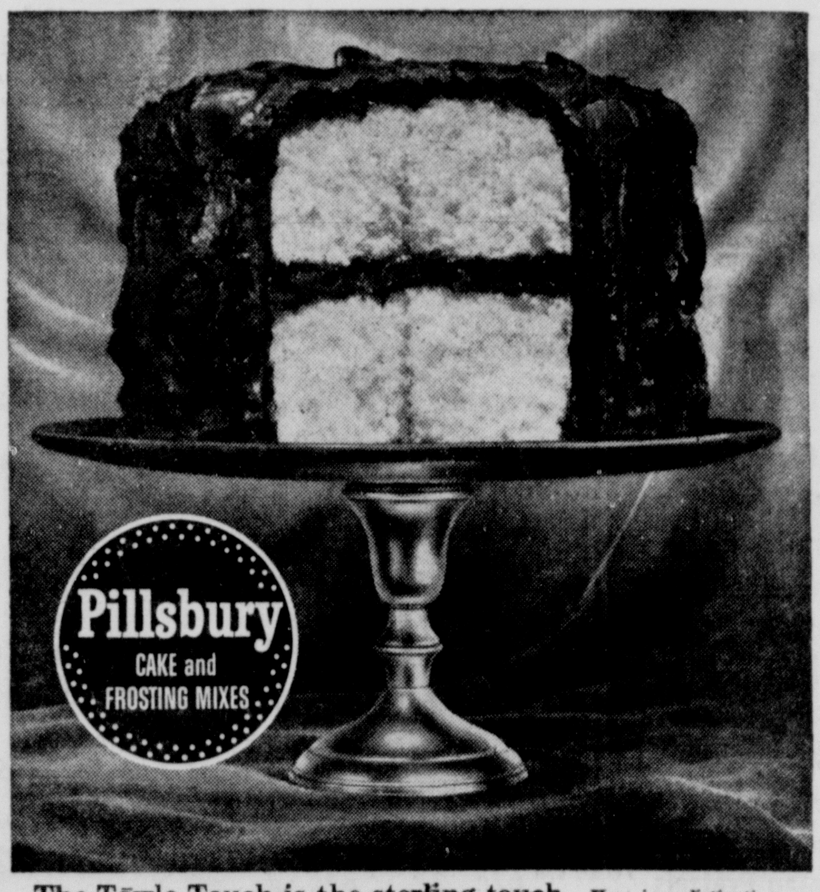

To make it, mix ¼ cup light vinegar, ¼ cup lemon juice and ¼ cup salad oil. Add ½ teaspoon soy sauce, dash of Brown Gravy sauce, and sprinkling of black pepper. Taste for salt and shake well to blend mixture well.

Lay chicken on hot grill and brush pieces with oil. Sear about 3 minutes. Turn and brush on sauce. Cook about 3 or 4 minutes, then turn and baste again. Continue to turn and baste meat until chicken is tender, approximately 25 minutes.

Get Ready for A Cook-Out

If you belong to the charcoal cooking set, you're fully aware of the importance of being equipped with a truly superlative barbecue basting sauce recipe. In this highly competitive backyard sport, mediocrity spells failure; nothing but the best is even acknowledged.

The Mustard Barbecue Sauce, presented here, is guaranteed to boost your reputation as a barbecue chef. It's a brush-on sauce, delicious with chicken, and has a mildly sweet, spicy flavor. Use it to baste half chicken broilers cooked over a charcoal grill, for basting a roasting chicken cooked on a rotisserie, or as shown here, for basting individual poussins or Rock Cornish game hens.

Most distinguishing feature of this tantalizing sauce is that it's low in calories. Reason is that it makes use of the non-caloric sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than sugar. The calorie saving is really worthwhile. Just by the use of this sweetener, more than two-thirds of the total calories ordinarily contained in the sauce are eliminated. Be sure to tell your guests, for they won't be able to taste the difference.

Here's the recipe . . . and good luck!

MUSTARD BARBECUE SAUCE
(Low-Calorie)

2 egg yolks
1 cup skim milk
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon paprika
2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution or 16 tablets, crushed
½ cup vinegar

Beat egg yolks and milk together; gradually add to a mixture of the flour, mustard, paprika and Sucaryl, making a smooth paste. Cook in the top of a double boiler until thick, stirring constantly. Add vinegar gradually, and heat thoroughly. Use to baste chicken on rotisserie or barbecue grill.

Makes 1¼ cups of barbecue sauce. Each tablespoon contains 10 CALORIES; 0.6 gram protein; 0.5 gram fat; 1 gram carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each tablespoon would contain 34 CALORIES.

Golden Puff-Top Sandwich

An airy baked-on crust gives Golden Puff-Top Sandwiches a festive look for August, Sandwich Time.

Sandwiches are a tonic for both sagging summer appetites and monotonous menus. The endless variety of this form of food almost guarantees that each new sandwich meal will be a memorable eating experience.

If mealtime at your house needs re-vitalizing, try Golden Puff-Top Sandwiches. Hot and open-faced, they feature salami and cheese baked with a frothy egg topping.

Make the topping by beating egg yolks and blending in mayonnaise and mustard. Fold in beaten egg whites and spread the mixture over the sandwiches. Just 15 minutes in the oven finishes the sandwiches for your table.

Serve Golden Puff-Top Sandwiches for an August supper along with julienne-style green beans, tomato and cucumber slices, a beverage and dessert.

GOLDEN PUFF-TOP SANDWICH

4 slices enriched bread
Butter or margarine
8 slices salami (2 inches in diameter)
4 slices American process cheese
2 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Toast bread on one side in broiler. Spread untoasted side with butter or margarine. Place 2 slices salami on each bread slice. Cover meat with cheese. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Blend in mayonnaise and mustard. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into egg yolk mixture. Spread over cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until puffed and lightly browned, about 15 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Barbecued Franks: A Year 'Round Favorite

Here's a dish even Dad will enjoy fixing when Mom's on a holiday or when there's a cook-out. These delicious barbecued franks have a special sauce recipe but it's easy and may be made ahead of time. The secret ingredient is the pumpkin pie spice.

INGREDIENTS:

1 tablespoon cooking fat
1 lb. frankfurters
1 clove garlic, minced
½ to ¾ cup thin onion slices
1, 8 oz. can tomato sauce
1/3 cup real New Orleans molasses
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
6 lemon slices, halved
1 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt

METHOD: Melt the fat in a skillet. Cut crosswise slits in franks if desired. Add the frankfurters. Cook slowly, turning occasionally with a spoon. When the franks begin to brown, add the garlic and onion. Continue to cook until the onion becomes soft and tender.

Add the tomato sauce, molasses, chili powder, salt, pumpkin pie spice, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and lemon slices. Cover and simmer over a low heat about 20 minutes. Add water if a thinner sauce is desired.

About 30 minutes before the meal, put the rice, water and 1 teaspoon salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on until ready to serve, at least 10 minutes.

To serve, place the hot rice on a hot platter. Top with the frankfurters. Pour the sauce over the frankfurters and rice. Arrange the lemon slices from the sauce in an attractive manner. This recipe makes 5 servings of 2 frankfurters each.

Corn And Onion Saute

1 can (12 oz.) whole-kernel corn
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 medium-sized onions, sliced
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients in medium-sized saucepan; simmer 10 minutes, stirring often. Makes 3 to 4 servings

Spaghetti With Creole Tuna Sauce

1 package (8 to 9 oz.) spaghetti
3 tablespoons salad oil
1 clove garlic, finely crushed
2 (8 oz.) cans tomato sauce
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 can (6½ to 7 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked

Cook spaghetti and drain. Heat oil in a skillet; add garlic and cook until golden. Add tomato sauce, salt and oregano, mix and heat. Just before serving add tuna and heat to piping hot. Serve over spaghetti. Makes 4 servings.

Tuna Slaw

3 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup shredded carrots
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
⅓ cup pineapple juice

Combine first four ingredients in a bowl. Blend remaining ingredients together; pour over cabbage and toss well. Makes 6 servings.

Solve your dessert problem with cheese this summer—for a number of reasons. Simplicity—a cheese platter is easy to prepare and summer is when it's nice to take it easy. Variety—there's a cheese to suit the taste of every family member, no matter individual. Nutrition—cheese (like fluid milk) provides important food value, being especially rich in the calcium needed for strong bones and teeth. And cheese is plentiful. Supplies of dairy products reach their seasonal peak in June, with milk production at its heaviest this time of year. U. S. Department of Agriculture food specialists combined several kinds of Cheddar for this cheese platter: natural, smoked roll, process slices, and cubes of process loaf.

Here Is Salad Low In Calories High In Nutrients

For chubbies on slimming diets, salads sans dressing are the general rule. But if munching on plain carrot sticks or lettuce wedges begins to pall, some other way must be found to add palatability to these essential vitamin rich foods.

When that day arrives, here's a molded salad that answers the problem. Dressing actually is superfluous. The salad is a nicely seasoned blend of vegetables, much on the order of old-time perfection salad, with the addition of filling cottage cheese. One serving contains no more than 85 calories.

Slim Trim Salad
(Eight servings)

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup hot water
¼ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup vinegar
1 cup diced celery
½ cup cooked green beans
½ cup grated raw carrots
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup sliced radishes
½ teaspoon grated onion
1 cup creamed cottage cheese

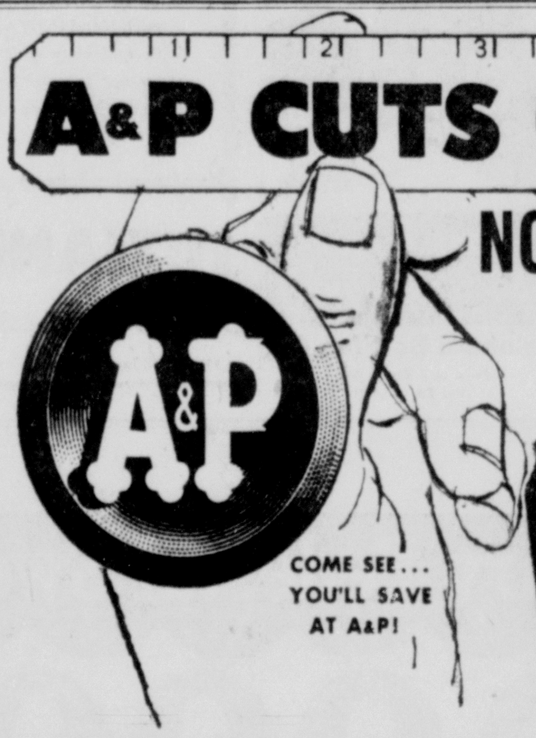

Soften gelatin in cold water; disolve in hot water. Stir in sugar, salt and vinegar. Chill until partially thickened. Add rest of ingredients and mix lightly. Spoon gelatin into 8 oiled individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens.

Jaunty Lamb Kabobs

Give a lift to your first fall meals . . . serve broiled lamb kabobs. Meaty lamb chunks are alternated on the metal skewers with mushroom caps. To prepare, simply broil at a moderate temperature and serve with French-fried potatoes.

If menu monotony is plaguing your home, your worries are over. Lamb and Mushroom Kabobs will turn the head of the most discriminating gourmet for a second glance.

This meal will undoubtedly be the talk of the household.

Variations of kabobs are almost as many in number as there are homemakers.

Reba Staggs, meat expert, suggests that the cooking method can help to vary kabob cookery as well as the ingredients. In this case, the kabobs may be broiled or braised!

To prepare this unusual meat treat, first procure metal skewers 6 to 8 inches long. Allow 1 kabob per person . . . Dad and the other men of the family might enjoy 2 or more.

Then purchase boneless lamb shoulder cubes and fresh mushrooms or canned mushroom caps. If buying the fresh mushrooms, use just the mushroom cap. Then thread each skewer with a lamb cube, a mushroom cap, then a lamb cube, etc. until the skewer is filled.

To broil, place the kabobs about 2 inches from the heat. Brush the mushrooms with melted butter or margarine and broil at a moderate temperature for 8 to 10 minutes on each side.

To braise, brown the kabobs slowly on all sides, add ¼ to ½ cup of liquid, either water, tomato juice or a fruit juice, cover the pan and simmer slowly for 45 minutes.

Easy Summertime Pizza

Lightly toast one side of sliced white bread in the broiler; turn and spread with canned spaghetti sauce; sprinkle very lightly with a little oregano or basil, then top with a slice of American cheese. Slide it back under the heat to melt cheese and heat filling.

Barbecue Grill Liners

Have you tried the new aluminum-foil barbecue-grill liners that are now available in stores wherever barbecue accessories are sold? The disk-shape liners, 27 inches in diameter, fit any round brazier, help to keep it clean, reflect heat, and may be re-used several times.

Meringue

2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Beat in sugar slowly until smooth and glossy.

To bake on pie. Spread meringue over slightly cooled filling in a baked pastry shell. Bake at 350°F. (moderate oven) for about 12 minutes or until meringue is set and browned.

For topping desserts. Pile meringue lightly on a greased baking sheet in 6 large or 12 small mounds. Bake at 350°F. (moderate oven) for 10 to 15 minutes or until set and browned. Place on dessert, hot or cold.

Another way to cook the meringue is to drop mounds of it on simmering water, cover, and cook for 10 to 15 minutes or until set. Remove from the water immediately.

Tuna Casserole

2 packages frozen asparagus, cooked; 2 cans (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked; 3 tablespoons butter or margarine; 3 tablespoons flour; ½ teaspoon salt; dash pepper; 1½ tablespoons sherry; 1 cup grated process cheese; 2 tablespoons slivered almonds.

Place asparagus in a baking dish. Top with tuna. Melt butter; blend in flour. Add salt and pepper. Stir in milk; cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add sherry and cheese; stir until cheese is melted. Pour over tuna; sprinkle top with almonds, and bake in a moderate oven 350°F. about 30 minutes, until hot. Makes 6-8 servings.

Chef's Tuna Salad

Garlic; 1 medium head of lettuce; 1 can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drain and flaked; 1 medium carrot, cut in strips; ¼ cup chopped green pepper; ½ sliced radishes; 2 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges; ¼ cup cheese strips; ½ teaspoon salt; dash pepper; French dressing.

Rub a salad bowl with garlic. Break lettuce into bite-size pieces into bowl. Add tuna, carrot strips, green pepper, radishes, tomato wedges, cheese strips, salt and pepper. Pour French dressing over all and toss lightly. Makes 4 servings.

Serve Strawberries With Lightest Topping

If the traditional mound of whipped cream, always served with strawberry desserts, is bothering your calorie-counting conscience, use nonfat dry milk crystals . . . a topping that's ⅔ lighter in calories than cream and so good tasting. Try it with California strawberries that are now in such abundance, but remember whipped instant crystals flatter many fruit flavors, so serve it with each of your favorite desserts as the fruit comes in season. Try instant crystals for a delicious, fresh flavored beverage, too . . . add ⅓ cup to an 8-ounce glass of ice water, give it a quick stir and drink.

Strawberry Butterfly Cake
(Makes 1 9-inch cake)

1 1-pound 3-ounce package lemon-flake cake mix
1 pint fresh California strawberries
6 tablespoons sugar
2½ cups whipped nonfat dry milk crystals*

Prepare cake mix batter according to package directions. Turn into waxed paper-lined 9-inch spring form pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 45 minutes, or until cake tests done. Cool. Cut 7 x 2-inch cone from top of cake. Cut cake cone in half. Combine strawberries and 2 tablespoons sugar; mix well. turn half of strawberry mixture into cake shell. Add remaining ¼ cup sugar to whipped instant crystals. Top strawberries with half of sweetened whipped instant crystals. Top with remaining strawberry mixture. Arrange cake segments over strawberry mixture to resemble butterfly wings. Top with remaining sweetened whipped instant crystals. Garnish with additional strawberries if desired. Serve at once.

* To whip nonfat dry milk crystals (Makes about 2½ cups).

Mix ½ cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals with ½ cup ice water. Whip until soft peaks form (3-4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer).

Tuna Chowder

½ cup chopped celery; 1 medium onion, chopped; 3 tablespoons butter or margarine; 1 tablespoon prepared mustard; ¾ teaspoon salt; dash pepper; 2 cups water; 2 medium potatoes, diced; 1 cup milk; 1 can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked; ½ cup grated process cheese; 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Saute celery and onion in butter; add mustard, salt and pepper and blend. Add water and potatoes; cover, and simmer about 20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Add milk, tuna and chopped cheese; heat and stir until cheese is melted. Serve topped with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Fish Shortcake

2 tablespoons chopped onion; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; ¼ cup flour; 2 cups hot milk; ⅓ cup grated cheese; 1½ cups flaked tuna, salmon, or other cooked fish; ¼ teaspoon salt; pepper; hot biscuits or cornbread.

Cook onion slowly in the fat until tender. Blend in the flour.

Add milk slowly, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Add cheese and fish.

Season with salt and pepper. Reheat, stirring occasionally.

Serve on hot biscuits or cornbread.

4 servings. ½ cup milk per serving, plus almost ¼ cup milk value from cheese.

Fish potpie. Prepare fish mixture as above. Pour while hot into a greased baking dish, top with unbaked biscuits, and bake at 425°F. (hot oven) 35 to 45 minutes.

Praline Ice-Cream Ring

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup broken pecans or walnuts
1 cup brown sugar, packed
2½ cups corn, bran, or wheat flakes
Ice Cream

Chill 1¼ qt. ring mold. In saucepan, boil butter, sugar just 2 minutes. Add pecans, cereal flakes; with fork, toss to coat. Press lightly into mold. Refrigerate 10 minutes; unmold onto serving dish. Place spoonfuls of your favorite ice cream with rounded sides up, in center. Makes 6 servings.

Corn And Cheese Soup

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium-sized onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water
2 beef bouillon cubes
4 cups milk
1 can (1 lb.) cream-style corn
1½ cups (6 oz.) shredded processed American cheese

Melt butter or margarine in large saucepan. Add onion and cook over low heat 5 minutes. Blend in flour, mustard, salt and pepper; add water and bouillon cubes. Simmer, stirring often, 5 minutes. Add milk, corn and cheese; heat slowly, stirring often, just to melt cheese. Do not boil, for soup may curdle. Serve piping hot with buttered toast or chowder crackers. Makes 4 servings.

Corn Parmesan

1 can (1 lb.) whole-kernel corn
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 to 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
Salt and pepper

Drain liquid from corn into saucepan, boil quickly to reduce liquid to about ⅓ cup. Add corn and remaining ingredients; heat quickly stirring carefully. Makes 4 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Fresh Picnic Pork Shoulder.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the shoulder section and contains the fore shank bones, arm bone and part of the blade bone.

Q. How it is prepared?

A. It is roasted in a 350° F. oven. Allow approximately 30 to 35 minutes per pound for cooking. The smoked picnic shoulder is the same cut as the fresh, but has been smoked and cured.

Special Sauce Dresses Up Fresh Asparagus

When fresh, green asparagus first makes its appearance in our markets, most of us are satisfied to serve the delicately cooked spears with plain melted butter or butter to which a whisk of lemon has been added.

As the season progresses, though, we're usually ready for a special dressing with which to vary the taste and appearance of the vegetable. If this be the case in your home now, here is a sauce to try.

Polonaise is a glamor name given to a rather simple sauce. Fine bread crumbs and hard cooked eggs are stirred into melted butter. The topping makes an exceptionally fine garnish and flavor enhancer for asparagus spears neatly arranged in bundles on a platter.

Polonaise Sauce

Melt ½ cup butter and stir in ¼ cup soft bread crumbs. Cook over low heat until crumbs are nicely browned. Remove from heat and stir in 2 finely chopped hard cooked eggs, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Arrange cooked asparagus on platter and spoon sauce topping over the spears.

Although Australia was discovered by Europeans in 1601, no nation bothered to claim it until England did in 1770, more than a century and a half later.

Red, White And Green Vegetable Salad

Need a new vegetable salad recipe? This is a delicious one—full of spicy pickle flavor and suitable with any meal. It's colorful with plump green peas and red pimientos. Serve the salad on a cold plate with cheese and meat slices, or use it as your vegetable salad with a beef, pork, chicken or turkey main dish.

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 cups water
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup uncooked white rice
- ¼ cup real mayonnaise
- 2 teaspoons grated onion
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- 3 tablespoons sweet pickle relish or chopped sweet pickles
- ¼ cup chopped whole canned pimientos
- 1½ to 2 cups cooked and seasoned green peas
- ¼ cup French dressing
- Salad greens

METHOD: Put the water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on at least 10 minutes.

While the rice is still hot stir in the mayonnaise, onion, black pepper and pickles. Cool. Stir in the pimientos and green peas. Cover well and store in the refrigerator. Just before serving stir in the French dressing. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with tomato, strips of pimiento or hard-cooked egg slices or wedges.

This recipe makes 5½ cups of salad, about 8 to 10 servings.

Barton's Water Problem Aired Before Town Council, Citizens

Delegation Offers Officials Remedial Suggestions

BARTON — Ten citizens, interested in a better water supply and a more progressive community appeared before the Mayor and town council this week, to present a request for action on the part of the elected officials.

The delegation was led by Rev. E. Ellwood Carey, pastor of the Barton Presbyterian Church who spoke for the group and read a prepared statement, copies of which were left with the town officials.

Rev. Carey informed the council that he and the delegation did not appear in any attitude of belligerence, anger or condemnation, but as citizens deeply concerned with and interested in this community problem. He said the citizens desire a permanent solution to the water shortage and not merely temporary measures.

The recent drought has only served to point up and focus attention on Barton's water problem, he observed. He referred to reports published some 18 months ago in which the health department claimed the Barton water supply is an inferior one.

Rev. Carey suggested that Barton is not growing as a community and people who desire to build homes or come to the community to reside are discouraged and refrain from so doing when they realize the town's water system is so poor.

He observed that the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill Company at Luke is expanding and more people will be employed there. Some of these would be attracted to Barton to reside, he suggested, if the water situation was remedied. Other industry and business might also stay away because good water is a requisite in any desirable, growing area. He said the question goes to the very heart of the growth and financial security of the community.

Suggests Program

"When the town purchased the water system from the Barton Water Company," Rev. Carey noted, "the argument favoring this action was that the town would be in a position to receive federal aid to correct the problem. Since then, there has been no public statement to the citizens as to whether this course of action was followed and what the results were. If this is impossible, the citizens of the community should know this so that rumors regarding it could be stopped. We would like to know if something was done and what the results were.

"A second possible solution which has been suggested is the town financing a project to correct the present set-up. This would probably involve a bond issue which would require a referendum to the voters. We feel that if this is the best solution to the problem, the voter ought to have the opportunity to approve or disapprove such action.

"A third possible solution would be to improve the present location of the reservoir and to find additional supplies of water. There has been much talk about a sufficient water supply in Potomac Hollow. If our present supplay is insufficient, then action should be taken to locate another supply elsewhere.

"A fourth solution would be for the citizens of the community to appeal to the State Department of Health. It is our feeling that this is most undesirable since the problem is a local one and should be handled locally.

Proposes Study Group

"A fifth solution that could be pursued if none of the first three is satisfactory would be to establish a committee to study the problem and to recommend a solution. Membership on the committee should represent both the town council and the citizens of the community. If this were done, it would mean that both the town council and the citizens were working together to seek a solution. In addition, it would give those who are dissatisfied with the situation an opportunity to do something positive about the problem. Such a committee could also be a means of letting the citizens know what is happening regarding the problem.

"My appearance here is not because I feel that I have the answers to the problem. The ideas I have presented should be considered for their merit and the citizens of the community should be informed regarding the problems faced with the water problem.

"Up to this point," Rev. Parey continued, "I have been speaking for myself, but I have asked some of the people I have talked with to be here tonight to let you know that the citizens of Barton are interested in an immediate solution to the water problem. We lend our support to the town council as long as there is every indication that the problem is being met realistically.

"Our questions are basically three:

"1. What has been done?

"2. What is being done at the present to solve the problem permanently?

"3. What can the citizens of Barton do to assist?"

Plan To Check For Leaks

As a result of the presentation by Rev. Carey and comments from some of the other members of the delegation, the council took one step toward acting on the problem.

Councilman Patrick Gallagher made a motion that the main lines and service lines to homes be checked for leaks, and that water systems in the homes be checked for leaks. If any are found, 24 hours notice to repair is to be given and if repairs are not made, water is to be turned off.

Councilman Jack Bradley seconded the motion and the vote in favor was unanimous.

The delegation expressed their approval for this action and pressed the town officials for a time and date to start this inspection. After some discussion council agreed that the inspections would start Thursday, September 12.

More Wells Proposed

Further discussion disclosed from Mayor Arthur Hoffa, that the town is not planning to use water from the old reservoir, even after rains replenish the supply. He explained that water is now being pumped from wells and the future supply will probably continue to come from wells. He outlined what has been done in the past few weeks toward getting more wells in operation and said more such improvements are being considered.

Water in the town has been turned off at night in the business area so higher elevated residential sections can draw water. Then these sections are turned off during the day while the downtown area is served. This practice may continue until all leaks are stopped and the supply becomes adequate, town officials indicated.

In the meantime, citizens said they plan to press for action on the establishment of a permanent solution.

Mineral County ASC Election Is Announced

Farmers May Vote By Mail

KEYSER — John S. Arnold, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of Mineral County, reports the county will hold annual elections of ASC community committeemen by mail this year instead of by community election meetings as in the past.

Already a county election board headed by J. W. Wimer, county agent, has set up community election boards which have nominated a slate of candidates from each of the four communities in the county.

In accordance with regulations, the boards nominated as candidates 10 eligible farmers from each county. This number can be increased if as many as 10 farmers in a community file a petition with their board at the county ASC office on or before Tuesday.

The slates of candidates for the communities, as selected by the boards, are as follows:

Burlington — Silas M. Arnold, Ira C. Feaster, A. S. A. Holsinger, C. I. Homan Jr., Earl Martin, Wayne Miller, E. Finley Orndorff, L. D. Patterson, J. R. Stickley, Roy Whipp.

Elk Garden — Donald Abernathy, M. D. Ashby, Walter Barrick, Walter Bobo, Walter Burgess, Brooks O. Evans, Eldred Hanlin, Clyde Kitzmiller, Reginald Stullenbarger, Floyd E. White.

Keyser—Howard Amtower, G. Otis Borror, L. W. Fleming, Lloyd Markle, Kenneth Rexrode, J. G. Ritchie, Paul C. Rouzer, M. E. Staggs, D. F. Steedman, Charles W. Thomas Jr.

Fort Ashby—Dale Beam, J. F. Bowers Jr., George F. Chidester, O. J. Dayton, Ernest C. Kimble, J. M. Kuykendall, Herbert Long, Howard Long, Fred B. Price, Ivan Wyer.

Voters will be entitled to vote for five candidates. The five candidates receiving the highest number of votes will fill the five positions on the community committee in accordance with the vote they receive.

Write-in votes for eligible farmers will be valid.

Official ballots, together with instructions, will be mailed from the county ASC office to all known eligible voters September 22. The voter must mail or bring his voted ballot to County ASC office on or before October 2.

If any farmer in a community does not receive a ballot through the mail soon after September 22 he should contact the ASC office.

Postman's Holiday

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt. (AP) — Postmaster Ernest Carpenter is a stamp collector, naturally enough, but not for the usual reason.

"I started the collection four years ago as a way to save money," he explains. "I counted them up the other day and figure they're worth about $109 face value."

Both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans can be seen from the peak of Mt. Irazu, Costa Rica.

Jr. Tri Hi-Y Girls Plan Activities

LONACONING — Junior Tri-Hi-Y girls met Tuesday at Valley High School to plan for their 1957-58 activities.

Lawrence Dehn, of Cumberland, who directs Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y clubs of this area, will be guest speaker at their next meeting, September 17, to present an award banner to the Junior Tri-Hi-Y of Lonaconing to retain this year.

Miss Roberta Love, president, conducted the meeting attended by the large group of members and their faculty club sponsors. There are 32 members of the club and a recruitment of new members will now get under way.

Mrs. Sally G. Wilson and Miss Jo Ann Katsakis are sponsors this year.

Drive On Lineups

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (AP) — The newspaper Soviet Russia is campaigning against the queue-up. It says waiting lines at shops, bus stops and theaters result from bureaucracy and inefficiency and are giving Russia a bad name.

TRAINING — Agnes Pauline Carder, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah S. Carder, Oldtown, is completing her basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. She enlisted at the Cumberland Air Force Recruiting Station a few weeks ago.

Council Gets Water Service Line Report

WESTERNPORT — The right-of-way to run a water service line from Oakview Drive and Main Street to Beckner's Corner on Philos Avenue can easily be obtained, according to Horace P. Whitworth Sr., town attorney, who conferred with Mayor Okey E. Michael and Commissioners last night.

Whitworth stated that the Piedmont Rotary Club would not charge for running a pipe line on its property. The other portion of the land is owned by the Hayden estate, which he felt could be secured at a small cost if any.

John Hudley, salesman for the Hersey Manufacturing Company of Dedham, Mass., demonstrated a water meter of which the price is about $29, the same as meters of other companies.

The sewer being run on Foundry Alley to George's Creek is expected to be completed this week, according to Commissioner Ray L. Wilt.

The Citizens National Bank will erect a one story addition at the rear of the present building on Main Street. Whitworth, president of the bank, made application for a permit at the regular council meeting last night. He stated the addition would be of concrete and steel. The size will be 14 by 24 feet at an approximate cost of $10,000.

The additional room will be used for the installation of a burglary vault and a vault for storage. The work will be done by a Pittsburgh contracting company and work may get under way early next week.

OES To Meet

MT. SAVAGE — Rebecca Arnold Chapter No. 57, Order of Eastern Star, will entertain the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of Western Maryland, Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Pythian Sisters Will Attend Conference

LONACONING — Mrs. Faye Turnbull will be soloist at the Pythian Sisters Grand Lodge and Grand Temple Memorial Service September 19 at Hagerstown. Mrs. Mary Elda McCormick will be flower girl at this Memorial Service.

Mrs. Nellie Miller will be in charge of this Pythian Sisters Grand Lodge and Grand Temple Memorial Service which will highlight the sessions.

Mrs. Margaret Gowans will also be a representative from the Morning Star Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, of Lonaconing, with Mrs. Turnbull and Mrs. McCormick.

Mrs. Sally Schramm will be in charge of Morning Star Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, skit, "Fatal Quest" which will be presented by each district on Thursday night.

Mrs. Eleanor Hopkins, district deputy, selected the group for the presentation of the skits and all of the Lonaconing representatives will be taking part in the skit directed by Mrs. Schramm for their district.

Taylor Heads Water Group

FROSTBURG — Elmer Taylor was elected president of the Welsh Hill-Wrights Crossing Water Association at a meeting held this week at Frostburg city hall.

Other officers elected are Miss Anna Nicht, secretary, Miss Ruth B. Engle, assistant secretary, Earl Davis, treasurer.

Business included appointing of a committee to make arrangements for enlarging the line now used by Wrights Crossing residents from a one-inch line to a two-inch line.

Misuse Of Authority

TAIPEI, Sept. 12 (AP)—Shen Tsai-chien, 23-year-old registrar's clerk at Formosa University, dated some of the prettiest if not the smartest coeds. All went well until a girl reported he upgraded marks of those who gave him dates. Shen lost his job and was indicted in Taipei District Court for fraud.

Claysville Church To Host Boy Scouts September 27

KEYSER — The Claysville Evangelical United Brethren Church, at the intersection of US Route 50 and the Laurel Dale Road, will be host to more than 200 Boy Scouts on Sunday, September 27. The annual fall outing promoted by the associated Scout Troops of the Tri-Towns features church worship at 9 o'clock at the host church.

When the host church has not the space to accommodate the full gathering of Scouts, they have asked for permission to adjourn to the lawn.

This year Tri-Valley District camping and activities committee plans to provide service for Catholic and Protestant groups.

The L. D. Bosley Farm will play host to the camporee. Extensive plans have been made for camping areas along a stream for 25 troops and posts. A flag pole will be erected on each site and each unit will be encouraged to erect an entrance-way as a mark of distinction and recognition.

Areas for directed games have been set apart and parking facilities will be provided. A headquarters tent and a trading post will be strategically located. A large spring will provide drinking water.

Three cardinal points of scouting are reverence, patriotism and conservation. They are never slighted nor neglected. Each scout spends at least ten days and nights camping out, and this scheduled activity is part of that program.

Hospitalized

WESTERNPORT — John Donnelly, 220 Wood Street, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Senior Choir Holds Dinner

FROSTBURG — The Senior Choir of First Congregational Church, Bowery Street, held their annual chicken dinner recently at Nave's Dining Room, Cumberland.

Those attending were Rev. and Mrs. J. Fred Zimmerman, John Zimmerman, Mrs. Edna Plummer, Miss Eva Lewis, Mrs. Gladys McCulloh, Miss Helen McCulloh, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Greig, Miss Betty Fram, Mr. and Mrs. John Fram and Mrs. Merrill Phillips.

MISS ELLEN RICHARDSON

Frostburg Girl Awarded Music Scholarship

FROSTBURG — Miss Ellen Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson, 114 Frost Avenue, has been awarded a senatorial scholarship to Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore.

Miss Richardson graduated in June from Beall High School where she was accompanist for the senior choir and Madrigal Chorus. She was exchange editor of the Chime and a member of the National Honor Society, Tri Hi-Y and the Dramatic Club.

While at Peabody Miss Richardson plans to major in public school music and piano.

The scholarship was awarded by State Senator Charles M. See and was based on a competitive examination given by the Allegany County Board of Education and Miss Richardson's scholastic record.

Old Buckwheat Mills Still Operated In Preston Co.

By ETHEL PEASLEE BEERBOWER

KINGWOOD—It is autumn—and autumn in Preston County means fields and fields of ripened buckwheat, ready for the mill, and to Preston County that means The Buckwheat Festival. This year, 1957, marks the sixteenth for the event which features Buckwheat as its capital grain.

Have you ever seen an old grist mill where Buckwheat flour is made? If you haven't, you had better come to Preston County a day earlier than you had planned, stay overnight in the county and then drive down to the Dayton Evans Mill at Hazelton. This mill is The Star Mills of Preston County and advertises its Buckwheat Flour as "Burr Ground," and that it is!

The Star Mills is located at Hazelton, just 28 miles from Kingwood. To visit this mill, take Route 26 from Kingwood through Albright, Bruceton, and Brandonville to Glade Farms. Turn right at Glade Farms where the twin churches are located and follow the paved road four miles to Hazelton. Milling is going on at this time of the year, and visitors will have the opportunity to see the old mill running.

Those interested in the machinery will find that Dayton Evans, owner, or one of his two sons who work with him, will be delighted to show you the workings of the old mill. Mr. Evans is running a mill which was run by his father. This means that three generations of the Evans family have been millers. But milling in the Evans family goes back much farther than that. The handbook used by many millers today, and of course the miller's guide at Hazelton, is "The Young Mill Wright and Millers' Guide" by Oliver Evans, ancestor of the present Evans family at Hazelton. This book was first published in 1834, and has been revised since that time. Diagrams of the old mill and its parts as found in this book are of much value to present day millers.

Early Community

The site of the little community of Hazelton was first owned by an early settler, Anthony Worley. According to Oren F. Morton who wrote an early history of Preston County, Mr. Worley built a "Corn-Cracker" here in 1784. Samuel Hazlett built a better mill here in 1818, and it is for Mr. Hazlett that the small community was named. (Up to that time it had been known as Mill Run.) Other early owners of this second mill were Peter Fike, Jacob Nicola W. D. Arthur, and The Hazelton Milling Co. (1905).

The third and present mill was built in 1914. Through the years its owners have been W. D. Smith, Ed Dennis, J. D. Evans, and the present owner, Dayton Evans.

Everyone attending the festival should visit such a mill. Its business is constantly widening. Last year, Mr. Evans shipped buckwheat flour to every state in the Union and to some foreign countries. Many of his customers return each year for a short visit to the mill. Still more have become mail order customers.

Cleaned And Ground

To a novice to the milling industry, the old mill is a fascinating revelation. The buckwheat comes to the mill in trucks and is stored through a trap door into a bin on the first floor. From here it goes up a square elevator shaft, all made of wood, on a belt with black iron buckets, to a cleaner on the third floor. Here it goes through a blower, across metal screens, into a pair of scales on the first floor where it is weighed. From the scales it is elevated into a big storage bin on the second floor. As it is used it goes to a smaller bin on the first floor and is elevated to the third floor again into a second cleaner. After being cleaned the second time, it goes back to the second floor to a special bin where the flour really begins to be made.

From the special second floor bin the buckwheat goes into the milling rolls. These four rolls revolve two ways and it is here that the buckwheat is crushed or cracked. It then is elevated back to the third floor into a third cleaner. After the third cleaning process, it goes back to the first floor where it goes through the burr stones to grind the buckwheat finer. The top grindstone revolves and the lower grindstone is fixed. Between them the stones grind the buckwheat into flour.

Hulls Used As Mulch

From the burr stone grinding, the buckwheat is elevated to the third floor into a sifter which removes the hulls and the bran. From this sifter the remainder goes into the rolls again, and back to the sifter for the second time to remove any remainder of the hulls and the bran. The flour then goes into a flour bin on the second floor for storage. From the storage bin, the flour is sent to a smaller bin on the first floor where it is bagged. The bran and hulls are collected in sacks on the first floor. It is interesting to note that the buckwheat hulls make an excellent mulch for rose gardens, just as burr ground buckwheat flour makes excellent buckwheat cakes.

When the Starr Mills at Hazelton is in full progress at Preston County Buckwheat Festival time, it employs eight people; the owner, Dayton Evans, his two sons, Wayne and John, plus two men and three women.

Modern Diesel Power

This mill is now run by diesel motor, but in other days it was powered first by a large waterwheel and later by steam.

The old waterwheel is still there and the gates or slucos in the stream may still be seen. This waterwheel is of the overshot type which is fed from above and turned by the weight of the falling water. (Another type of wheel used in other mills is the breast wheel which is fed from the middle section and is turned by the mass of water through a lock.) When the miller of old wanted to grind buckwheat by the waterwheel, he closed the slucos or gates causing the water to collect. When the water was released it rushed over the wheel, caught the traps upon it, and made it spin.

The turning of the wheel made the grindstones go round and power the mill. The copyright date on one of the cleaners was October 15, 1885 — and it is still in good use. The oldest part of the mill, however, are the old burr stones.

Rich In Flavor

According to the old millers, it is those slow-turning mill stones which account for the richness of flavor of the buckwheat. They "rockon" that modern machinery, fast moving as it is, takes too much of the tasty bits from the grain.

Large crowds of people come to Preston County each year at Buckwheat Festival time for the festivities and to eat the traditional buckwheat cakes, sausage and maple syrup. Last year's figures topped the preceding year in the number of dinners served, and reached 24,250, at the three dining halls maintained by the Fire Department at the Community Building, The Methodist Church and the IOOF Hall. The total of cakes served numbers over 72,750.

The buckwheat flour is being ground, and the griddles are ready for the feast which will be served three times a day. Tons of batter will be waiting to be made into cakes. The Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department invites all to attend the Sixteenth Annual Buckwheat Festival, and the people of Preston County bid a welcome. As you plan your trip to the festival, September 26, 27, and 28, include an extra day and enjoy a visit to an old Buckwheat Mill.

Girl Admits Negro Attack Story Hoax

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 12 (AP) —Police Sgt. M. H. House said today a 15-year-old white high school girl has admitted her story that she was accosted by three Negro youths yesterday was a hoax.

House said the girl, a pupil at Glenn Vocational High School, admitted she made the story up to keep from having to attend classes.

The girl said first she had been seized by the Negroes as she walked across a parking lot.

Piedmont Woman's Club Plans October Dinner

PIEDMONT—The annual fall dinner meeting of the Piedmont Woman's Club will be held Thursday, October 3, at 6:30 p.m. in the recreation hall of Trinity Methodist Church.

Mrs. H. G. Muntzing, Moorefield, editor of the Clubwoman, will be the guest speaker. Miss Betty D'Aiuto, Romney, vice president of the Eastern District Federation of Women's Clubs, will also be a guest. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Catherine Ledlow by September 30.

Mrs. Edrie Pence announced that the Eastern District meeting will be held at Shepherdstown on September 28. Delegates named to the session include Mrs. Pence, Mrs Carleton Bell, Mrs. Madeleine Elliott, Mrs. Mary Belle Shaver and Mrs. Robberta Johnson.

A memorial service in memory of the late Miss Laura Shaffer was conducted recently by Mrs. Pence, assisted by Mrs. Shaver and Mrs. Bernard Maybury. A report of Girl State held at Jacksons Mill was given by Miss Ann Drane who was sponsored by the club. The club will hold a bake sale in November.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Larry Dimasi, chairman, Mrs. Dent Davis, Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Mrs. Joseph Maybury, Mrs. Charles Rizer, Mrs. Laura Baker and Mrs. Martin Weakley.

Keyser WSCS Plans Annual Yule Bazar

KEYSER — At an executive meeting of the WSCS of First Methodist Church held a recent evening in the church basement plans were advanced for the annual bazar of Christmas items, such as fancy work, cookies, candies, pastries and breads, novelties and aprons, etc.

Each group reported its plans for booths, and made their selection. There will be two groups this year to help with preparing and serving turkey supper on Thursday and for the luncheon on Friday. The definite dates for the bazar and other activities will be announced later.

On Thursday evening, September 19, all group secretaries are called to meet in the church to make out reports for the deadline on reporting October 1. Miss Ethel Boyer, spiritual life secretary, announced that Self-Denial week will be observed the last of October.

The WSCS will meet in regular session Monday at 8 p. m. in the church. The topic will be "Mission Cinerama," with Mrs. Kermit Parish conducting devotions and Mrs. John Thrush in charge of the program.

A social period will follow the program and business session, in connection with WSCS plans to observe the 11th anniversary, with recognition of new members. The special committee for that meeting will have a number of surprise activities at the session.

Sweepy, the squirrel is the mascot of the Governor's committee to keep Maryland beautiful. He reminds us all that a beautiful park or an inviting beach can become unsightly—and even unsafe — in a very short time — when careless visitors leave a trail of paper, bottles, containers, and other litter behind them. Let's all use the trash cans and help sweepy keep Maryland beautiful.

Along The Potomac

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — The purpose of my Concurrent Resolution, adopted on the final day of the first session, is to take a bird's eye view of the growth and expansion problems of the Nation's Capital as they effect the District of Columbia and the surrounding counties in Maryland and Virginia. Once this view is obtained, it is hoped that the various jurisdictional difficultes can be adjusted so that the balanced needs of the same urban and suburban populations for water and sewers, streets and transportation, houses, schools, parks and hospitals can be met.

It must be borne in mind that this is just a study. It cannot directly implement its recommendations. And, if it is to be successful, the cooperation of the governing bodies in the several jurisdictions is essential. I have no doubt that this will be forthcoming. The final report should aid in clarifying the problems confronting the Washington metropolitan area and help bring about their solution.

I have introduced a companion bill which, if enacted, would authorize the use of appropriated funds for the purchase of additional land for the Antietam battlefield. Under present law only donated funds may be used for this purpose.

The Department of Agriculture has informed me that an emergency loan area has been declared which includes Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery Counties. Farmers in these four counties who have had losses due to the drought and are unable to obtain local credit may qualify for these loans. Applications may be made at the local County offices of the Farmers Home Administration.

I know that many in the 6th Maryland District share my disappointment in the failure of Congressional leadership to permit the Members to vote on a number of important bills last session. Such bills include the measures which would have given increased annuities to retired Federal and railroad workers and permit the Civil Service Commission to take over the insurance policies of the remaining members of Federal employee beneficial associations.

Queen Makes First Speech Since Furor

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, smiling and composed, today made her first public speech since Lord Altrincham criticized her speaking as a schoolgirlish "pain in the neck."

First reaction was that she came through fine.

"A splendid delivery," said the London Evening Star. "She followed her text closely, uttering every word clearly and strongly."

The Queen spoke before nearly 2,000 at the opening of the Interparliamentary Union Conference. Both the government and commercial TV and radio carried the ceremony to millions of Britons.

Altrincham was not available for comment.

American delegates were impressed.

Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La) said, "If that's the way British schoolgirls speak, then the schoolgirls do all right."

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn): "It was certainly a lot better than some of the speeches I've heard in the Senate."

Approval came also from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a later speech to the conference.

He said: "Not only those representatives of British and Commonwealth parliaments here but those of other parliaments will feel we have been privileged to hear the Queen's speech which, by its happy phrasing and deep sincerity, has profoundly impressed us."

The Queen seemed more relaxed than she often has been in the past.

Old Machine Being Rebuilt At Paper Mill

LUKE — A modernization program is in progress at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, with company officials stating that the work is expected to take a minimum of four weeks to complete.

The program is the rebuilding of the No. 4 paper machine to increase the machine's production of such products as uncoated book paper and resin impregnating kraft, and to allow the machine to make paper requiring a sized surface such as coating raw stock and uncoated offset papers.

Improvements to the machine will include the addition of hoods, a size press and major repairs to the drying section, all designed to improve quality and increase production.

Not only will the machine's production capacity be increased but so will its versatility, according to John A. Luke, mill manager. He added that this increased versatility should help to make it possible to maintain full production during this period of intensifying competition.

The job of rebulding and modernizing the machine, first such major undertaking involving No. 4 machine since the 1920s, began September 3, following the shutdown of the mill for the Labor Day holiday.

Mill crews working in two eight-hour shifts daily, began the big job of dismantling the machine, the first step in rebuilding and modernization. Regular machine operating crews are being utilized to assist mill construction crews in the operation.

LONACONING — Airman Leo Winkler is returning by air flight from Washington to Hamilton Air Force Base, San Francisco, Calif. today. He is to be assigned as administrative clerk.

Carving Exhibit To Be Shown At Camporee

KEYSER — At the Tri-Valley Camporee of Boy Scouts of this area, to be held Sept. 21 and 22, at Laurel Dale, W. Va., there will be a display of equipment used in carving neckerchief slides, which was begun ten years ago by Ed. Choby, when his scout executive asked him to carve an Indian head slide. The interest in this work has grown since then and he developed a business in carving blocks.

He is besieged by Boy Scout groups from many parts of the country, writing to him for carving material. Most of his collection will be on display for the two-day camporee.

Teaching others to carve has been a major part of this man's scouting activity. He has visited hundreds of troops and packs teaching his skill.

He has reached the point where he can carve an Indian head in 14 minutes. He says he gets a "kick" out of teaching boys to do this.

Ellerslie 4-H Lists Officers

ELLERSLIE — The local 4-H Club met Monday evening at the home of Miss Linda Porter in charge of the president, Myrna Miller. Newly elected officers were presented—president, Myrna Miller; Shirley Edwards vice president; Kay Simpkins, secretary; Brenda Leydig, treasurer; Faye Lowery and Darlene Porter, trail dels.

Kay Simpkins will give a demonstration at the October meeting in the Methodist Church hall. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her parents. Members present included Carolyn and Myrna Miller, Kay and Marianne Simpkins, Carolyn and Darlene Faulkner, Shirley Edwards, Brenda Leydig, Darlene Porter, Faye Lowery, Patty Nixon.

Wesleyan Guild Planning Third Christmas Concert

PIEDMONT — Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church will sponsor its third Christmas concert Sunday, December 15, at 8:45 p. m. in the auditorium of the church.

Miss Phyllis Adams is in charge of arrangements and money realized will be contributed to a worthy cause. It was also decided at a recent meeting at the St. Ann Hotel to sell Christmas cards this year. They will be available to the members at the next meeting.

Miss Katherine Crawford spoke of work of Frank Beck, a former missionary to Bolivia who has been in missionary work since 1912. Devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Doris Daddysman.

The group will hold an outing this evening at Reese's Park on New Creek.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Mildred Eisler and Miss Helen Wagoner. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Norma Kohne in Bloomington.

Keyser Fire Company Elects

KEYSER — Robert McIlwee has been elected president of the Keyser Volunteer Fire Company to succeed W. V. Kimble.

Other officers are E. B. Kimble, vice president; E. K. Smith, financial secretary; H. S. Hartman Jr., corresponding secretary; Harry Stewart, treasurer; George Chidester, captain; Kenneth Rice, first assistant captain; N. C. Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Crosby, Complements And Canon 35

While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be conducted by guest writers.

By JOHN DALY

Brother Crosby, when at his labors, works for the written medium. I work for radio and television news and I have always been firmly convinced that the respective mediums are complementary.

Our radio and television news broadcasts, in the intimacy of their relationship to the public, create initial interest in every area of news. The individual depends on the written record for greater detail and the obvious benefits that result from the ability to review again and again an entire news story, or any of its parts, as the basis for sound understanding and judgment of the current scene.

All this is by way of saying that I am in Brother Crosby's debt for letting me put into this more enduring form some thoughts I have about canon 35.

Canon 35, one of a system of rules prepared for the guidance of the courts by the American Bar Association, remains the major barrier to the inherent rights of radio and television news under the Constitution. Its words are seared into the minds of every hard working news and special events man in radio and television. To wit: "The taking of photographs in the courtroom. . . and the broadcasting or telecasting of courtroom proceedings are calculated to detract from the essential dignity of the proceedings, distract the witness, degrade the court, and create misconceptions with respect thereto in the minds of the public and should not be permitted."

Now, is that a nice thing to say?

While we are this business of saying, let's see what some of the contemporary and traditional greats of the law have to say of this loaded canon.

The Honorable Johnson J. Hayes, of the United States District Court, Fourth Circuit, puts our general argument more trenchantly, perhaps, then we can. "The founders of our government felt that the safest protection for the preservation of liberty was informed citizenship and they were determined to perpetuate the untrammeled right of the citizen to get that information by securing a free press. If their purpose was to preserve the untrammeled right of the citizen to be informed, that right inherently extends to such media as radio, photography and television."

Now, isn't that a nice thing to say?

Canon 35, happily, is a rule, not a law, and is not legally binding. And some distinguished members of bench and bar have helped us mightily in our efforts to spike this canon. Against all the traditional cries of circus atmosphere, invasion of privacy, distraction of witnesses and degradation of bench and bar, they have allowed us to prove in their courtrooms that the charges are empty and false.

A case in point: In December of 1955, KWTX-TV took a camera into the murder trial of Harry L. Washburn in Waco, Texas. I think you will agree that no man can be in greater jeopardy than was Mr. Washburn. After the trial, the defense counsel said: "The live television coverage of this case did not interfere with the trial at any time. The TV equipment and personnel were so quiet that the defense was never sure when the picture was being sent out of the courtroom."

A prosecution witness, a woman, said she was aware the trial was being televised but she didn't even see the camera when she was on the stand. And the defendant, Harry L. Washburn, called the television "a fine thing."

We think of this as quite a testimonial. Mr. Washburn was found guilty and sentenced to life in prison.

In another case, the Manley murder trial in Oklahoma City, covered by WKY-TV, trial Judge Van Meter had this to say: "The Billy Manley trial coverage by WKY-TV was handled in such a manner as not to hamper or influence the trial in any manner. The attention of the attorneys, the jurors, the witnesses and the court was not distracted in any appreciable manner. So long as the court is informed of what is to be done and has control of the situation, there should be no objection to this new means of informing the people."

Are such attitudes new? No! I would quote two eighteenth century giants of jurisprudence. William Blackstone wrote: "This open examination of witnesses, in the presence of all mankind, is much more conducive to the clearing up of truth than the private and secret examination taken down in writing before an officer." And Jeremy Bentham, who gave his name to a basic political and ethical philosophy, adds: "In many cases, say rather in most, the publicity of the examination operates as a check upon their mendacity and incorrectness. . . should he hazard a false tale. . . many a known face, every unknown one, presents to him a possible source of detection."

Jeremy Bentham also has somthing to say about the effect of public trials upon the presiding judge. "Upon his moral faculties, it acts as a check, restraining him from active partiality and improbity in every shape. Upon his intellectual faculties it acts as a spur, urging him to that habit of unremitting exertion without which his attention can never be kept up to the pitch of his duty. . . it keeps the judge himself — while trying — under trial."

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, the defense rests.

Opening lead: ace of diamonds.

West couldn't believe his own ears when he heard his opponent contract for slam today. He was quite familiar too with "all those school marm essays about the evils of doubling a slam." But this was testing a man's patience a bit too far, he felt. However, his experience may force him to revise his opinion.

Perhaps it is better to gloss over the bidding sequence adopted by South. What purpose he hoped to accomplish by the use of a Blackwood bid, I do not know, except the observance of a ritual which so many players seem to think is a required preliminary of all slam bids.

There is this to be said on his behalf, however: If North turned up with two aces, he could safely contract for a grand slam. But after finding partner aceless, it required an unbounded faith in nature to contract for slam.

West opened the ace of diamonds. South realized that unless he could gain entry into dummy, the hand was lost; so he dropped the jack of diamonds on the first trick. West continued the suit and declarer won with the queen.

In the absence of West's double, declarer's normal play, after extracting trumps, would be to enter dummy with the seven of diamonds and go for the heart finesse. But declarer considered it better tactics to play West for everything out of sight. Mentally placing the king of hearts and the ace of clubs in the West hand, he decided to project a squeeze against him.

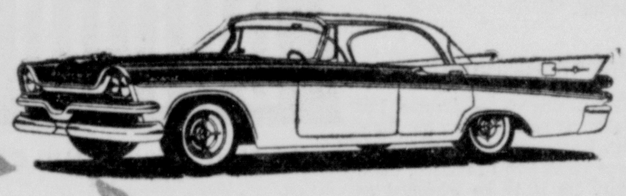

He cashed all seven trumps and the king of diamonds, leaving himself with the six of diamonds and the ace-queen of hearts. West held the ace of clubs and the king-jack of hearts. As declarer led the six of diamonds to dummy's seven, West had reached the end of his tether. He desperately discarded the jack of hearts in the hope that partner held the queen. But when a low heart was now led from dummy, declarer went up with the ace, felling West's king.

Yanks, Chisox Open Final Series Today

Key Injuries Still Plague Ole Casey

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP) — Although the New York Yankees held a comfortable lead with only 14 games to play, injuries to key men plagued Manager Casey Stengel as he prepared to open a two-game series with Chicago tomorrow.

Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron are on the questionable list as Yank starters. Mantle spent a few days in the hospital as the result of "shin splints" and Berra and Skowron have been out of action for almost a week.

Mantle took batting practice before yesterday's day game with Cleveland, and Berra and Skowron were scheduled to visit Yankee Stadium for treatment by Trainer Gus Mauch.

Mantle hasn't played the outfield since Sept. 3 although he did make two appearances as a pinch hitter. Berra has been nursing a sprained right thumb and Skowron hurt his back while reaching for a screwdriver in his apartment.

The Yanks, of course, are in a good position with a solid lead at this stage of the game. Chicago can't afford to settle for a split in these two final games with the Yanks. New York holds a 13-7 lead in the season series.

"We'll have to knock them off in both games to be in a good spot," said Al Lopez, Chicago manager, before today's game with Boston. "Our gang has been bouncing back all year after they have counted us out. We can do it again. We've got to put a good winning streak together. That's all there is to it."

Lopez said Billy Pierce (19-10) will pitch Friday and Dick Donovan (15-5) will go Saturday. The Yanks will send Whitey Ford (9-4) against Pierce in a battle of lefthanders and will try to match Donovan with Tom Sturdivant (14-6), also a righthander.

Braves Edge Dodgers, 2-1

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 12 (AP) — Rookie Danny McDevitt whose wildness dimmed a great pitching performance put the deciding run on base with a walk in the ninth inning tonight and Del Crandall drove the runner home as the National League leading Milwaukee Braves defeated the Brooklyn Dogers 2-1.

Officials To Meet

The Potomac Valley Football Officials will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Keyser High School gym, John Shelton, secretary, announced yesterday. Officials who have taken Part 1 of their examination are to bring work sheets, Shelton said.

Exports Many Horses

NEW YORK (AP)—The main item of export from Ireland to the United States is the thoroughbred horse, reports the Irish Export Board of Dublin. In 1956, Americans bought a total of $3,028,289 worth of thoroughbreds from the Emerald Isle.

Maple Inn Tops Gray's In Tourney

Old Germans Beat Rec Team, 13 To 5

The Maple Inn Old Germans pounded two hurlers for 11 hits and scored a convincing 13-5 triumph over Gray's Tavern last night in a frist ruond Western Maryland Softball Tournament game at Penn Avenue field.

The Old Germans pounced on "Beef" Eckard for five runs in the initial inning and added a pair in the second for a lead which enabled Jerry O'Baker to coast on the mound for the winners.

O'Baker was touched for 10 hits and five runs, but allowed only one tally after the third inning.

Dick Clay was the chief thorn in O'Baker's side collecting a home run, double, and two singles in four trips to the play for Gray's. Cover had two hits and scored three runs for the losers.

Jerry Neubiser, Carter and Leroy Lease each had two hits for Maple Inn.

Gene Mason, director of the softball tournament, said that Tuesday's opening first round game which were postponed because of rain will be played on Monday.

These games pit the Spa Bar and Lacy's Delicatets in the 6 p. m. contest and Peskin's and the Moose in the 7:30 engagement. The tournament will then pick up its regular schedule next Tuesday. The score:

Gray's Tavern	202	010 0—	5 10 3
Maple Inn O. G.	520	114 x—13	11 0

Eckard, Slonaker (2) and Shaw; Phillips, J. O'Baker and L. Morris, Abucevic (4).

138 To Play In Dallas Open Beginning Today

DALLAS, Sept. 12 (AP) — A field of 138 will move out tomorrow in the $40,000 Dallas Open with Ken Venturi, the handsome young man from San Francisco, strongest favorite to capture first money.

Venturi, who won the last two tournaments in which he played, is the hottest shotmaker on the tour right now and also the golf veterans say his game is made to fit the 6,328-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course. A good wedge player has the advantage there and Venturi certainly is that.

Stenographer Swims Gibraltar Straits

TARIFA, Spain, Sept. 12 (AP) — Montserrat Trasserras, a 26-year-old Spanish stenographer, swam the straits of Gibraltar today.

She started from a point known as Isla de la Palomas, Spain, and swam about 20 miles before reaching the African coast at Playa Zaimal in five hours, 18 minutes. She was the fourth woman to make the feat.

"CAPPING" CONTRACT—Cookie Lavagetto goes along with the gag as Calvin Griffith, Washington Senators club president, gets set to put another cap on his head after contract signing ceremonies yesterday. The extra cap is supposed to represent the second consecutive year for Lavagetto as Senators' manager. He took over the post early this season from Chuck Dressen and was said to have received an increase from $18,000 to $22,000 to manage the Senators who have been bounding around in seventh and eighth places in the American League. Dodgers Turn Down Offer By N.Y. Syndicate

$7½ Million For Franchise Refused

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP) —The Brooklyn Dodgers today brushed off a 7½ million dollar offer from a syndicate interested in keeping the club in New York.

The offer, made in the form of a telegram to Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, came from Sinclair Robinson, 43-year-old New York financier as head of a five-man group.

Robinson, president of Williams, McWilliams Industries Inc. which does dredging and general construction work in New Orleans and operates a chain of retail meat stores in New York, would identify only one associate. He was Rowley W. Phillips of New York and Connecticut, chairman of the board of Williams and McWilliams. He said two of the others were from New York and one from Connecticut.

Toss Water On Offer

The Dodgers promptly tossed a bucket of cold water on this offer. Arthur (Red) Patterson, assistant general manager, issued this brief statement in mid-afternoon.

"Obviously nothing need be said about this type of publicity."

There have been several offers to buy the Dodgers in recent weeks while O'Malley has talked of moving the club to Los Angeles. Earlier this week, Nelson Rockefeller offered to buy an interest in the club or help build a new stadium for the club. The highest previous New York offer was about 5 million dollars by the Wolfson interests.

Robinson said he was a Dodger fan of long standing. In his telegram he called upon O'Malley to "exhaust all means at your command to keep the Dodgers in the city" as his "civic duty." He said he did not know O'Malley and never had met him but had reason to believe his offer would be considered.

Poulson Leaves Town

While this latest offer was being released to the press at a news conference, the mayor of Los Angeles was flying out of town without a major league ball club.

Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles was questioned at the airport as he and his wife left for Washington. When a reporter asked if he still was optimistic about getting the Dodgers, he said, "there is nothing new but after reading how San Francisco made out—someone will be out there."

Lavagetto Gets New Contract

"We Need Help" Nats Pilot Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto today signed a new one-year contract to manage the Washington Qenators and said he would deal off anyone but slugger Roy Sievers to lift his team from the American League cellar.

"We need help at seven positions," Lavagetto told reporters who gathered for his ceremonial coming to terms for a reported $22,000 with club President Calvin Griffith.

"We will trade anybody but Sievers if the deal is right," added the 44-year-old veteran of 21 seasons in baseball is player, coach and manager.

Besides Sievers, who is leading the league in home runs and runs batted in, Lavagetto said he is satisfied with a "great job" by Rocky Bridges at shortstop.

Otherwise he is seeking young players who can add "speed and throwing ability" and pitchers who can give depth to the senators' thin mound staff.

Tigers Sweep Nats Series

Boone, Bolling Hit Homers In 8-5 Win

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Ray Boone and Frank Bolling crashed home runs tonight as Detroit defeated Washington 8-5, to sweep a three-game series and deal the Senators a fifth straight loss. Duke Maas, who required help from Harry Byrd, posted his tenth win.

Chuck Stobbs, who lost his 19th decision, was betrayed by his defense. A pair of errors accounted for six unearned runs among the seven the Tigers scored against him, with rightfielder Neil Chrisley letting three runs score in the seventh when he dropped Harvey Kuenn's fly.

Four of the Senators' runs also were unearned, with an error by Kuenn sandwiched into a three-run second inning and another Kuenn error helping the Senators to score a run in the seventh.

Boone slammed his homer to start the fourth inning and the Tigers grabbed a 4-3 lead in the fifth after second baseman Herb Plews dropped Maas' pop fly.

The Tigers scored three runs without benefit of a hit in the seventh after Johnny Groth walked and took second on a wild pitch. Roy Sievers robbed Boone of a second homer with a spectacular leap against the short left field fence and Al Kaline was purposely passed.

The bases were loaded when shortstop Rocky Bridges fielded Charley Maxwell's grounder but threw too late to second to force Kaline. Christley then dropped Kuenn's fly for a three-base error.

Sandy Is Favorite Over Szuzina

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Randy Sandy of New York today was installed a 7-5 favorite to whip Germany's Franz Szuzina in their 10-round nationally televised middleweight bout tomorrow night.

Szuzina, 27, has had 16 bouts in this country since making his debut in 1956. He has a record of 40 wins, 18 losses and 13 ties.

Fort Hill, LaSalle Open Here Tonight; AHS At Beall

Raiders Host To Explorers At 8 O'Clock

Fort Hill Queen Will Be Crowned During Intermission

Fort Hill and LaSalle will kick off the Cumberland gridiron season here tonight when Coach Bill Hahn's Sentinels host the Explorers from Centre Street at Fort Hill Stadium at 8 o'clock.

The opening game of the 1957 campaign for both elevens will be the 25th meeting of the teams and Coach Norman Geatz's Explorers will be looking for their first win.

Won 23 Games

Fort Hill, which won 7 and lost 2 last year, has won 23 of the 24 meetings between the two schools on the gridiron. The 1938 clash ended in a scoreless deadlock.

Last season, LaSalle won 4 and dropped 5 including a 33-7 defeat at the hands of the Sentinels.

This will mark the third season Fort Hill has opened its schedule against LaSalle and the Sentinels will be striving to extend their slim winning streak which began with a 20-0 victory over Allegany on Thanksgiving Day last year. LaSalle dropped its Turkey D[illegible] to Beall, 7-6.

The Sentinels will suit 38 players for tonight's game and Coach Hahn stated yesterday that the host team probably will wear red jerseys.

Have Gold Uniforms

LaSalle will have 33 players in uniform. The Explorers will be suited in gold uniforms trimmed in white and green.

Co-Captains will be Frank Ringler and Dalton Hillegas for Fort Hill and Charles Imes and Van Parsons for LaSalle.

Officials for the game will be John Shelton, James Gaffney, John Fox and Waldon Skinner.

At half-time ceremonies the Fort Hill football queen will be crowned by last year's reigning monarch, Miss Donna Nield.

LaSalle coaches announced last night that the tentative lineups for tonight's game will include Charles Imes and Bob Fair at ends; Ken Harris and Jake Twigg at guards; Reggie Lennox, at center; John Gilmore and Frank Carney at tackles; Van Parson at quarterback; John Bahen and Doc Richards at the halfback posts and Tom Hudson at fullback.

Also expected to see plenty of action in tonight's fray for LaSalle are John Barr and Jim Delaney at ends; Joe Footen, at fullback; Tom Madden at quarterback; Mike Stitcher, center; Don Stillwagon, guard; and Edgar Phillips, tackle.

Announces Lineup

Fort Hill said its tentative lineup will include Gerald Meeks and Frank Ringler at ends; Walter Reed and Jack White at tackles; Paul Appel and William Hahn at guards; Fred Joyce at center; Charles Robinson at quarterback; Michael McCullough and Thurl Roy at the halfback spots; and Dalton Hillegas at fullback.

Backing these up will be Robert Rowley at tackle; Robert Van Meter and Gary Holtzman at guards; David Durst at end; Thomas Shaw at quarterback; Dennis Burns and Thomas Davis at halfback.

Ponton, Garlitz Win CCC Matches In Fall Tourney

Russ Ponton and George Garlitz scored first round victories in the championship flight of the men's fall golf tournament at the Cumberland Country Club.

Ponton defeated George Petras, 1 up in 18 holes, while Garlitz was returned the winner over Ed Mattingly, 2 and 1.

In first flight matches G. W. Bibby beat Earl Guard, 6 and 4; Judge Morgan C. Harris downed Abe Feigus, 7 and 6; and Bill George defeated Richard Zembower, 2 and 1.

In the second flight John Rokisky defeated Charles Zembower, 4 and 3; J. T. Mason won over Dick Winer, 7 and 6; Bob Garner edged Bob Robinette, 1 up in 20 holes; and H. F. Radcliffe beat Dr. Milton Granet, 5 and 4.

In a third flight match Bob Reinhart defeated Ken Farrell, 7 and 6.

Club officials announced that the top man in each bracket must contact his opponent for their match, adding that the first round must be completed by Sunday or the top man will lose by default.

Attendance Up In National League Parks

Nine Million Fans To See Contests

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12 (AP)—The National League is running almost 100,000 ahead of last year in attendance and expects to have drawn close to nine million fans by the time the season ends on Sept. 29.

Last year the league's total attendance was 8,649,567. The all-time record of 10,288,470 was set in 1947 but loop officials long have claimed 1946 through 1949 were "abnormal" years because more persons were making more money and the influx of returning servicemen gave a big boost to baseball attendance.

Prior to 1946 the biggest attendance year the National League ever had was in 1930 when there were 5,446,532 paying customers.

Dave Grote, the league service director, reported today that in games through yesterday the league had drawn 8,025,741 fans this year as compared with 7,925,918 on the same date last year.

There are 54 playing dates remaining on the schedule as compared with 53 at the same time last year.

One reason for the prediction that the increase over last year will get even larger is the fact that Milwaukee's front - running Braves, leaders in attendance, still have 13 playing dates at home and second-place St. Louis also plays most of the remaining contests at home. Last year, both clubs spent most of September on the road.

Four clubs—Milwaukee, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Brooklyn—already have passed the million mark in attendance and a fifth—Cincinnati—should go over the hump in its next game or two. The Reds are only 12,232 shy of the million mark now.

League officials predicted that Milwaukee, with 1,802,731 customers, is almost certain to break the all-time National League attendance record for one club. That record of 2,131,388 was set in 1954 by Milwaukee.

Race Driver Dies Of Track Injuries

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 12 (AP) —Race driver Paul James of Fairbury, Neb., died today of injuries suffered in a track mishap at the Kansas Free Fair Sunday.

James, 28, was taking warm-up laps prior to a race on Sunday's fair program when his car lost a wheel, flipped end over end and burst into flames. He was an aeronautical engineering student at Wichita University.

Alco Seeks 11th Straight Over Beall

Calhoun New Coach At Frostburg; Tilt To Start At 8 P. M.

Coach Chester Payne will take his Allegany High School Campers to Frostburg to meet a new coaching foe when his Campobello squad tangles with Beall High's Mountaineers at 8 o'clock to open the football season for both schools.

The new coaching opponent will be Gerard Calhoun, formerly of Berkeley Springs, who now handles the reins at the Frostburg school.

The Campers will be striving for their 11th straight win at the expense of a Beall eleven, the Frostburgers having lost 10 straight since their series was resumed in 1946.

Last year Allegany was victorious 20-6.

Tentative Lineups

Beall's new coach won 6 and lost 4 last season at Berkeley Springs. Payne had a 3-5-1 record at Allegany while Beall had a 2-6 mark under Jimmy Manges who resigned.

Tentative lineups for tonight's struggle are:

Allegany		Beall
LE	Stouffer	Jacobs
LT	Sitter	Clark
LG	Grimes	Finn
C	Mangus	Schultheis
RG	Rexrode	Eagan
RT	Norris	McGowan
RE	Davis	Carter
QB	G. Shook	Hyde
LH	Lowendick	Zumpano
RH	W. Shook	Minnick
FB	Walker	Fabbri

Others expected to see action will be Nick Wenrick at offensive right half for Allegany and Dick Allen, Bruce Smith, Jack Croft, Dale Thomas, Jim Folk, Wayne McKenzie, Ray Raley and Ralph Arnold of Beall.

Only Fabbri, Jacobs and Taylor are regulars from last year for Beall. Sitter, Gary Shook, Lowendick and Walker saw most of the service for Allegany last year.

Other Games Listed

In Potomac Valley Conference games today Circleville, 26-0 losers to Berkeley Springs last week, will meet Ridgeley High's Blackhawks at Ridgeley. The Hawks under Tom O'Connor defeated Hancock, 18-6, in their opener last week.

Moorefield will be at Southern High in Oakland in the opener for Coach Jonathan Paugh's Yellowjackets. Southern dropped its PVC opener last week to Petersburg, 27-7.

Petersburg will host the West Virginia School for Deal eleven in the Lions first conference game.

Other contests on tap today include Parsons at Keyser, winner 14-6 over Charles Town on Saturday; Romney at Charles Town; Franklin at Greenbank; Northwestern at South Hagerstown; North Hagerstown at William Penn, York, Pa.; Everett-Southern at Bedford; Martinsburg at Morgantown; Westminster at Gettysburg; and Meyersdale at Northern. Northern won its opener last week against the Keyser Jayvees, 31-7.

Beagle Trial Set Saturday At Barton Farm

Allegany Beagle Club will hold the fifth in a series of Plan B sanctioned trials on Saturday at its Barton dairy club house.

Secretary Lou Stitcher announced that the 13-inch class will be drawn at 8 a. m. and the 15-inch class will be drawn at 1 p. m. on Saturday.

Judges for the event will be Rolla Kester of Pinto and William Partlow of Cumberland.

Meals will be served at the clubhouse during the field trial.

Reed Is Winner

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (AP)—Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., unseed in the International Invitation Tennis Tournament, today defeated third-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4.

K-C 4th Degree League To Open With 2 Divisions

The Knights of Columbus 4th Degree Bowling League will operate with two divisions this year, the Wednesday division and the Thursday division.

In opening games in the Wednesday division the Comptrollers defeated the Navigators, 3-0; the Admirals beat the Pilots, 3-0; and the Scribes won 2-1 from the Captains.

Tom Carney's 135 and Alverna Loibel's 337 paced the Comptrollers, Jack Loibel with 138—368 was high for the Navigators. Best for the Admirals was Francis Mullen's 166—428. Ed Lyons had 167—394 for the Scribes and Mildred Fretwell's 147 and Bill Norris's 341 topped the Captains.

In Thursday's division the Swords won 3-0 over the Pursers, the Baldrics beat the Marshals, 2-1, and the Friars downed the Sentinels, 3-0.

High for the Swords was Pat Hopkins with 157—443; best for the Pursers was Bill Lovenstein's, 160—398; tops for the Baldrics was Andy Saliga's 148—412; leading the Marshals were Peg Stegmaier with 134 and Harold Wagner with 349; pacing the Friars was Betty Lovenstein with 157—413; and heading the Sentinels was Carl Firlie with 130—314.

Elbie Fletcher, former Pittsburgh Pirate first baseman, is selling insurance and is the president of the Little League in Milton, Mass.

Ritter Awarded Dean Memorial At RC Dinner

Outdoor Club Gets Majority Of Prizes

Bob Ritter of the Ritter's A. C. team won the Harry Dean Memorial award, symbolic of the top sportsman in the Rocking Chair Softball League, last night at the RC dinner held at the B.P.O. Elks Club.

The Outdoor Club, pennant and playoff champions captured all the other awards presented at last night's affair which was attended by over 100 guests.

The Outdoor Club team, piloted by Cecil Grimes took the large bat which goes to the winner each season, the John Fradiska Memorial award and the Old German trophies for capturing both titles.

Attending last night's affair were the coaches and athletic directors of area football teams, each of whom was introduced to the guests. Included in the coaching assembly were Bill Hahn of Fort Hill, with his assistant, Lloyd Boor; Gerard Calhoun of Beall High; Tom O'Connor of Ridgeley with assistant, Barney Tucker; Chester Payne of Allegany with assistant, Paul Cuba; and Brother Thomas and assistant coach Don Harden of LaSalle.

Jim Browning was toastmaster for the dinner.

Dukes Traded To Pistons

Minneapolis Gets Star Larry Foust

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 12 (AP) —The Minneapolis Lakers of the National Basketball Assn. traded seven-foot Walt Dukes to the Detroit Pistons today for Larry Foust, for seven years one of the stars of the league.

Foust, a 6-9 center, was described by new Laker Coach George Mikan as the "most troublesome opponent" he played against in the years Mikan made the Lakers the toughest team in pro basketball.

In each of his seven seasons with the old Fort Wayne Pistons Foust, 29, maintained an average of at least 12 points a game. His best season was in 1954-55 when he scored 1,036 points in 70 games for a 17.3 average. He was bothered by a back injury last season and averaged 12.4.

Foust, an all-league selection twice, was acquired to strengthen the Lakers at a position badly weakened by the trade of veteran Clyde Lovellette to Cincinnati.

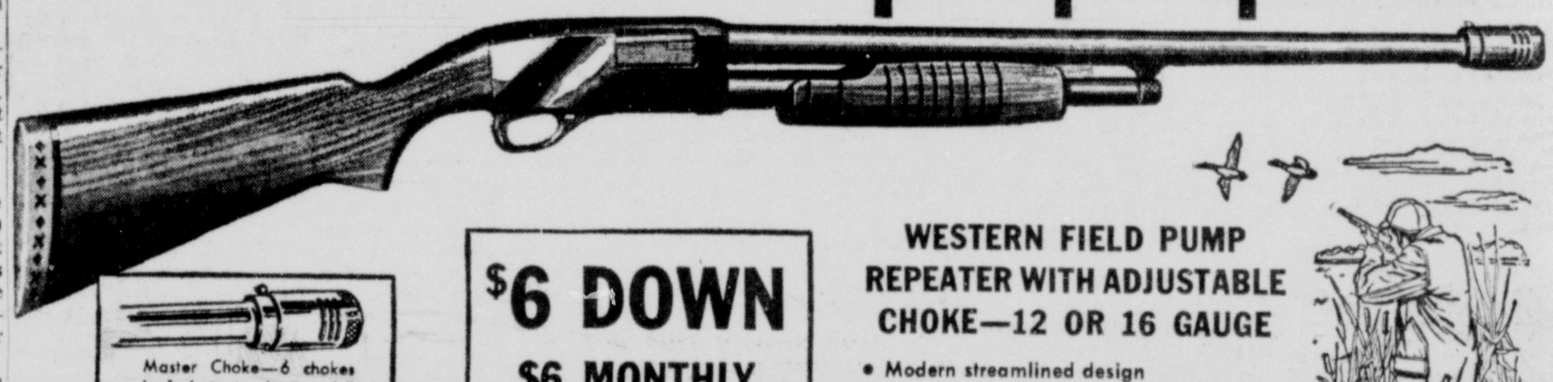

Bobby Layne of the Detroit Lions has thrown more touchdown passes than any other active player in the National Football League.

Chicago Gains On Yanks As Jim Wilson Beats Boston

White Sox Hurler Cops 14th, 4 To 1

Victory Inches Chicago To Five Behind Yankees

BOSTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Right-hander Jim Wilson finally pitched his 14th victory today and it couldn't have come at a more appropriate time for the Chicago White Sox, who whipped Boston 7-1.

The victory inched the runnerup Chicagoans to within 5 games of the front-running Yankees whom they meet in the opener of a critical series in New York tomorrow night.

Picks Favorite Enemy

Wilson had tried on four other occasions to win his 14th and picked his favorite enemy in the Red Sox. His triumph today was his fifth over Boston this season.

The winners scored once in the opening inning, added two in the fourth, Lu Aparicio hit his third homer for the fourth Chicago run in the fifth and a cluster of three runs in the seventh nailed down the decision.

Wilson, who leads the league in shutouts with five, lost his sixth whitewash job in the seventh when the Red Sox scored an unearned run. Ken Aspromonte, who had doubled, scored as Ted Beard dropped pinch hitter Mickey Vernon's sinking liner.

Fox Gets Three Hits

Frank Sullivan lasted until Aparicio belted his homer into the screen in left. Sully, who lost his 10th, against 13 victories was followed by lefthander Frank Baumann and Rudy Minarcin.

Nellie Fox belted three singles and now has a total of 176 hits, 11 more than Mickey Mantle of the Yankees.

The game ended the season's series between these two clubs with the pennant-ambitious White Sox winning 14 of the 22.

Art Ceccarelli Has Appendicitis

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—Art Ceccarelli, Baltimore Orioles southpaw, became ill tonight during practice before the scheduled game with Kansas City.

The 27-year-old pitcher was taken to Union Memorial Hospital where his illness was diagnosed as appendicitis.

A club spokesman said he was to be operated upon by Dr. William Gilmore.

Ceccarelli is winless in five decisions this year. His earned run average is 4.50.

Tonight's game was called off because of rain a few minutes after Ceccarelli became ill. It will not be made up.

Dr. Taylor, Three Walker Cuppers Win In Amateur

Quarter Finals Are Hard-Fought

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 12 (AP)—Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor, the Pomonia, Calif. dentist who plays the game with a surgeon's sensitive skill, and three brash young teammates made it an all-Walker Cup semi-final today in the 57th National Amateur Golf Championship.

Other survivors in the bitterest and closest waged quarter-final in modern times were Rex Baxter, 21, a University of Houston junior from Amarillo, Tex., who was carried to the 21st hole; Mason Rudolph, 23, an Army private from Clarksville, Tenn., who went 19, and Hillman Robbins, 25, a lieutenant from Memphis—the only player not carried the full route.

Three Extra Holes

Baxter fought off a scrambling college teammate, Phil Rodgers of Lajolla, Calif., to win on the third extra hole. Rudolph beat Dick Yost of Portland, Ore., a former Walker Cupper, on the 19th, while Robbins won 3 and 1 over Dick Chapman, the 44 - year - old ex-champion making a golf comeback.

Taylor, a pug-nosed 40-year-old who has been picked as heir apparent to Harvie Ward's undefended title, scored a 2-up victory over Gene Andrews, hard-fighting 44-year-old insurance man from Los Angeles, sinking an 18-foot sidehill putt on the final hole.

At the end of the day's play the slender doctor had toured 89 holes of The Country Club course in seven strokes under par—by far the most consistent performance of the tournament.

In tomorrow's 36-hole semifinals, it's Taylor against Rudolph and Robbins against Baxter.

But it was one of the losers—stocky, sandy-haired Rodgers, a 19-year-old college freshman—who gave the gallery its biggest thrills.

Sinks Birdie Putt

One down at the 18th the Californian sank a 17-foot birdie putt on the final hole to knot the match and then unleashed a series of spectacular recoveries to keep the match alive until the door closed on him at the 21st.

On the first extra hole Rodgers drove into a clump of trees and left himself a bad downhill lie. He sent the ball over the trees to the fringe of the green and then chipped close to halve the hole in par four's.

At the 20th Baxter was trapped on his tee shot but exploded to the fringe and two-putted from 45 feet. Rodgers dumped his second into the side of a bunker. He took a putter, pitched the ball to within seven feet and sank to stay alive.

The end came for Rodgers on the next hole where he missed the green to the right, between two traps. He chipped to within six feet and then, shaken by the day's developments, missed while Baxter two-putted from 25-feet for his winning par.

Dr. Novak Wins Over Lou Syckes

Dr. Robert Novak, of Frostburg, a newcomer to local tennis tournaments went to the semi-finals of the men's singles of the Allegany County tennis tournament, by defeating Lou Syckes, a former county champion, 6-4, 6-1, yesterday evening.

Dr. Novak will meet Bill Day in the semi-final match Saturday afternoon starting at 2:30 on the Country Club courts, the best three out of five sets.

The winner plays Jimmy Twigg on the Country Club courts Sunday afternoon for the county championship.

Dr. Novak and Charles Sager of Frostburg have also reached the final round of the men's doubles.

Chorovich Released By Baltimore

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 12 (AP)—Dick Chorovich, who was a starting offensive tackle as a rookie for the Baltimore Colts in 1955, was let go today.

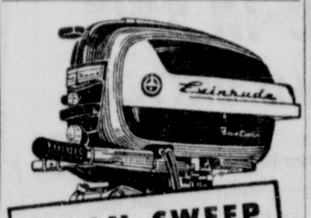

Chorovich, former Miami, Ohio, lineman, has been too fat to suit Colt officials. Twice they offered him bonuses to get down below 270. He failed and an exasperated Coach Weeb Ewbank declared "we have been hoping he would mature, but we can't wait any longer."

Red Cochran, Detroit Lions backfield coach, was a mathematics major at Wake Forest College.

Dallas Open Spectators Can Watch On TV

Closed Circuit Put Into Clubhouse

DALLAS, Sept. 12 (AP) — With $40,000 on the line in the Dallas Open to tighten golfers' nerves, the shooters may be free of one hazard.

That's the spectator who knows he—or she—is prone to sneeze just before a critical stroke.

At this Open, which starts Friday, the spectator can tuck himself into an arm chair in the air-conditioned clubhouse and enjoy his golf, too.

Their nervous friends—the people who just must whisper at the wrong time or jangle keys on the eve of a possible birdie—can meet them there.

For Glen Lakes Country Club has installed a closed-circuit television system connected with the clubhouse for the tournament.

The dining room has been ringed with eight receivers, one is in the card room converted into press headquarters, and others are scattered about.

The Dallas Open sponsors say this is the first time such a circuit has been used at a tournament.

Penn State, Navy, Pitt Are Top Eastern Elevens

Army, Princeton Said In Running

This is another in a series of pre-season sectional football forecasts. Today—The East.

By TONY GALLI

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(INS)—Eastern competition will be tougher this year than it has since college football leadership began moving West and South.

For that reason, the experts are stalemated over the choice of a successor to Syracuse for the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern football supremacy.

The top three choices, and not necessarily in order, are Penn State, Navy and Pittsburgh.

Army will be another strong independent and Princeton is the pick of the Ivy League. Holy Cross and Boston College are the New England powers, and a couple of vastly improved teams will be Villanova and Pennsylvania.

Orange Lost Brown

Syracuse, without All-American halfback Jim Brown, will drop in stature but the Orange has quarterback depth and a fine end in Dick Lasse.

Penn State's 1956 second-string backfield, which played nearly as much as the first, is moving up intact with capable Al Jacks replacing Milt Plum at quarterback, Bruce Gilmore and Andy Moconyi at the halves and Big Mo Schleicher at full.

Jacks will have smooth receivers in Les Walters and Jack Farls. If coach Rip Engle can crack the Army jinx on the Cadets' first visit to University Park, the Nittany Lions may go undefeated.

Navy Drills Satisfactory

Navy's veteran squad experienced such satisfactory spring practice that coach Eddie Erdelatz ended the drills three days short of the 20-day maximum because "we accomplished our mission."

Navy's line will average 212 pounds, the biggest in the history of the academy. A fast, hard-hitting backfield includes a well respected trio in quarterback Tom Forrestal, halfback-captain Ned Oldham and fullback Dick Dagampat.

Despite the loss of the Corny Salvaterra-to-Joe Walton passing combination that set a school record of 14 touchdowns last season, Pittsburgh is a top candidate for a bowl bid for the third straight year.

The Panthers face a murderous early schedule which includes national champion Oklahoma, Oregon and Southern California, but coach John Michelosen will have more speed than he did last year with a backfield headed by quarterback Bill Kaliden. The 224-pound line revolves about a sturdy veteran center, Charley Brueckman.

Army Is Bigger

Army is also bigger than ever, and one of Earl Blaik's four returning regulars is field general Dave Bourland. But the line needs rebuilding and a knee operation may have slowed breakaway threat Gene Mikelonis.

The Ivy League is unusually balanced this season but Princeton gets the nod with a strong backfield headed by John Sapoch plus the best sophomores in years.

(Next: The Rockies).

Pirates, Cubs Have Two Doubleheaders

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—The start of a four-game cellar series between the last place Chicago Cubs and the seventh place Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed today after several hours of intermittent rain left Wrigley Field soggy.

After riding several weeks in seventh place in the National League, the Cubs fell back into the cellar yesterday under a 9-1 trouncing by Brooklyn.

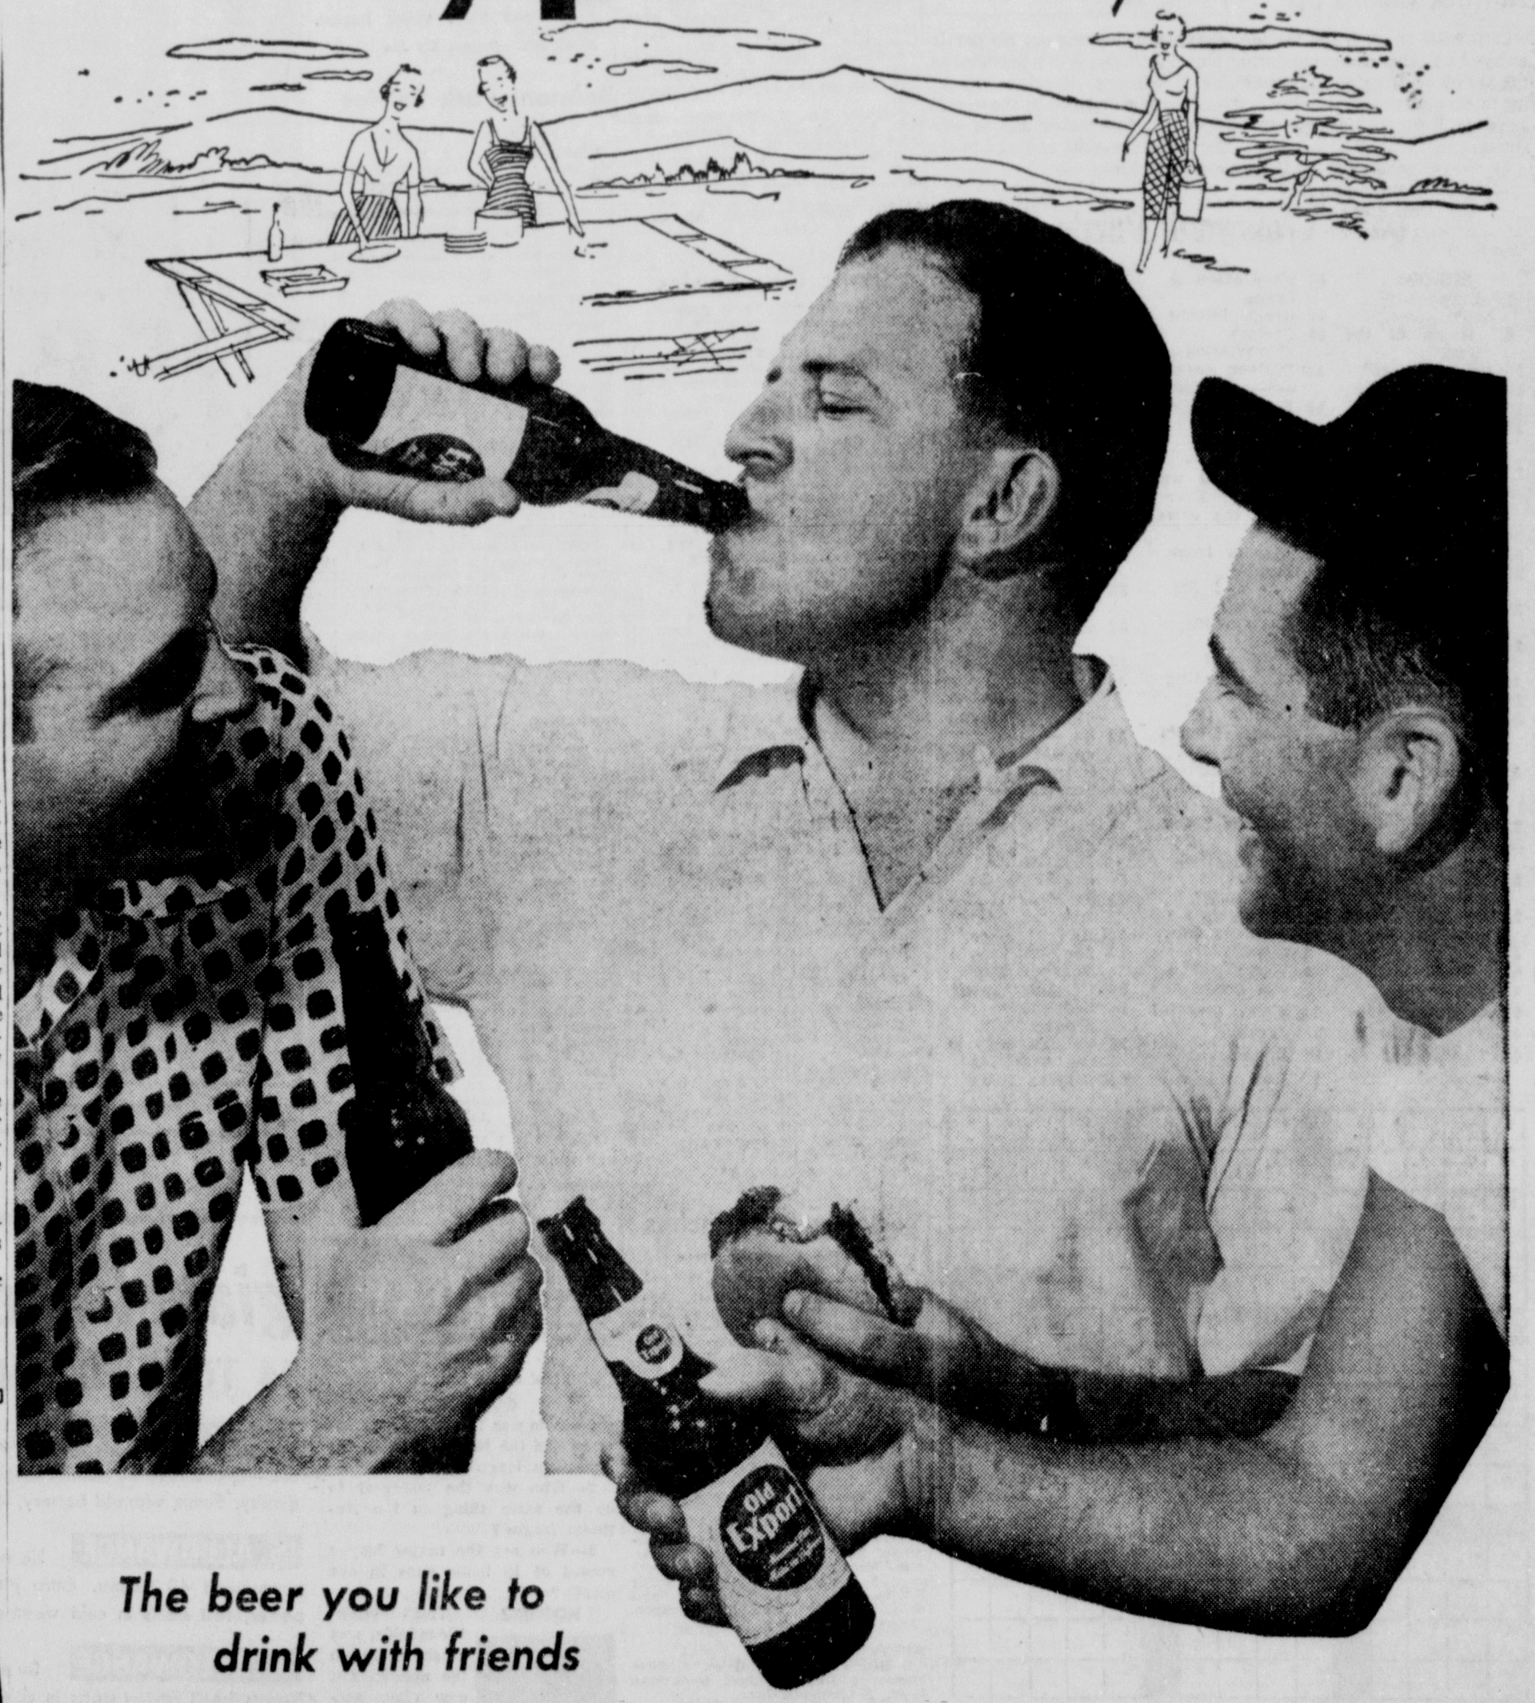

Today's rained out twin bill will be played tomorrow and Saturday, with double headers both days.

Shoemaker May Have Choice In International

Has Ridden Round Table, Gallant Man

LAUREL, Md., Sept. 12 (AP) — Jockey Willie Shoemaker may be faced on Nov. 11 with a choice between Gallant Man and Round Table in what undoubtedly will be billed as a showdown between the colts in the International race.

Travis M. Kerr of Oklahoma City was invited today to start Round Table in the $100,000 Laurel race a mile and a half on the grass. Ralph M. Lowe of Texas already has agreed to start Gallant Man.

Expresses Interest

Kerr has expressed interest in having the two colts meet on a neutral track since both are top candidates for best 3-year-old of 1957. Neither has raced at Laurel.

Shoemaker has ridden both colts several times, including his famous misjudging of the Kentucky Derby finish line on Gallant Man to finish second. Round Table, with Ralph Neves aboard, came in third.

Since then, Round Table has gone on a winning streak on the West Coast and in Chicago. Gallant Man did the same in New York.

Shoemaker rode Round Table to a victory in the American Derby on the grass in Chicago and will be on him Saturday in the United Nations Handicap, another turf race at Atlantic City. Round Table beat Calumet's Iron Liege, the Kentucky Derby winner, in the Chicago grass race.

Round Table has won seven straight races and is the leading money winner of the year with $424,450.

Never Won On Grass

Gallant Man's most notable victory after the Derby was in the Belmont. He has never run on grass.

A board of turf writers may invite United States representatives in addition to Gallant Man and Round Table to the International.

An Irish horse owned by John McShain of Philadelphia, Ballymoss, is the first foreign entry. Also a 3-year-old, Ballymoss won the Irish Derby and England's St. Leger.

The 3-year-olds will carry 122 pounds in the International.

Hartack Cleans Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Willie Hartack enjoyed a banner campaign during the 31-day Washington Park meeting in his quest to become the first rider to lead the jockeys three straight years.

He rode 69 winners at the Homewood oval, beating out his persistent challenger, Willie Shoemaker, by 21 winners. Hartack had 226 mounts and finished in the money with 141. Shoemaker had 48 winners in 155 mounts and was in the money 86 times.

150 Horses Entered In Bedford Show

Three-Day Event Starts Sept. 20

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 12—Five hundred horses are expected to participate in the fourth annual Bedford Horse Show to be held on September 20, 21 and 22, at the Bedford Fair Grounds. The show, which is recognized by both the Interstate and American Horse Show Association, is heralded as one of the outstanding events of its kind in the East.

Show Manager A. M. Hine, announced yesterday that more than 2,000 prize lists and entry blanks telling the Bedford story have been mailed to leading horsemen and exhibitors in 11 states and two Canadian provinces. Nearly 150 entries have been received to date, including "Go Boy Again", the world champion walking horse, and "The Painted Doll", the second ranking three-gaited horse in the United States.

Again this year the show is being sponsored by the Bedford Boot and Saddle Club, with the cooperation of the Lions, Hospital Auxiliary, Junior Chamber of Commerce and other local civic groups. All show proceeds are contributed towards charitable community projects.

Information relative to entries can be obtained from Mr. Hine. Tickets are currently on sale under the supervision of the ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary.

Orioles To Bring Back Two Hurlers

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced today that pitchers Don Ferrarese and Art Houtteman will join them from Vancouver after the Pacific Coast League season ends.

The coast schedule finishes Sunday but it is possible Vancouver will be engaged in a playoff.

Ferrarese and Houtteman were optioned to Vancouver early in the summer without being involved in any Oriole decisions. Ferrarese, a southpaw, has won 10, the last 7 in a row, and lost 5 at Vancouver. Houtteman, purchased from Cleveland, has a 5-5 record.

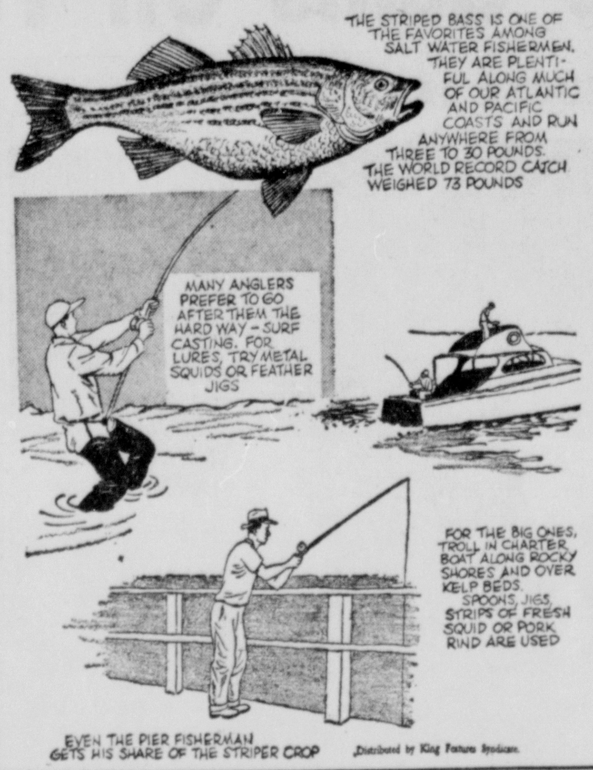

Takes Golf Post

SAN JUAN, P. R. (AP)—Ed Dudley, long associated with Augusta National Golf Club, will become golf pro at new Dorado Beach course being developed 25 miles west of here by Laurance S. Rockefeller. The new course will open in January.

Harley Sewell of the Detroit Lions works as a tool designer during the off-season from professional football.

Terps Hold Long Defensive Drill

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 12 (AP) — Maryland's football squad held a full-speed defensive drill today against the type of offense it expects to run up against Sept. 21 in the Texas A & M game.

Coach Tommy Mont limited offensive work to dummy drills designed to sharpening the passing attack.

The workout was held in temperatures hitting 88 degrees and humidity up to 92 per cent.

Fishing Favorable In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—Fishing throughout West Virginia this weekend is expected to be favorable, the Conservation Department said today.

All major streams in the state were reported low and clear, having been supplied with fresh water by the week's rainfall.

The department said fishing should be particularly good at the impoundments of water at the Bluestone and Grafton dams.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12—(INS)—Remember the name Diane Varsi—you'll be hearing a great deal about her. She's 18, blonde, and very photogenic. She plays the role of Allison, Lana Turner's daughter in "Peyton Place," but it hasn't ended there by any means. Buddy Adler has now given her the femme starring role in "Hell Bent Kid" opposite Don Murray.

Diane comes from San Francisco, and her professional career was limited to one stage appearance in "Gigi" in Los Angeles, before she struck gold at 20th Century-Fox.

"Hell Bent Kid," by Charles O. Locke, will be produced by Robert Buchner and directed by Henry Hathaway, and is set for Sept. 23 production.

Ty and Tay were lunching together in the polo lounge of the Beverly Hills Hotel, and when I saw my two old friends, Messrs. Power and Garnett, in a huddle, I thought there was something cooking, and there is.

The boys are planning a picture together, and by dint of coaxing, Ty finally told me he had bought a story titled "The Prospector," the biography of a Methodist minister, which he wants Tay to direct.

"It's a great story," said Ty, "and it's about a true character. You'll hear more about it later." Ty says he stays here for another two weeks before he heads east, but will do "Prospector" right here in California, which is a good bit of news.

If the George Raft life story seems right for Dean Martin, he'll play the Raft role. George tells me he would like to have Dean for the part.

"What about the dancing?" I asked George, who started his professional life as a hoofer.

"Dean is a good ballroom dancer, and can do the Charleston, and that's what I do, and he certainly dances well enough," said George.

George's life story appears in the SEP, starting Sept. 21. He was a little depressed when I talked to him because he was suffering from asthma, but I'm sure there's nothing wrong with him that a good movie won't cure.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

With the Andre Previns again broken up, it's anyone's guess whether he'll try to woo Peggy King again.

Willy Wyler will be back on "The Big Country" set Monday, according to Dr. Michael Flynn. His laryngitis should be cured by then.

The girl G. David Schine, managing director of the Schine hotels, sees most often is Warner Brothers actress Joanna Barnes, who is not only easy on the eye but intelligent.

Rodgers and Hammerstein have optioned some property near Disneyland to build a theatre.

The late Jimmy Dean's favorite dinner companion, Lili Kardell, has been dating Jockey Willie Hartack.

On Eddie Fisher's Oct. 29 TV show he'll dance a number with Betty Grable, who is very cute on TV.

Met Winnie Baxter Manger (Warner Baxter's widow) coming out of the Beverly Hills Hotel. She looks great, says she is very happy with her new husband, and is completely well now.

Frederick Loewe, collaborator on the great musical score of "My Fair Lady," finds his diversion at the little gypsy restaurant, where he used to accompany Shandor, the violinist.

Songwriter Sam Coslow and his wife have a January date with the stork.

Gower Champion celebrated his wife Marge's natal day at the Windsor with the Gordon MacRaes, Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, Lisa Kirk, and Bob Wells and several others.

State Considers Plan For Dam On Evitts Creek

Avirett Says Work Can Begin Monday

Plans for the construction of a seven-acre lake along Oldtown Road at the city limits were presented to the State Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources in Baltimore yesterday.

Department officials said they would take the plan under advisement at the close of the hearing attended by backers of the project, the City of Cumberland, the State Roads Commission and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

John W. Avirett, Baltimore, who is planning the development along with his brother, James A. Avirett here, urged an early decision, saying contracts have been awarded for the project, subject to the issuance of a permit, and that work will begin Monday if a permit is issued.

No objections were entered by the witnesses, who discussed the project at considerable length.

The City of Cumberland was represented by Thomas B. Finan, city attorney; C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and S. K. Carroll, city plumber.

The city was interested in two points in connection with the project. It was assured several weeks ago that a 27-inch sewer which must be relocated if the project is adopted, will be moved at no expense to the city.

Has Picnic Island

The city was also interested in the fact that the plans provide protection for a blowoff valve of the North Branch water line.

The valve would be located on an island in the center of the lake, and the spot will be used as a picnic area.

A. L. Grubb, bridge engineer, represented the State Roads Commission, which is interested since the lake and recreation area will adjoin the Cumberland Thruway.

Lester Kroll appeared for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which is engaged in a $13,000,000 yard expansion program here.

Fill Will Be Started

Mr. Kroll said that in about 30 days the B&O will want to make a fill at that point and that the railroad is interested in expediting the yard program.

All of the witnesses said they had studied the plans for the recreation area and park, and voiced no objections.

Considerable discussion was held, it was reported, on the principle which would be used to build the dam. It would employ the splashboard principle, which has been discussed as one possibility of boosting the storage capacity of Lake Gordon.

The lake would be formed by a dam located 200 feet north of Route 51 and about 1,200 feet north of the mouth of Wills Creek.

Water from Wills Creek would create an artificial lake with a maximum depth of seven feet.

Mill Asks Permit

Another hearing held yesterday before this state department was on the application of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company to use 2,000,000 gallons of water daily from the Savage River near its confluence with the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The mill wants the water for boiler feed water. The company is also applying for permission to construct a pipeline for the transportation of water from this point in the river to the mill.

Schools Begin New Records

A new cumulative record system required by the State Department of Education in all public schools of the state was explained yesterday afternoon to the elementary school principals of Allegany County.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools, said the new system is designed as a means of recording significant data about each pupil from the initial grades.

Teachers for many years have emphasized the place in teaching of knowing children. With this significant data available on each child, the problems of knowing children will be lessened.

Attending yesterday's session besides the elementary principals were the three supervisors of elementary education, Miss Elizabeth I. Flake, Miss Winifred Greene and Miss Mildred E. Willison, and the three visiting teachers, Miss Esther M. Carter, Frederick H. Sheeley and Eugene J. Hopkins.

The new system will be started in the first and seventh grades this year. Each year it will be started in new first and seventh grades so that in six years all grades will be covered.

Centre Street Shop Is Being Expanded

The Vandegrift Construction Company has applied for a permit to remodel the front of 18-20 North Centre Street.

The quarters, formerly occupied by two shops, are being converted to expand the Tots to Teens Shop, according to Arthur Friedland, proprietor. The property is owned by the Frater Realty Corporation, New York City.

Teamsters' Golden Gift

Charles E. Bramble, president of Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL-CIO), signs a check for $500 as the union's gift to the Golden Gifts Division of the County United Fund. Looking on are Charles E. Stutzman, left, vice president and business agent, and Joseph F. Garlitz, business agent and recording secretary. "This week, when we are celebrating the unity of organized labor through the merger of the AFL and CIO, is an appropriate time to make our gift to the United Fund, which has united the people of this area in a worthy cause," Mr. Bramble said.

Kelly Official Explains Increased Africa Interest

Reasons why Africa for centuries was a forgotten continent and is now a land of great interest to the American people were outlined by Arthur A. Verner, sales manager of the export division of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Mr. Verner was the speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

Africa was long a restricted area because of its lack of transportation, vile climate and lack of natural resources. There were no good harbors, only two navigable rivers and no animals for transportation except elephants, some imported horses and camels.

Since 1945 great interest in Africa has arisen because of increased population there, a higher standard of education, the demand for technical skilled labor to meet the needs of the people and new methods of exploration for natural resources which has resulted in the finding of large quantities of copper, manganese, tungsten and uranium.

In closing he cited some of the reasons for unrest in three particular areas of Africa.

The Mau Mau terror in Kenya, Mr. Verner compared with the situation of the American Indians in the 18th and 19th centuries. Like the Indians the Mau Maus want the right to freedom to hunt while the white people are desirous of increased agricultural output in this good farm land.

Egypt's chief difficulty is simply a lack of sufficient resources and food to supply the needs of its 12 million inhabitants. The Kelly official termed Nasser a fanatic whose Hitler-type promises are designed to take the minds of the people off their poverty.

The Union of South Africa is a country comprised of 12 million Negroes, 1,500,000 white people and 750,000 Indians. Most of the natives are uneducated and there is a scarcity of labor. Efforts to provide increased representation in the government, which is not a democracy, are complicated by a conflict between the conservative Boers of Dutch descent who are primarily farmers, and the more liberal British, who are interested in manufacturing and mining.

Allegany Co. Fire Network Holds Election

The Allegany County Fire Network, which is comprised of the City of Cumberland and 14 Allegany County volunteer fire departments which are equipped with two-way radio communication systems, held their annual meeting last night at LaVale Fire Hall.

A contract was renewed for one year with Floyd Harper of Cumberland, to serve as maintenance man for the fire service radio system. Mr. Harper said a radio drill will be held at the Frostburg Fire Department station Sunday at 2 p. m. and each company is invited to send one or more representatives. Demonstrations and instruction in use and care of radio will be featured and questions and problems of operators will be answered he said.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker of Cumberland spoke on the operation of the base station in Cumberland and Kenneth Close spoke on the operation and use of the base station at Frostburg. Both said the two-way system is being used more extensively and has served well in several recent emergency situations.

There are 33 radio units operated by the 14 member companies.

David Kirk was re-elected communication officer; Cromwell Zembower was re-elected secretary treasurer. Mr. Kirk is a member of the Bowling Green Company and Mr. Zembower is a member of the LaVale unit.

Survey Census Planned Here

Facts on employment and unemployment will be collected from a number of local families next week, according to Joseph S. Marlow, of the Bureau of Census in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Marlow said the information collected here will be combined with facts obtained in other parts of the country to provide national statistics.

The current population survey, conducted on a sample basis by the Census Bureau, provides data for national estimates on employment.

The survey also is related to population information, such as the number of persons who are not working because they are in school, retired or unable to work.

It also provides the availability of manpower for both defense and civilian production. The level of business activity is another measure of the census.

Coin Collectors Plan Activities, Member Drive

Indoor Meetings Resume Next Week

The Western Maryland Coin Club will move indoors for its first fall and winter meeting to be held Wednesday, September 18, at 7:30 p. m. on the second floor of City Hall.

The club, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, has functioned successfully during the summer months by holding meetings in Constitution Park.

The last outdoor meeting was a club-sponsored picnic prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bloss, members of the club.

The club, according to A. J. Cioni, president, will be very active in coming months.

Scheduled for October is a foreign coin exhibit. Since the exhibit coincides with the visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip to this country, it will consist of coin, medals and currency of Great Britain and her dominions.

Miss Martha Shaner is chairman of the exhibit committee and will be assisted by John Dorn and O. D. Keyser.

The club will have a display at the hobby show of the Business and Professional Womens Club November 4-6.

The coin club is also working on several projects for its junior members.

A drive will be made for new members, and anyone interested should contact the Recreation Department.

Judy Ritchey Heads League

Miss Judy Ritchey of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church was elected president of the Mountain District Luther League at a meeting last night in the social hall of St. Paul's.

Fred Eichner of St. John's was elected vice president; Miss Carolyn Yutzy, St. Luke's, corresponding secretary; Miss Beth DeHaven, St. Luke's, recording secretary, and Miss Dorothy Hill of St. Paul's at Frostburg, treasurer.

The officers were installed by Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor of the host church.

Reports were given by Miss Joyce Knisely and Miss Hill, on the National Luther League Convention at Lawrence, Kansas; and by Miss Yutzy and Miss Ritchey on the state convention last week at Gettysburg, Pa. Miss DeHaven gave a special report on activities in a Lutheran work camp.

Street Lights Dimmed

Street lights in the downtown area were darkened last night when the line apparently became partially grounded. Potomac Edison crewmen were patrolling the line to determine the exact cause late last night.

Lights were dimmed or out entirely in the South Mechanic, South Centre, Union and Harrison street areas, and on part of Williams Street.

Work On PE Unit Is Ahead Of Schedule

Big Line Project Nearing Completion

Work on Potomac Edison's new $13 million, 75,000 kilowatt generating unit addition at the R. Paul Smith Station in Williamsport is progressing "somewhat ahead of schedule" and should be on the line by October 1958, according to Potomac Edison President D. E. Stultz.

This report, given to members of the utility company's Board of Directors yesterday in Frederick, also revealed that work is nearing completion on the 63 mile heavy transmission line link between Junction, W. Va. and Millville, W. Va.

This line and its associated large terminal substations is being constructed at a cost of approximately $2,500,000, Mr. Stultz stated.

Meets Future Needs

It will provide the utility company's customers in the eastern and southern sections of its system with the insurance of a third big line for the transmission of power from neighboring electric light and power companies in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and even further west, until the new Smith Plant unit is placed in service.

Thereafter, the line will be an important one for supplying adequately the rapidly growing power requirements of the four-state area served by PE.

In connection with this project, a branch line will be placed in service from the new Stonewall Substation, near Clearbrook, Va., to the new Red Bud Substation near Winchester, Va.

It is expected by utility company officials that lines in this project will be in service before November 1.

The first leg of the 105-mile line, from the Albright, W. Va., generating station to the Junction Substation, was completed last year.

It is the largest line construction project in the history of the company.

New Peaks Set

President Stultz also reported that a series of recent one-hour and 24-hour record power demands by customers in The Potomac Edison System had occurred over the summer months.

The most recent records were set on August 16, when customers required 4,792,000 kilowatt hours during the 24-hours, and on September 3, when their demands for one hour were for 255,000 kilowatts.

He also reported a total of 157,468 customers were being served by the company as of August 31. This is an increase of 3,177 in the year to this date.

Local members of Potomac Edison's Board of Directors present at the meeting were Owen E. Hitchins, John J. McMullen and Charles A. Piper. Henry W. Price, manager of the company in the Cumberland area, also attended.

Store Takes Care Of Its Customers In Parking Ban

Curbside service was being offered by one North Centre Street store yesterday during the 4-6 p. m. parking ban.

The extra service was noted by Street Commisioner William H. Buchholtz, who said it worked like this:

The store had one of its clerks posted on the street outside the store.

Customers, he said, stopped momentarily to give their order, and were told to drive around the block. The merchandise, he said, was presented as the customer made the second trip past the store.

Special Holiday Marks Battle Of North Point

By ALBERT D. DARBY JR.
News Staff Writer

Why should the Court House be closed for another holiday again just ten days after Labor Day?

That question was raised by a few people around Prospect Square yesterday, especially some young Pennsylvanians who came here to obtain marriage licenses.

Yesterday was Defender's Day. That still doesn't answer the question for many people. They conclude that it must concern some war in America's past but that is about all they know.

Defender's Day commemorates the Battle of North Point which occurred on September 12, 1814. In that battle the British were halted in their effort to invade Baltimore by land.

A Heroic Defense

The History of Maryland by James McSherry, available for reference at the Cumberland Free Public Library, explained that British troops debarked at North Point, at the mouth of the Patapsco River, 14 miles from Baltimore, on that Monday morning of September 12 some 143 years ago.

General John Stricker, commanding a division of Americans, most of them Maryland militiamen, took a position about eight miles from Baltimore, his right resting on Bear Creek and his left covered by a marsh. His force numbered 3,100 men.

The British commander of some 5,000 troops, General Robert Ross, was killed in the opening volley. "The death of the British general filled his army with horror and dismay," the history explains.

As the British attacked, the Americans reserved fire. As the state history explains, the Americans waited until the foe was near enough for their artillery to belch forth its death-dealing "grape and canister, shot, old locks, pieces of broken muskets and everything they could cram into their guns."

British Fleet Departs

The British were halted and the next night their effort to bombard Fort McHenry, which prompted Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner," also met with failure. On September 15 and 16 the troops were embarked and the hostile fleet dropped down the Chesapeake Bay.

"The gallant defense of Baltimore saved the other Atlantic cities from attack and renewed general confidence in America's defenders when led by brave and skilled officers," McSherry concludes.

That Battle of North Point was a small affair under modern standards. The American losses included 24 killed, 139 wounded and 50 prisoners. The British losses were nearly twice as great.

Defender's Day is a state holiday and state and county employes observe it each September 12.

Turtle Tours City Airport

Workers at the Cumberland Municipal Airport yesterday captured a big turtle which took a notion to roam from the Potomac River.

Charles F. Heller, maintenance superintendent, said the big turtle was discovered as it tried to crawl under the door of one of the hangars of the airport.

The turtle, he said, had crossed both runways and the taxi strip after leaving the river.

Mr. Heller surmised that the turtle was seeking new water as the river has been particularly bad near the airport.

The snapper, Mr. Heller said, measured 28 inches in length, 18 inches across the back and weighed about 50 pounds.

Workers at the airport took the turtle to the Cumberland Cement and Supply plant on Walnut Island.

One of the workers there dropped him in a barrel, Mr. Heller said, and plans to "have turtle soup for a week."

Parents Will Sign Up For Study Groups

Registration Set For Sept. 23, 24

Registration for the revised parent-child study groups in Allegany County public schools will be held between 1 and 4 p.m. September 23 and 24 in the school principal's office, Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county schools, reported yesterday.

Mr. Higgins emphasized that all registrations must be forwarded to his office not later than Wednesday, September 25.

Leaders will be paid by the Board of Education for their service and the supervisor believes that each group should have at least 25 parents enrolled with a minimum attendance of 15. Each group will be restricted to those who register September 23 and 24. Groups will be closed at 4 p.m. September 25. Parents may enroll at the high schools as they will be a part of the parent-child study program.

The past four years there have been parent-child study groups in Allegany County, the number having reached a peak of 22 groups. The parent groups were led by members of the individual groups and some help was given leadership through parent leadership workshops.

After some research was made of the progress of these groups in changes of attitudes, prejudices and better understanding of children, it was decided to select 13 individuals who had been group participants and give them intensive training in leadership of child study groups.

The first workshop for these leaders was held for three days last May. Another workshop for the 13 is planned September 17, 18 and 19. The workshop will be led by Dr. John Kurtz, assisted by Jacob Goering of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland, and the pupil personnel department.

Car Strikes School Bus

A Spring Gap woman required hospital treatment yesterday afternoon when the car her husband was driving was demolished along Oldtown Road when it rammed into the rear of a stopped school bus.

Mrs. Bessie May Hetrick, 52, required stitches at Memorial Hospital for a forehead laceration about 4 p. m.

The accident occurred about three-quarters of a mile east of Cumberland near the road to the city dump. Roger Pisaneschi of 927 Grand Avenue, who was driving the bus for St. Mary's School, told State Trooper Joseph V. Stakem that he had stopped to discharge passengers while headed toward Cumberland when the accident occurred. The trooper said no one on the bus was injured.

Besides driving the bus, Mr. Pisaneschi also serves at sexton of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The 1950 model automobile, which was being driven by William Hetrick Sr. of Spring Gap, was demolished and Trooper Stakem estimated damage to the bus at $100.

No charge have been preferred but Trooper Stakem is continuing the investigation.

Rep. Hyde Urged To Tour Canal

Ross F. Shaw, Oldtown, reported yesterday that he has invited Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde to make a personal tour of the C & O Canal in that area.

He said he wants the Sixth District Congressman to see the canal between Town Creek to Big Pond.

Mr. Shaw said this stretch of the canal has been leased to the Inland Fish and Game Commission and is being used for fish propagation and for fishing.

The stagnant area, he added, is a breeding place for mosquitoes and a possible source of malaria.

Deaths

Arnold, Herman W., 38, Cherry Run, W. Va.

Hetrick, Mrs. Samantha, 69, of Cove.

Hollern, Francis P., 57, Asheville, Pa.

Loy, Mrs. Claggett, 70, of 215 Cecelia Street.

Miller, Mrs. Paul D., 38, formerly of Keyser, W. Va.

Watchford, Kenneth Jr., infant, Thomas, W. Va.

Vital Workers Receive Shots Of Flu Vaccine

Use For Children Approved By State

Protectiton against Asian Influenza is being provided for the guardians of the health of this area.

Personnel of the Allegany County Health Department will receive shots of the vaccine as soon as supplies are received from the State Health Department.

Ordered was 40 cubic centimeters of the vaccine, enough to provide immunization against the new virus strain for all regular members of the Health Department staff.

The vital protection has been, or is being provided for the staffs of area hospitals.

Gives 200 Shots

Sacred Heart Hospital has given inoculations to about 200 members, representing virtually all of its regular personnel, and others will receive the protection as soon as additional vaccine arrives.

A similar inoculation program was scheduled to get under way early this week at Memorial Hospital.

The State Health Department this week reported that it was approving the influenza vaccine containing the "Asian" strain for use in children.

Earlier, state health officials had recommended that in addition to "individuals necessary for the care of the sick and other essential community services" emphasis should be placed on those with chronic illnesses, such as tuberculosis and cardiovascular disease.

Must Include Strain

It was generally agreed that the customary age of three months starting other immunizations also be used for the Asian influenza.

The State Health Department warned that vaccines can be expected to provide protection against Asian influenza only if one of the new variant strains is included.

Administration of influenza virus vaccines in the past has been shown to reduce the incidence of influenza virus prevalent at the time, provided it has been given at least 10 days and not more than a year before exposure.

Former C&P Manager Here Is Promoted

Robert L. Schleunes, manager of the Cumberland office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company from August 1941 to April 1943, has been appointed general operations supervisor.

Mr. Schleunes, who assumed his new duties on September 1, will supervise operations at group headquarters for four C&P companies.

He started his telephone career in Washington, D. C., in 1929 as a clerk in the accounting department. In May of that year he transferred to the Maryland company as a clerk in the commercial department.

After holding several other positions over the next 14 years, including sales manager, commercial supervisor and manager, he was appointed district commercial manager in Hagerstown, after leaving the local office.

Six years later Mr. Schleunes became division commercial manager, outstate, and in 1952 was made general commercial supervisor. He was appointed general sales and servicing manager in 1954.

Two Boys Are Hit By Cars

Police early last night investigated two accidents which caused injuries to children.

Gary Raymond Klavuhn, 7, of 540 Greene Street, was treated in Sacred Heart Hospital for lacerations of the elbow and scalp after the bicycle he was riding collided with a car at the intersection of Paca and South Walnut Place.

Detective Joseph H. Stitcher, who investigated, said the lad was riding his bike down Walnut Place at 7:40 p.m. and failed to stop at the intersection.

He said the lad reported he sailed across Paca Street and hit a car driven by Walter J. Slomiany, Route 1, LaVale Court.

Valentine J. Aman, 3, of 213 Hay Street, was treated in the same hospital for lacerations of the elbow and scalp after he was struck by a car on North Centre Street at the Viaduct.

Det. Stitcher said the child darted in front of a car driven by Harriet Fay Jenkins, 20, of 531 O'Neil Street, at 7:30 p.m.

He said the driver was charged with operating on a learner's permit without being accompanied by a licensed driver. She posted $11.45 bond for a hearing September 30.

Blacksnake Killed

John Rhodes, 319 Frederick Street, killed a blacksnake nearly four feet long in his backyard yesterday at 7 p.m.

New Teachers, Principal Welcomed

The Mt. Savage Parent-Teacher Association held a reception last night at the school to honor the new principal and teachers. Left to right are Bing Elliott, music instructor; Miss Betty Shirey, home economics and English teacher; J. Hubert Radcliffe, newly appointed principal; John W. Miller, general science teacher; and Edwin Gillis, art instructor. The reception was attended by several hundred parents, friends and teachers of the school.
